I. The College

Barnard is a selective liberal arts college for women, affiliated with Columbia University and integrally related to New York City. Barnard is committed to the fundamental values of the liberal arts and sciences, and our curriculum reflects that commitment. The cultural and social resources of New York and the intellectual resources of Columbia University are as much a part of an undergraduate education at Barnard as the commitment to learning and scholarship which is everywhere apparent in the College environment.

Because the liberal education offered at Barnard is so rich, admission to the College is highly competitive. For those who are admitted, four years at the College presents an extensive array of opportunities both to contribute to the community and to draw from it, and the College seeks therefore to admit diversified groups of students who will benefit to the fullest extent from the unique Barnard experience.

BARNARD'S HISTORY

Barnard College was among the pioneers in the late nineteenth century crusade to make higher education available to young women.

Barnard College grew out of the idea, first proposed by Columbia University's tenth president, Frederick A.P. Barnard, that young women share in the opportunity for higher education. Initially ignored, the idea was developed by President Barnard until it led to the creation of a "Collegiate Course for Women." Under the new plan highly qualified women were authorized to follow a prescribed course leading ultimately to a Columbia degree, but no provision was made for where and how they were to pursue their studies. This arrangement was abandoned six years later when Columbia's trustees agreed to the establishment of an affiliated college for women. A provisional charter and the promise of funds were secured, and Barnard College was named in honor of its earliest and most persistent advocate.

In October 1889, the first Barnard class met in a rented brownstone house at 343 Madison Avenue with fourteen students enrolled in the School of Arts, twenty-two "specials" enrolled in science because they lacked the entrance requirements in Greek, and a faculty of six.

Nine years later Barnard moved to its present site on Morningside Heights, and in 1900 was included in the educational system of Columbia University with provisions which at that time were unique among women's colleges: it was to be governed by its own Trustees, Faculty, and Dean, and was responsible for its own endowment and plant, while sharing the instruction, the library, and the degrees of a university.

The College

BARNARD TODAY

Today Barnard has a teaching staff of almost 200 men and women, outstanding scholars whose primary concern is the education of undergraduate students at the College, and many of whom bring an added vitality to their teaching from their professional activities outside the classroom. From the original fourteen matriculated students, enrollment has increased to 2,300; since 1893 Columbia has awarded its degree to 23,500 Barnard students. The original gifts of support have expanded to the current endowment funds of $27,000,000.

In 1982, Barnard and Columbia amended and extended their longstanding agreement for cooperation between the two institutions. Barnard is an independent liberal arts college for women with its own curriculum, faculty, admissions standards, and graduation requirements. At the same time, Barnard and Columbia share resources and Barnard and Columbia students thereby have open access to the courses offered by either institution and to each other's faculty, libraries and facilities. Barnard and Columbia students also share in extra-curricular activities and daily life.

More than fifty years ago, Nicholas Murray Butler, one of Columbia's great presidents, observed, "New York is intensely cosmopolitan and contact with its life for a short time during the impressionableness of youth is in itself a liberal education." The city is an extension of the campus, utilized by every department to narrow the gap between learning and living. Barnard is a university college in an international city, and today the curriculum affirms and encourages precise and graphic use of its vast metropolitan resources.

The College

THE LIBERAL ARTS CURRICULUM

A liberal arts education at Barnard is composed of a broad distribution of course work with intensive study in a departmental or disciplinary major.

As befits a College of Barnard's extraordinary quality, the Faculty is regularly engaged in considering and reconsidering all aspects of the curriculum. In 1982 this process resulted in the adoption of a new set of degree requirements—a program of courses which the Faculty believes will offer stimulating and enriching educational opportunities for all students, while at the same time permitting each to tailor the manner in which the requirements are fulfilled to suit her own propensities, strengths, and interests. The new degree requirements will apply to students who begin their studies at Barnard in the fall of 1984 and thereafter; they are fully described on page 35. Degree requirements for those admitted prior to 1984 are listed on page 38.

Assistance in planning her individual course of study is given by the student's class adviser, a member of the teaching staff who supervises the work of the freshman and the sophomore years. At the end of this period, each student chooses her major field. During the junior and senior years her major adviser guides advanced study in the areas of concentration and other phases of the college work. Twenty-seven departments offer major programs and seven interdepartmental majors are also available.

Classes vary in size. Those in which student participation is important are small. Introductory courses and classes taught primarily by the lecture method are often divided into small groups for conference and discussion. Laboratory work in the sciences is conducted with the most modern laboratory equipment. There are opportunities for independent work and students may also be invited to participate in research projects with members of the Faculty.

An integral and pervasive aspect of academic life at Barnard College is the school's Honor System, instituted in 1912.

The College

THE FACULTY

The Barnard faculty consists of scholar-teachers who have long recognized that their teaching depends upon their scholarship and grows out of it. The range of the Barnard curriculum fairly reflects this understanding, both in its concentration upon the traditional disciplines of learning and in its innovative interdisciplinary programs. The scholarly commitment of the Barnard faculty is constantly shown, too, in the variety and quality of its many research projects, its books and articles in learned journals, its participation in academic societies, and its many different kinds of publication and performance. But its abiding achievement is a constant demonstration in the classroom of the binding ties of teaching and scholarship to each other which simply will not accept the possibility of any serious conflict between them. For in these central functions, Barnard's scholar teachers honor the enduring values of their profession.

SPECIAL CONCERNS ABOUT THE EDUCATION OF WOMEN

The mission of Barnard College is the provision of undergraduate education of the highest quality in an environment which is particularly sensitive to the intellectual and personal needs of its women students. While Barnard students enjoy a range of curricular and extra-curricular opportunities with Columbia, at Barnard they benefit from an atmosphere in which women currently comprise approximately 50% of the tenured faculty and are well-represented on all levels of the administration. These women serve as important role models for our students, who in turn are encouraged to assume leadership functions while on campus which equip them for similar roles later in life.

Acknowledging today's complex and changing climate for women, the Barnard Women's Center exists to offer a wide range of programs and services, both academic and non-academic. These include an extensive resource collection of books, articles, and periodicals, conferences, speakers, films, and poetry readings. The Center strives to provide continuity and links between students and alumnae and between the College and women on and off the campus.

SPECIAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

Barnard's location in America's largest and most diverse city and its affiliation with one of the nation's most distinguished universities make it possible for the College to offer some truly unusual educational opportunities. Some of these are formal programs, while others are resources tapped by students on an individual basis. The vast curricular resources of Columbia University are available without cost or difficulty to the student—including such academic areas as non-Western cultures and literatures, an extensive number of exotic languages, international studies, advanced scientific and technological studies, etc. Schools on Morningside Heights with which Barnard has formal programmatic relationships—each of which is described in more detail elsewhere in this catalogue—include Manhattan School of Music, the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, Teacher's College, and Columbia's Graduate School of Architecture and Planning, School of Law, School of Engineering. Many other academic organizations—both within and outside the University—offer opportunities for research, study, studio experience, career internships, or other relationships, depending on the special needs and interests of the individual student.

THE CAMPUS

The Campus occupies four acres of urban property along Broadway between 116th and 120th Streets. At the southern end of the campus, three residence buildings, Brooks, Hewitt, and Helen Reid Halls, face Altschul Court, a landscaped quadrangle.

The College

Barnard Hall is just north of the open courtyard and contains seminar rooms, classrooms, and faculty offices, as well as a gym, a swimming pool, and dance studios. The Sulzberger Parlor on the third floor is used for meetings and small social events.

Adele Lehman Hall contains the Wollman Library and two floors of faculty offices and classrooms. The library includes the reserve room on the first floor, the reference area, periodicals, microforms, and open book stacks on the second floor, and on the third floor audiovisual facilities, an exhibit gallery, and more open stacks. Computer terminals for the Economics and Political Science Departments are also located in Lehman. The building overlooks a lawn surrounded by trees and shrubs.

Helen Goodhart Altschul Hall and the Millicent McIntosh Center, which were dedicated jointly in November 1969, face each other across an open plaza. The fourteen stories of Altschul Hall are devoted primarily to the sciences but also house the Herbert H. Lehman Auditorium on the first floor, and a language laboratory on the fourth. The laboratory, which contains 60 booths, is used by both Barnard and Columbia language students. Headquarters for student activities, a snack bar and a lounge are located in the McIntosh Center. Student mailboxes are there as well as music practice rooms, recreation and television rooms, bowling alleys, an art exhibit area and the Jean T. Palmer Room for conferences.

Milbank Hall occupies the northern extreme of the campus and houses administrative and faculty offices, classrooms, a greenhouse, and the Minor Latham Playhouse, a small well-equipped modern theater. The Language Departments maintain social and reading rooms in Milbank Hall.

Columbia University is directly across Broadway from the Barnard campus. Off campus, but in the immediate neighborhood, Barnard maintains other residence halls, including 600, 616, and 620 West 116th Street, three apartment buildings at Plimpton Hall, completed in 1968; and a newly-renovated building at 49 Claremont Avenue.

Barnard Camp is a 20-acre tract in Westchester County about 35 miles from New York City. The Camp and its rustic lodge, Holly House, are used by the College for both recreational and educational purposes.

STUDENT LIFE

Barnard's student population is cosmopolitan in nature. While one-third of the students have families within commuting distance, others come from nearly every state and some twenty-five foreign countries. The students represent diversity in background and training, and a mingling of economic, regional and cultural strains finds expression in the life of the campus.

Every Barnard student is a member of the Undergraduate Association, which sponsors extracurricular activities reflecting current interest: the college newspaper, the literary magazine, dramatic groups, political and religious organizations, and pre-professional and departmental clubs. Cooperation between Barnard and Columbia groups is common. Many activities, such as the University's chorus and its orchestra, its radio station, and a community service program enlist members from both campuses. During the past ten years the structure of Barnard's student government has undergone fundamental revision, culminating in the development of tripartite college committees. Students, faculty, and administrators serving on these committees share responsibility for policy recommendations in the areas of curriculum, housing, financial aid, orientation, and the library.

The Honor Code, instituted at Barnard in 1912, governs all aspects of academic life. A Judicial Council of undergraduates, faculty and staff, recommends disciplinary action for nonacademic offenses.

Religious organizations and activities with headquarters on the Columbia campus at Earl Hall encompass nearly every faith and are open to all students. The Thursday Noon Meeting at Barnard provides a weekly forum for discussion of a wide range of contemporary issues. Student artists with a diversity of talents and interests collaborate to produce Winter and Spring Festivals.

The College

The Recreation and Athletic Association sponsors many activities which include intramurals, sports week and special events. The intercollegiate athletic program sponsors varsity teams in Archery, Basketball, Cross-Country, Fencing, Swimming and Diving, Tennis, Track and Field, and Volleyball. Varsity teams enjoy regular competitive schedules and expert coaching. Opportunities are provided to advance to Ivy League, State, Regional and National championships.

Approximately 90% of those students who are eligible to continue at the college are enrolled in any given year; of the remaining 10%, about half are readmitted after one or more terms away for study, travel, or other reasons. An average of 80% of any entering class is graduated from Barnard. Senior classes are larger than entering classes because transfer students are admitted with sophomore and junior standing.

Every year the Office of Career Services collects and summarizes information about post-baccalaureate study and employment. In the first year after graduation, 45 to 50% of those who receive the degree enter full-time graduate or professional study at once, with the largest proportions opting for medical schools (10-12%), law schools (10-12%), business schools (1-2%), and education schools (2-3%). The rest, with the exception of fewer than 1%, obtain employment in business and industry, the arts, communications, teaching, social services, and other fields.

II. Admission

Selection of Candidates

The Committee on Admissions selects young women of proven academic strength who exhibit the potential for further intellectual growth. In addition to their high school records, recommendations, and College Entrance Examination Board scores, the candidates' special abilities and interests are also given careful consideration. While admission is highly selective, no one criterion determines acceptance. Each applicant is considered in terms of her individual qualities of mind and spirit and her potential for successfully completing four years of study at Barnard.

Barnard also seeks students from diverse educational and cultural backgrounds and from many geographic regions. However, no preconceived profile of an ideal student population limits the number of applicants accepted from any one group. The College admits students and administers its financial aid and loan programs, educational policies and programs, recreational programs and other College programs and activities without regard to race, color, creed, national origin, or handicap.

Freshman Application Procedures

Students are admitted to the freshman class in September and, in limited numbers, in January. They must be at least fifteen years of age.

Application for admission to the freshman class should be made by February 1 for entrance in September of the same year. It is advisable, however, to apply in the fall of the senior year in high school. Application forms may be obtained by writing to the Office of Admissions.

A nonrefundable fee of $30 must accompany each application. Checks or money orders must be in U.S. funds drawn on a U.S. bank and made payable to Barnard College. Students with great financial need should request a fee-waiver from their high school counselor and send it with the application.

Secondary School Preparation

Each candidate for admission must offer a college preparatory program from an approved secondary school or an equivalent education representing a four-year course of study. Academic preparation for admission should be based on the requirements for the A.B., or liberal arts, degree. A recommended program would comprise four years of work in English; three years in mathematics; three or four years in a foreign language (ancient or modern); two years in science with laboratory; and one year in history. An introduction to a second foreign language is generally useful. The remainder of the program would include additional work in the aforementioned subjects with the possible addition of music and art. Applications varying from this pattern are considered without discrimination if the candidate's records indicate genuine intellectual ability and high motivation.

College Entrance Examination Boards

Barnard requires all freshman candidates to take the College Entrance Examination Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and three Achievement Tests, one of which must be in English composition or literature. These tests should be taken by January of the senior year. As early as possible, candidates should write directly to the College Entrance Examination Board, Box 592, Princeton, New Jersey 08540 for the Bulletin of Information containing descriptions of the Scholastic Aptitude and Achievement Tests, directions for filing applications, the dates on which examinations are administered, and a list of examination centers. Dates vary from year to year and applications to take the tests must be received by the CEEB well in advance of the test.

Admission

It is the student's responsibility to direct the College Entrance Examination Board to send official test scores to the Office of Admissions. The Barnard College code for this purpose is 2038.

Recommendations

Another important part of the application is the submission of two recommendations, one from the high school counselor and the other from a teacher of the candidate's choice. These recommendations give the Committee on Admissions additional information about the candidate's interests, character, skills, and aptitude, and should be as complete as possible.

Interviews

Although not required, an interview is highly recommended. For students who are able to visit the campus, interviews and tours can be arranged by writing or calling the Office of Admissions (212-280-2014). Appointments are scheduled Monday through Friday from nine-thirty to twelve in the mornings and from two to four in the afternoons, and on Saturday mornings. For those who are unable to arrange interviews at the College, appointments can be made with Barnard Area Representatives whose names are listed on pages 287-292 or with the College Admissions Officers who visit major metropolitan areas throughout the country each fall.

SPECIAL APPLICATION PROCEDURES

Early Decision

Well-qualified high school seniors who have selected Barnard as their first choice college may apply under one of two Early Decision Plans (EDP). To be considered under the Fall Early Decision Plan, a candidate should submit her application and other required credentials (listed above under freshman application procedures) to the Office of Admissions by November 15. She will be notified of the Committee's decision no later than December 15. To be considered under the Winter Early Decision Plan, a candidate should submit a completed application, with all supporting credentials, by January 15 for notification of the Committee's decision no later than February 15. Under either plan, a student may initiate regular applications to other colleges; she must, however, withdraw all other applications upon admission to Barnard. (Notification of financial aid for those candidates who have demonstrated financial need will follow the admissions decision.) To reserve a place in the freshman class, an Early Decision student must submit a nonrefundable enrollment deposit following her decision to enroll. This deposit is applied toward total annual tuition and fees for the freshman year.

The Winter Early Decision Plan recognizes that some candidates may decide on their college preference later than others. The same criteria are used in the evaluation of applicants under both plans. The Committee on Admissions may choose to postpone decision on any EDP application until the spring. In that event, the student is asked to submit a record of school work from the first half of the senior year.

Deferred Enrollment

An admitted freshman or transfer student who wishes to defer enrollment in Barnard for one year must obtain permission by writing to the Director of Admissions explaining the reasons for the deferral request. Such a request is normally granted for purposes of work, travel, or pursuit of a special interest.

Foreign Students

Each year Barnard enrolls a number of qualified foreign students. These students are expected to follow the same application procedures and present the same credentials as other candidates, including the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and three Achievement Tests. Foreign students who are considering Barnard are encouraged to communicate with the Director of Admissions well in advance of entrance so that the College may assist them with their plans.

Admission

Knowledge of the English language is essential for admission. Those students whose native language is not English are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Information about registration for the test is obtained by writing the TOEFL Program, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. If the TOEFL scores cannot be presented, students are required to take the American University Language Center Test. Arrangements for it should be made through the United States Consulate.

After enrolling at Barnard, foreign students receive assistance with academic placement from the Foreign Student Adviser in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Transfer Students

Barnard welcomes transfer students in the sophomore and junior classes each year. Applications for admission with advanced standing are considered beginning on March 1 for admission in September and by November 1 for admission in January.

Each candidate must submit a formal application and the following credentials: the secondary school record, the results of the SAT's or, if appropriate, the TOEFL, a recommendation from the secondary school counselor and from the college dean or adviser, an official transcript of all college work, and a copy of the college catalogue in which the courses taken are clearly marked.

A strong record of not less than one year's work at an accredited college, foreign university, or equivalent institution is required. In some cases, advanced credit cannot be assigned until a student has had an opportunity to establish a satisfactory record at Barnard, but, in general, credit is given for courses which are similar in content and depth to Barnard courses.

After acceptance, academic and general guidance is provided by the Advisers to Transfer Students in the Office of the Dean of Studies. For information on financial aid, students should consult page 21.

Visiting Students

Qualified students who are degree candidates at other colleges may apply for admission as visiting students (Other College Degree Candidates) for one or two semesters. Each applicant must present a satisfactory college record and a letter of approval from the dean or major adviser from the degree-granting school.

Readmission

Barnard students who have not been registered for one or two terms may return without applying for readmission by notifying the Dean of Studies. Students who have not been registered for more than two consecutive semesters must apply for readmission to the Director of Admissions by November 1 for the Spring term and by May 1 for the Autumn term. A nonrefundable fee of $30 must accompany each application.

Resumed Education Program

Former Barnard students who wish to return to the College after an absence of at least five years to complete the A.B. degree or for further study in new areas of interest after graduation may obtain applications from the Director of Advising and Services for Resumed Education Students in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Admission with Advanced Placement

Credit for advanced work completed in secondary school is determined on the basis of Advanced Placement scores and by the policy of the Barnard department concerned. Departmental policies are outlined in departmental descriptions and requirements. As much as a year of degree credit (normally 30 points) will be granted.

III. Financial Information

Annual Tuition and Fees

The costs of education at Barnard are met by tuition, income from endowment, current gifts from alumnae and other friends of the College, and grants from foundations, corporations, and government agencies. The College makes every effort to limit charges to students, but must reserve the right to set tuition and fees at the level necessary for the maintenance of a high quality of instruction.

Schedule of Annual Tuition and Fees

The following tuition and fees are required from all students for the Academic Year 1983-1984 and are subject to change without prior notice.

Tuition
Full program (12-18 points)	$8,590
Partial program (1-11½ points)	287 per point
Excess program (over 18 points)	287 per point

Payment of charges and fees

All charges and fees (unless otherwise noted) are billed on a semester basis. The Autumn Term tuition is due August 1, for returning students, August 15th, for freshmen, and September 1st for transfers. The Spring Term tuition is due by December 15. Payments received after these dates are subject to a late processing fee of $25. Registration for either semester will not be complete until all College costs have been paid. Failure to complete registration on time imposes the late registration fee. Occupancy of an assigned dormitory room will not be permitted until charges have been paid in full as required. Students admitted after August 1 must pay the balance due (one-half of the annual charges and fees) by the first day of registration.

Financial aid grants and any loans applied for may be deducted from the semester tuition before computation is made of the balance due.

Privileges of the College, including issuing of transcripts and administration of examinations are not available to any student who is delinquent in the payment of her College bills. When bills are not paid in full by their due date or satisfactory arrangements for their payments have not been made with the Bursar, the student will not be allowed to register and may be required to withdraw from the College. College costs include annual tuition and fees, residence charges (if any), fines due the libraries and the Columbia Bookstore, assessments for room damage, and other charges that might be incurred throughout the College community.

All charges and fees are subject to change at any time at the discretion of the Board of Trustees

Checks or money orders in payment of tuition and fees must be in U.S. funds (at a U.S. bank) payable to Barnard College. Checks or money orders should be made out for the exact amount of the payment due.

Deposits

All students. To obtain a place on the College roster for the ensuing academic year, each student who is currently enrolled must pay a deposit of $100 toward annual tuition and fees on or before May 15. An applicant for admission will be billed for the deposit at the time she accepts admission to the College. If the Bursar is notified by July 1 that a student does not plan to return to Barnard for the academic year 1983-1984, the entire deposit of $100 will be refunded. After July 1, $50 of the deposit is forfeited.

Financial Information

Students in Residence. New students who have been offered space must submit a deposit of $200 by May 15. The entire $200 deposit will be applied toward the cost of the room. If the Bursar is notified of a cancellation of the room request by July 1, $100 will be refunded ($100 is non-refundable upon receipt). All returning “resident” students must pay their $200 room deposit in person prior to the room lottery held in March.

Deferred Payment

For students and parents desiring to pay education costs in monthly payments, a choice of payment plans is available. The College has arranged to participate in the Tuition Plan of New Hampshire, the School-Chex program offered by Irving Trust, New York, the new insured tuition plan offered by Richard C. Knight and the payment plan of Academic Management Services Inc. Information can be obtained from the Barnard Business Office.

Adjustment of fees and refunds

For changing program of study. If a student changes her program and the tuition called for is lower than the amount she has already paid, she will be refunded the excess only if the alteration in her program is made by September 16 (last day of program filing) in the Autumn Term and by February 1 in the Spring Term. If the new program calls for higher tuition, the student is responsible for paying the additional charges promptly.

Financial Aid

Insofar as possible, Barnard assists qualified students who demonstrate financial need. Barnard does not discriminate against applicants for financial aid on the basis of race, color, creed, national origin or handicap.

Financial aid from the College consists of grants, loans, and opportunities for part-time employment. In addition to providing financial aid from its own funds, i.e. gifts, endowment, and general income, Barnard participates in the following Federal programs: the Pell Grant program, the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant program, the National Direct Student Loan program, the Federally Guaranteed Student Loan program, and the College Work-Study program. Barnard also participates in the New York State Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP). Federal funds are administered by the College in accordance with government regulations and the College’s general policies relating to financial aid. To supplement the above mentioned financial aid sources students are urged to investigate state loan and scholarship/tuition assistance programs and college tuition financing plans offered by local banks and insurance companies.

Any student who thinks she will need financial aid in order to attend Barnard is encouraged to apply for aid. The decision of the Committee on Admissions to admit a student is not affected by the fact that a student has applied for or demonstrated need for financial aid.

A detailed explanation of current College policies and awarding practices may be found in the brochure, Barnard College Financial Aid Policies and Procedures, available from the Office of Financial Aid.

IV. Student Life

Barnard students soon discover that their classmates may also be counted among the principal resources of their undergraduate years. Cosmopolitan in nature, the student population includes residents from nearly every state and some twenty-five foreign countries as well as those who live within commuting distance. Diversity is one generalization that can be safely made about Barnard students, and a mingling of economic, regional, ethnic, and cultural groups is evident in campus life.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT AND ORGANIZATIONS

During the past ten years the structure of Barnard's student government has undergone fundamental revision, culminating in the development of College Committees on which students, faculty, and administrators serve, and which recommend policy and procedural changes in the areas of curriculum, housing, financial aid, college activities, athletics, and commencement.

All Barnard students are members of the Undergraduate Association which elects a representative student government. "Undergrad" sponsors extracurricular activities and special events reflecting the range of cultural, political, pre-professional, and academic interests of the student body. These groups, which include the Pottery Co-op, Barnard Organization of Black Women, Société Française, Commuter Action Coalition, and Women in Health Careers, for example, are funded by the assessment of a student activities fee. The student newspaper, Bulletin, is published weekly and the Barnard Literary Magazine is an annual publication. Students with a variety of talents collaborate to produce Winter and Spring Festivals featuring concerts, theatre and dance performances, art exhibitions, ethnic food, and pottery and plant sales. Theatre-Goers Guild offers students the opportunity to attend professional dance, theatre, and opera in New York at reasonable prices. Students in many academic disciplines supplement coursework with department-sponsored programs, lecture series, and performances during the school year.

Cooperation between Barnard and Columbia groups is common. Many activities such as the University's chorus, orchestra, radio station, and community service programs enlist members from both campuses. Religious organizations and activities with headquarters on the Columbia campus in Earl Hall encompass every faith and are open to all students. For more complete information, students should consult "A Guide to Barnard," the student handbook, and inquire at either the College Activities Office or the Undergraduate Association office in McIntosh Center.

The Recreation and Athletic Association sponsors many activities including intramurals, sports week, and special events. The intercollegiate athletics program is operated in cooperation with Columbia University as a consortium in NCAA Division I and includes varsity teams in archery, basketball, cross-country, fencing, indoor and outdoor track and field, swimming, tennis, and volleyball. Consult the Director of Athletics for further information.

Student Life

Recreational facilities include a snack bar, lounge, music practice rooms, pottery studio, dark room, and bowling alleys in McIntosh Center; swimming pool, gym, and dance studios in Barnard Hall; and tennis courts just one block away in Riverside Park. Barnard students have access to all recreational facilities of the University as well. About thirty-five miles from New York, Barnard maintains a twenty-acre camp and lodge, Holly House, for both recreational and educational purposes. For additional information and fees, consult the Holly House Secretary, Alumnae Office, 221 Milbank Hall.

STUDENT CONDUCT

The Honor Code, instituted at Barnard in 1912, governs all aspects of academic life and is enforced by an Honor Board which has a membership of students and faculty members. A more complete explanation of the system may be found in the student handbook, "A Guide to Barnard." A Judicial Council of undergraduates, faculty, and staff recommends disciplinary action for nonacademic offenses.

Enrollment in the College, award of academic credit, and conferring of the degree are subject to disciplinary powers vested by the Barnard Board of Trustees in appropriate officers of instruction and administration and in College Committees.

Each student who registers at Barnard agrees to maintain the honor code which provides that she will not ask for, give, or receive help in examinations or quizzes, or present oral or written work that is not entirely her own. Library regulations and independent study courses are also governed by the code.

Policies and regulations concerning student conduct on the University campus and in the College residence facilities are recommended by student, faculty, and administrative committees to the Vice President for Student Affairs, the President, and the Board of Trustees. Hearing and appeal procedures are also outlined in "A Guide to Barnard," and all decisions are subject to review and final disposition by the President.

HOUSING

Barnard strives to maintain as diversified a housing program as possible, providing several options for students. These options include traditional dormitories, suite arrangements, and apartments in College-owned buildings adjacent to the campus. In a cooperative exchange with Columbia College about 240 spaces are available for those who choose co-educational arrangements. Apartments have also been secured in a building off-campus which meets the standards for College-operated residences. The College has residence facilities for approximately two-thirds of the student population. In addition, about 15% more of the student body live in independent housing they maintain in the campus vicinity. In 1982, the College offered all incoming freshmen the opportunity to elect to live in College-provided housing. Policies regarding eligibility for housing and manner of assignments are formulated by a College Housing and Campus Environment Committee with a membership of students, faculty, and administrators.

Eligibility

Eligibility criteria have been established in order to assign available space on an equitable basis. These regulations may be changed as needed at the discretion of the College, but insofar as possible the following criteria will determine eligibility:

1. A student must be registered for a full academic program. Exceptions may be made upon review of appeals submitted to the Dean of Studies' office.
2. A student is classified as a "resident" if the principal residence of her parent or legal guardian is in the geographic area classified by the College as beyond commuting distance.
3. Any student may live off-campus regardless of rank. A permission form signed by the parent or legal guardian must be on file in the Office of Residential Life for any student under 18 years of age who wishes to live off-campus but not at home. Resident students who choose to withdraw from College housing lose their class priority in room drawing.

Student Life

4. A “commuter” is a student whose permanent residence is within the geographic area classified by the College as within commuting distance. Commuters are eligible for College-assigned housing when they enter as freshmen, and thereafter as space is available. Students may consult an off-campus housing registry for help in obtaining accommodations near the College. Some dormitory rooms are reserved for commuters for occasional overnight accommodation. Per diem fees are charged for these rooms.

5. A student is responsible for reporting any change in permanent address to the Registrar of the College, and to the Office of Residential Life.

Request for Resident Status

Discretionary decisions and appeals regarding resident status may be reviewed by an Appeals Committee, whose decisions are final and binding. Requests for housing from readmitted students will be acted upon by the Director of Residential Life.

Assignments

Returning upperclass students are assigned rooms in College residences on the basis of a lottery and room drawing. Incoming freshmen, readmitted upperclass students, and transfer students are assigned rooms by the Office of Residential Life.

Requirements

The rules and regulations regarding housing deposits, payments and refunds, and the use and occupancy of rooms are in the “Terms and Conditions of Student Residence in Barnard College Housing” which are given to students selecting College housing and which must be signed by them before they may accept rooms.

Housing Units

The College provides in its residence halls supervision under the direction of the Office of Residential Life. This includes resident directors, graduate and undergraduate student assistants, twenty-four hour desk attendant coverage, and regular security guard patrols.

Brooks, Hewitt, and Reid Halls or “B-H-R” at the south end of the campus, are operated as a single complex with space for about 515 students. Reid Hall is an all-female building housing first year students who are assigned to double rooms. Brooks and Hewitt are predominantly upperclass dormitories. The lower floors are co-educational and the upper floors remain all-female. All students living in these halls must subscribe to a College meal plan.

“616” West 116th Street, an apartment-style residence directly across the street from B-H-R provides housing for 207 students in suites of single and double rooms. Each suite has a kitchen and a bath.

“600” and “620” West 116th Street are College-owned buildings comprised of student apartments of one to five single or double rooms with kitchen and bath, and apartments for community residents.

49 Claremont Avenue, a newly renovated building adjacent to the west side of campus, houses 131 students. Rooms are on common corridors in suites with shared baths, kitchenettes and lounges.

Plimpton Hall, an apartment-style dormitory on Amsterdam Avenue and West 121st Street, a short walk from the main campus, provides housing for 280 students in suites of five single rooms. Each suite has a kitchen and bath. Approximately 115 Columbia students reside there in all-male suites.

College Residence Hotel at 601 West 110th Street has about 32 apartments leased by the College which house 94 upperclass students. This offers students the option to live off-campus, only six blocks down Broadway, in a building with some College-provided supervision.

Student Life

Board

The College offers all students meal plans in Hewitt cafeteria and McIntosh Snack Bar. All freshmen and residents of BHR are required to be on a meal plan.

Married Students

Students who plan to marry during the academic year and continue in college are asked to notify the Dean of Studies. Married students, as a rule, will not be allowed to remain in the College residences. They will be subject to the financial obligations which pertain to any student who withdraws from the residence halls or from the College during the term.

Financial Aid for Room and Board

A resident student may use the Room and Board portion of her financial aid award for college housing, or if she prefers, toward her own non-Barnard housing. No resident student ever receives more financial aid for Room and Board than the amount required to cover the cost of living and eating in College residences. Commuter students do not receive financial aid for Room and Board.

THE WOMEN'S CENTER

The Women's Center was founded in 1971 in acknowledgment of the profound changes in women's lives and expectations and as a further expression of Barnard's traditional commitment to women. Today it is nationally recognized as a model for women's centers because it links all parts of the College community and extends its resources to women beyond the campus gates. Through a wide range of programs and services, the Center provides a physical and psychological meeting space for women, as well as a forum to discuss feminist concerns, both academic and nonacademic. The Center maintains an expanding resource collection of over 6,000 books, articles, special issues of journals, and bibliographies in addition to subscriptions to over sixty newsletters and periodicals on women's issues. It also serves as a clearinghouse of current information on women's studies programs, research on women, women's professional and activist groups, and special events for women.

An annual academic conference, The Scholar and the Feminist, has continued inquiry into the impact of feminism on traditional scholarship. In recognition of its catalytic effect on the development of new feminist scholarship, papers and workshop presentations from The Scholar and the Feminist have been published each year.

The Women's Center also sponsors and co-sponsors a number of other programs. The Reid Lectureship brings to Barnard distinguished women in public life and the arts who have shown a commitment to other women. A regular series of monthly luncheon meetings focuses on significant women's issues with guest speakers and discussion. Poetry readings by students, alumnae, faculty, and staff, an annual women's film and video festival with the Barnard library, and a close relationship with the Women's Studies Program all reflect the Center's integrated and connecting role at the College.

The Center is governed by a twelve-member Executive Committee composed of equal representation from students, faculty, administrators, and alumnae. Located in 100 Barnard Hall, the Women's Center is open throughout the year.

V. The Library

Wollman Library and Other Library Resources

The main collection of more than 150,000 volumes, arranged on open shelves, contains books and microforms selected to cover curricular requirements and provide opportunities for independent work in many fields. A large collection of musical and spoken records, a wide selection of periodicals and journals, and a small browsing section for popular books, records, and cassettes supplement the book collection. There are ample listening facilities for records and the reading areas contain individual study carrels. In the Gallery, painting, sculpture, and drawings by Program in the Arts majors, faculty, and staff are exhibited.

Special collections in the library include the Barnard Archives, a historical collection of official and student publications, documents, letters, and photographs from Barnard's founding in 1889 to the present; the Alumnae Collection of works by former Barnard students; the personal library of the Nobel Prize-winning Chilean poet Gabriela Mistral; the Overbury Collection of 3,300 books and manuscripts by and about American women authors; and a small rare book collection. The library has an especially strong collection in women's studies, supplemented by the Women's Center resource collection. A separate Chemistry Library is located in Altschul Hall.

When the College is in session the main library is open seven days a week. The Reference Department offers an instruction program to help each student develop efficient library skills and bibliographic control over her own area of study. The Audio-Visual Department provides additional support for the instructional program.

Barnard students also have access to Columbia University's libraries with over 5 million books, 2.5 million microforms, and over 59,000 serial and periodical listings and to the libraries of Teachers College and Union Theological Seminary. In addition to these campus libraries, students may use the many libraries and collections in the metropolitan area, some open to the public and others accessible by special arrangement.

VI. Advising and Student Services

ACADEMIC ADVISING

Requirements for the degree are specified on page 35. Individual questions should be directed to the Dean of Studies or the appropriate adviser listed below.

Class Deans and Advisers, 105 Milbank, 280-2024

After being notified of acceptance to the College, each entering freshman will receive a program form and the Freshman Program Guide from the Director of Freshman Programs. The student selects courses for the Autumn term and returns the completed program form to the Director who, insofar as possible, schedules classes accordingly. Class schedules and registration materials are distributed when students arrive on campus in September.

The Dean for Freshmen oversees the academic advising of freshmen, directs the planning for freshman orientation with the help of a committee of upperclass students, and coordinates other special programs for freshmen. Group meetings with department chairmen and other professors are arranged periodically to facilitate the selection of majors.

Assistance in planning courses of study is given to freshmen and sophomores by the class advisers. Group meetings are scheduled during freshman orientation and program-filing periods. For individual advising, students may schedule appointments in 105 Milbank and departmental offices.

In the second semester of her sophomore year, each student chooses her major field in consultation with the Dean for Sophomores, her class adviser, the academic department and the Director of Career Services. During her junior and senior years, her major adviser guides advanced study for the undergraduate degree and is the principal source of information on preparation for graduate school.

While it is the student's responsibility to fulfill all degree requirements, the Dean for Seniors reviews each senior record and advises on graduation status. A senior handbook describing College policy on honors, application procedures for graduate or professional study, and deadlines for major examinations, GRE, LSAT, MCT, and fellowship applications is sent to campus mailboxes at the beginning of the Autumn term. The Dean for Seniors directs the planning for commencement with the help of class officers and the Commencement Committee.

Transfer Advisers, 104 and 105 Milbank, 280-2024

Individual appointments with the Director of Transfer Services and the transfer advisers may be arranged in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Advising and Student Services

Other College Degree Candidates, 104 Milbank, 280-2024

Students who enroll for classes at Barnard but who will graduate from another college must have approval from the degree-granting school for course work to be completed at Barnard. Program-filing and registration are guided by the Director of Transfer Services.

Foreign Student Adviser, 105 Milbank, 280-2024

Advice on situations arising from foreign student status is available in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Study Abroad, 104 Milbank, 280-2024

Students who wish to study abroad for credit toward the Barnard degree are urged to secure approval before leaving the country. Information and forms are available at 105 Milbank.

Pre-Professional Advising, 105 Milbank, 280-2024

Students who are interested in post-baccalaureate professional training may consult the Dean for Pre-Professional Students for help in programming, selection of schools, and submission of application materials. A student who plans to enter one of the health professions should seek advice in her first or second college year in order to discuss requirements and obtain a handbook. Consultation with the pre-professional advisers in the junior year is recommended for any student interested in law, social work, architecture, journalism, or business. The pre-professional secretary maintains recommendation files and forwards materials required for applications.

Graduate School Advising, 105 Milbank, 280-2024, and departmental offices

Students interested in advanced study in the liberal arts and sciences or the performing arts may consult appropriate faculty members and the Dean for Seniors. A student who plans to apply to graduate school should, in her senior year, establish a file with the secretary for graduate school recommendations in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Higher Education Opportunity Program, 10 Milbank, 280-3583

The Higher Education Opportunity Program, a support service to meet the needs of New York state undergraduate women from backgrounds that are disadvantaged economically and academically, provides counseling, tutoring, and financial assistance. In a six-week summer program, all incoming HEOP students increase their English, math, research, and public speaking skills. During the academic year, tutoring, workshops, and study groups are available in addition to academic and personal counseling.

Resumed Education Program, 105 Milbank, 280-2024

For advice on academic study and College services for students returning to Barnard after absences of five years or more to complete the A.B., or for graduates redirecting their careers and exploring new interests, consult the Director of Advising and Services for Resumed Education Students in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

STUDENT SERVICES

Office of Career Services, 11 Milbank, 280-2033

The Office of Career Services helps students and alumnae define and implement career plans. To provide this service, the Director and career advisers have designed projects enabling them to explore careers, to keep informed about current labor market trends, and to earn money to finance their education. All placements for the Federal College Work Study Program are made through this office. In addition, individual counseling on careers and related concerns is available.

A newsletter published by the staff informs students about career programs and group counseling sessions. To aid students and alumnae in exploring career areas, CONTACT, a file listing over 1,400 alumnae who are available to discuss their fields; a library of vocational materials; and a collection of graduate school catalogues are housed in the Office. Workshops on specific concerns, such as resume writing and job interviews, are conducted when the College is in session.

To enable students to clarify vocational interests, the Office sponsors internships in many professional fields and occupations for a semester, the summer, or the January intersession. Interns gain work experience of a more professional level than students ordinarily can, and a few students also arrange academic credit for internships through the Experimental Studies Program.

The Office, which is open twelve months a year, has contacts with many academic institutions, museums, business firms, hospitals, government agencies, libraries and a large number of other potential employers. Students use part-time and temporary job listings for both on- and off-campus jobs. The Barnard Babysitting Service, a student-run enterprise supervised by the Office, receives thousands of requests annually and provides work for many students. Recruitment for many professions is held at Columbia in the fall and spring for graduating seniors. The Job-Seekers Newsletter announcing full-time job opportunities is issued every two weeks and is mailed to alumnae who request it. Students and alumnae are encouraged to establish permanent recommendation files at the Office of Career Services for future employment.

Office for Disabled Students, 8 Milbank, 280-4634

In 1978, Barnard established a program to provide disabled women with services which enhance their educational, pre-professional, and personal development. The Dean for Disabled Students and her staff work with other administrators and members of the faculty to assist disabled students in participating in college activities, securing financial aid, scheduling classes and examinations, and planning careers. Aides, readers, tutors, and note-takers are available on request. The Committee to Meet the Needs of the Disabled works to reduce all architectural and other barriers at the College.

The buildings on the Barnard campus interconnect. Classroom and other facilities are accessible to disabled students. Maps of the campus showing special features and access routes are available in the Office for Disabled Students.

Financial Aid, 119 Milbank, 280-2154

Students who have questions or problems regarding financial aid are encouraged to make appointments with a counselor in the Office of Financial Aid. Advice is available on applying for financial aid, budgeting, and computation of financial aid awards. For more detailed information, students should consult page 21.

Health and Counseling Services, 202 Barnard, 280-2091

The Student Health Service provides diagnosis and treatment of all major and minor health problems and preventative health care in relevant areas. The staff is composed of a Director (an internist), an Associate Director, consultants in Adolescent Medicine, Gynecology, and Dermatology, three psychiatrists, two additional psychotherapists, three nurses, and an administrative staff.

The medical report, required of every student as a prerequisite to enrollment, is filed with the Health Service. Complete examinations are performed for seniors in the Autumn term and sophomores in the Spring term. They are not mandatory, but are recommended and are required if health certificates are needed.

All students regardless of residence must immediately report any illness, however minor, to the Student Health Service. If a resident student wishes to have someone other than the Health Service physicians care for her, her parents should send the name and address of the doctor to the Director before registration.

Advising and Student Services

Campus medical service is available to all Barnard students and is covered by the Student Health Service fee. This service is not available during College vacations. Students are entitled to the following services:

- 1) an unlimited number of visits to the staff physicians;
- 2) an unlimited number of visits to the gynecologists and dermatologist;
- 3) use of the Counseling Service;
- 4) weekend and night-time coverage.

The following services are available at an additional charge; these services are covered by the Barnard Insurance Plan when ordered by Barnard staff physicians:

- 1) hospitalization at Presbyterian Hospital;
- 2) medications;
- 3) laboratory tests and x-rays;
- 4) consultations.

The following services are not provided:

- 1) home visits;
- 2) consultations when the College is not in session;
- 3) dental care;
- 4) filing of prescriptions by outside physicians.

For additional information, students are encouraged to consult Barnard Health Service, a Student Guide which is available at the Student Health Service. Enrollment in the Barnard Insurance Program is compulsory. For further details consult the Barnard Insurance Brochure.

Resident and Commuter Advisers

As part of the student support network, upperclass students in each residence facility are designated as Resident Advisers to answer questions on campus life for resident students. Commuter Advisers are available to help non-resident students participate in all campus activities. The Commuter Advisers' Office is located in 206 McIntosh Center.

Office of Commuter Affairs, 208 McIntosh Center, 280-3040

The Office of Commuter Affairs is a resource and referral center designed to enhance the experience of Commuter Students at Barnard College. It is a place where commuters can meet other commuters as well as receive information about off-campus housing, transportation, carpooling, parking, and temporary on-campus accommodations. The Commuter Assistant staff is available to help with concerns related to commuting or with issues of an academic, vocational or personal nature. The office also coordinates the Urban New York Program and initiates educational, cultural, and social programs designed to enrich commuter life.

Women's Counseling Project, Reid Hall, 280-3063

Affiliated with the Barnard Women's Center, the Women's Counseling Project is a free, confidential referral service specializing in the areas of health care, therapy, sexuality, and the law.

Recommendations

Students may establish recommendation files for employment in the Office of Career Services, for graduate study with the recommendations secretary in the Office of the Dean of Studies, for professional schools with the pre-professional secretary in the Office of the Dean of Studies. Consult the appropriate office for procedures and policy.

Student Records and Information

The Family Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (the Buckley Amendment) stipulates that students may have access to their official files and that no transcripts may be issued without written request. A further explanation may be found in "A Guide to Barnard College."

Also in accordance with the Buckley Amendment, Barnard has the right to make public, at its discretion and without prior authorization from the student, the following information: name; class; home or college address and telephone number; major field; date and place of birth; dates of attendance at Barnard; degrees; honors and awards received; and previous school most recently attended. The law also gives students the right to place limitations on the release of this information. A student who wishes to do so must file a special form with the Registrar, 107 Milbank, each year by September 15. In practice, the College does not indiscriminately release information about individual students.

VII. The Curriculum

Requirements for the A.B. Degree

Students are recommended by the Faculty of Barnard College to the Trustees of Columbia University for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, the only degree awarded to Barnard students. The degree requires the satisfactory completion of 120 points of academic work and four terms of physical education. As parts of the 120-point requirement, all students must complete a major and must fulfill the applicable general education requirements. Beginning in 1984, the general education requirements will change; both the “old” and “new” requirements are listed below.

Major Requirements

All students must complete the requirements of an approved major. The number of required semester-courses for the major depends on the major chosen (see individual department and program curriculum statements).

The student registers her chosen major with the Office of the Registrar and with her major department or program, normally in the second term of her sophomore year. The major may be chosen from any listed in the Barnard Catalogue. A student may major in two fields by satisfying all the major requirements prescribed by each department, with no overlapping courses. If either of the fields qualifies for the distribution requirement, two of the courses in one field may count toward that requirement. A combined or special major may be designed in consultation with the chairmen of the appropriate departments and with the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Committee approval is not needed for the combined major that comprises all the course requirements of two majors and one integrating senior project.

General Education Requirements for Students Entering in the Fall of 1984 and Thereafter

The Barnard College faculty has recently adopted a revised set of general education requirements which will apply to all students who begin their studies in the fall of 1984 and thereafter. The program is designed to provide direction and continuity while giving students opportunities to shape their own programs of study. Barnard offers a vigorous but flexibly structured set of requirements which afford students a range of choice in almost every instance. The requirements are as follows:

FRESHMAN SEMINAR

Freshmen are required to take this one-semester course, which provides special opportunities to develop some of the intellectual skills and styles which will be central to subsequent academic work. The enhancement of strong writing and communication skills is emphasized, as is the group-discussion mode of intellectual inquiry and discourse. Seminars adopt major themes or issues, and participants read and discuss leading philosophical, historical, literary, or scientific statements of them. A full list of Freshman Seminars, with descriptive information and the names of instructors, will be published before the fall of 1984 for students to use when selecting their seminars. Transfers are not required to take the Freshman Seminar.

The Curriculum

FRESHMAN ENGLISH

Freshmen must take a designated one-semester writing course designed to cultivate and develop prose writing and related tools of scholarship. Reading and writing assignments focus on major works of literature. Some students may gain exemption from the course on the basis of a writing proficiency examination. Foreign students are required to exhibit a degree of fluency before enrolling in this course. Transfers are not required to take Freshman English.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Students must achieve basic competence in one ancient or modern foreign language. The requirement is fulfilled by completion of the fourth sequential semester (or a more advanced course for which the fourth semester is prerequisite) of a course of three or more weekly hours in any foreign language. (In Latin, both Latin BC2003 and BC 2004 or their equivalents must be completed.) Courses narrowly focused on conversation or composition reading do not qualify. The faculty recommends that the third and fourth semesters be completed at Barnard; that elementary courses be completed in the freshman year; that courses be taken consecutively without interruption; that proficiency be established by the end of the junior year. Re-enrollment without credit is required, whenever feasible, for students whose work in levels 1, 2, or 3 is graded below D. Most students satisfy the requirement in French, Spanish, Hebrew, German, Russian, Italian, Chinese, Latin, or Greek, but other languages taught in the University are also available. The student who wishes to study a language not offered by any division of the University should consult the chairman of the Barnard Language and Literature Committee.

Exemption from the requirement may be obtained in the following ways:

1. CEEB score of 750 or higher;
2. Chairman's decision on AP score of 4 or 5;
3. Departmental examination.

Placement is determined in the following ways:

1. CEEB score of 650-749 level 4
550-649 level 3
below 400 level 1
2. On the basis of previous college work for transfer students, in the level following that of the last satisfactorily completed semester course. Formal withdrawal and re-enrollment without credit may be required for students who are judged by the department to be unsuitably placed and in need of additional preparation or review.
3. By Departmental examination if there is no CEEB score or previous college transfer work.

The Curriculum

Credit is determined on the following basis:

1. For courses satisfactorily completed in residence at Barnard or, in the case of a transfer, at her previous college.
2. No prior approval given for summer or transfer work undertaken as Barnard matriculant; on completion of other-college course, credit is granted with departmental approval, or by examination, or on completion of next level at Barnard.
3. No duplicate credit is granted for work repeated at the same level.
4. No credit for the first semester of an elementary language is granted unless a more advanced course is completed.

Exception to the general guidelines outlined above is made if the high school language of instruction was not English. Fulfillment in English is granted for foreign students who complete English BC1201 or one satisfactory year at Barnard. Fulfillment is granted in the high school language of instruction for students whose native language is English (e.g., French for alumnae of the Lycée Français).

In addition, fulfillment is granted for the following special situations. A sequence which includes Italian V1301, V1302, and one year of literature will qualify. Completion of Spanish BC3006 will be sufficient for students of Hispanic background. Because of curricular differences, students who as Barnard matriculants complete the third or fourth semester of French or German outside the Barnard departments are required to take a departmental examination for placement or fulfillment.

LABORATORY SCIENCE

Students must complete one science course (two semesters), with laboratory. Acceptable courses must meet for at least three hours of lecture and three hours of laboratory per week. The student must pass both the lecture and the laboratory portion of the course, and the College strongly suggests that the two be taken concurrently. The following courses meet these requirements:

Astronomy	C1103-C1104
Biology	Barnard BC1101-BC1102
Chemistry	Barnard BC1601-BC1602 or BC1601-BC3230 C1403-C1404 with C1503-C1504 or with C1503-C1507 C1407 with C1503 or with C1507 and Barnard BC3230
Environmental Science	Barnard BC1001, BC1002
Geography	W1005-W1006 C1001-C1002
Geology	V1011-V1012 V1021-V1022
Physics	C1021-C1022 F1003-F1004 V1003-V1004 C1006-C1007 or C1006-C1107 V1103-V1104 V1305-V1306 W1003-W1004 W3001-W3002
Psychology	Barnard BC1105, BC1108, BC1117, BC1127, BC1130, BC3256 (any two)

The Curriculum

Students wishing to substitute a course-sequence not given above, transfer students, and those with Advanced Placement should consult with department chairmen for guidance with respect to fulfilling this requirement.

QUANTITATIVE REASONING All students must take one course in which the major topics are mathematics, methods of empirical analysis using quantitative data, or the use of symbolic manipulation to solve problems. The requirement may be fulfilled by taking and passing any credit course in any of the following departments:

Chemistry
Mathematics
Statistics
Computer Science
Physics

Alternatively, the requirement may be fulfilled by taking and passing an appropriate course emphasizing quantitative methods in one of the following social and behavioral sciences:

Economics
Sociology
Psychology
Political Science

Or the student may elect a course in formal logic offered by the Philosophy Department.

The requirement may also be fulfilled by taking and passing a special course in Quantitative Reasoning, a full description of which will be published separately before the fall of 1984.

DISTRIBUTION Students must complete four semester-courses outside the major department, two each in the Humanities and the Social Sciences. One inter-disciplinary course may be used to satisfy the requirement in each of the two areas.

The distribution requirement in the Humanities may be fulfilled by taking courses in Art History, Philosophy, Oriental Humanities, Studies in the Humanities, Medieval and Renaissance Studies, or by taking courses in any literature, the history or literature of music, the history of dance, Humanities C1001-C1002, or designated courses in Religion or Women's Studies.

The distribution requirement in the Social Sciences may be fulfilled by taking courses in History, Oriental Civilization, American Studies, Anthropology, Economics, Health and Society, Political Science, Sociology, or in the history of religion; European Studies BC3352; or designated courses in Women's Studies.

General Education Requirements for Students Entering before the fall of 1984

For students beginning their studies before the fall semester 1984, the following general education requirements apply:

The requirement is identical to the Freshman English requirement listed above, page 36.

The Curriculum

FOREIGN LANGUAGE	The requirement is identical to the Foreign Language requirement listed above, page 36.
LABORATORY SCIENCE	The requirement is identical to the Laboratory Science requirement listed above, page 37.
DISTRIBUTION	All students must complete six semester-courses of three or more points outside the major department, to be distributed among three or more of the categories listed below (i.e., no more than two semester-courses in any single category).

The qualifying courses that are listed in this catalogue bear the Roman numeral of the relevant category in parentheses on the last line of the course description. The chairman of the appropriate Barnard department will determine the eligibility of all other courses.

I. FINE ARTS	Art History; history or literature of Music; Dance BC2565, BC2566; English BC3129.
II. LITERATURE	Any literature written in the original language (i.e. not literature in translation).
III. OTHER HUMANITIES	Philosophy; Religion (other than history of religion courses); Oriental Humanities; Readings in the Humanities; Medieval and Renaissance Studies; Humanities C1001-C1002; Classical Literature BC1032, V3123.
IV. HISTORY	History; Oriental Civilization; history of religion courses; American Studies; European Studies BC3352.
V. OTHER SOCIAL SCIENCES	Anthropology; Economics; Geography (see listings under Environmental Science); Health and Society; Linguistics; Political Science; Sociology; Women's Studies 11.
VI. MATHEMATICS	Mathematics; Computer Science W3203, W3261, W4203, W4241, W4242, G4801.

Electives

Apart from fulfilling general education requirements and major requirements, the student completes the remainder of the 120-point requirement with elective courses, either within or outside the major department, subject to the approval of the appropriate adviser. No more than 18 points of studio, performing arts, or professional school courses (including film) may be credited toward the A.B. degree. (Of these a maximum of four arts studio courses may be credited, and a student who takes more than two is required to validate each additional studio course with a course in art history.) Exceptions to this rule are allowed only for courses in the major field or for courses taken in fulfillment of requirements for double and joint degree programs with the professional schools of the University.

Physical Education Requirement

Four terms of physical education are required, with two semester-courses to be taken in the freshman year and two additional semester-courses during the years following. Sophomore and junior transfers are required to complete two semester-courses of physical education beyond the freshman year. The physical education requirement is in addition to the 120 academic-point requirement and is graded on a pass-fail basis.

The Curriculum

Length of Residence

Students are expected to be registered full-time for four years. Transfer students must complete at least 60 points and two years in residence at Barnard to receive the degree (see below for additional information). Under certain conditions, it is possible for a senior to complete her work for the degree while registered in absentia, with the permission of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing.

Requirements for Transfer Students

Courses completed at other accredited colleges and universities may be submitted for transfer credit. Transfer courses are evaluated after a complete transcript is received in the Office of the Registrar. Transfer students are asked to submit catalogues and course descriptions with their requests for transfer credit to the Director of Transfer Services who notifies them of the evaluation by mail.

Credit for approved work at another institution is applied to Barnard's 120-point graduation requirement in proportion to progress toward the degree at the previous institution. Credit cannot be granted for courses with grades lower than C minus. Acceptable transfer work does not usually include applied or professional courses or more than the equivalent of two Barnard studio courses. The first term of an elementary language course is not credited unless or until the second term or a more advanced course has been satisfactorily completed. Summer work is not included in initial credit estimates. Transfer students may apply for credit for previous summer courses under the regulations governing Summer Study (see page 44).

To receive the A.B. degree at Barnard, a transfer student must attend Barnard for at least four regular academic terms and must complete at least six courses in the major field (and three in the minor field, if a minor is elected). Additional major (and minor) courses, as well as general education requirements, may be satisfied by transfer courses. Exemption from the foreign language requirement may be attained on the basis of College Entrance Examination Board scores alone or by a combination of those scores and additional college work. Those who do not receive exemption must complete the normal language requirement (see page 36). Transfer students are eligible for Honors when both overall and Barnard averages meet the required academic standards.

Classification of Students

Students are classified as follows:

MATRICULATED:

- FRESHMAN
- SOPHOMORE
- JUNIOR
- SENIOR
- UNCLASSIFIED

Points completed

- fewer than 24
- 24-51
- 52-85
- 86 or more
- Transfer students who have not yet been assigned credit

NONMATRICULATED:

- Other college degree candidates
- Barnard alumnae auditing courses
- Barnard alumnae taking courses for credit
- Any other student who is not a degree candidate

A degree candidate (i.e., student who is matriculated) may not change her status to non-matriculated.

The Curriculum

Filing of Diploma Name Cards

The Diploma Name Card, available at the Office of the Registrar, is the student's official notification to the Registrar that she expects to have completed all requirements for the degree and to receive the diploma on a particular graduation date. Degrees are granted in May, October, and January. The filing of the card sets in motion the processing of the student's academic records in preparation for graduation. It is the student's responsibility to file the Diploma Name Card before published deadlines (see College Calendar, page 6). Graduation ceremonies are held in January and May.

VIII. Other Academic Opportunities

Minor

The selection of a minor field of study is optional, requires at least five courses which total a minimum of 15 points, and may be designated by any student having a single major after completing a minimum of three courses in the minor field. Requirements depend on the minor chosen (see individual department curriculum statements); courses are selected in consultation with the department chairman. Two of the courses taken for the minor may be used to fulfill the distribution requirement if the field selected is within one of the six that qualify for the requirement.

Senior Scholar Program

The Barnard Senior Scholar Program allows a qualified student to undertake a single project for the entire senior year, or for one semester of the senior year (normally the second). The Program is intended for the student who is unusually well prepared in an academic discipline or in one of the performing arts. It offers the special advantages of concentration on one project, designation as “Senior Scholar” on the permanent transcript, and the amendment of some major requirements. Senior Scholars are allowed credit for no more than 30 points. In the past, Barnard Senior Scholars have gained approval for a wide range of proposals, including writing projects, government internships, and art projects.

A qualified student interested in the Senior Scholar Program should consult the Senior Class Dean, who is coordinator of the program, in her junior year. Before the beginning of the senior year, the student should have completed all Basic and Distribution requirements for the A.B. degree. The student’s written application for the Senior Scholar Program is submitted to the Committee on Honors by the coordinator and is subject to the approval of the Committee. The deadline for application appears in the College Calendar (see page 6).

For financial assistance in carrying out the project, the student may apply separately for a student research grant.

Program Planning for Students Interested in Medicine or Dentistry

The basic premedical and predental requirements are one year of biology with laboratory (Biology BC1101 and BC1102); one year of inorganic chemistry with laboratory (Chemistry BC1601 and BC3232); one year of organic chemistry with laboratory (Chemistry BC3230, BC3231, and BC3328); one year of physics with laboratory (Physics V1003-V1004 or Physics V1103-V1104); and two semesters of English. Highly recommended courses, required by some schools, are two terms of calculus or other college-level mathematics and one additional inorganic laboratory (Chemistry BC3338 or Chemistry BC3340).

Students should become familiar with the most recent edition of Medical School Admissions Requirements, an annual publication of the Association of American Medical Colleges, and Barnard’s own Handbook for Students Entering the Health Professions, copies of which are available in 105 Milbank. The latter deals with many of the health professions (Optometry, Podiatry, Physical Therapy, and Public Health) as well as Medicine and Dentistry.

Pursuing a major in the sciences is not necessary for premedical students provided they include the above required courses in their programs. The science requirements should be completed in the year prior to the year of desired entry (i.e., in most instances the junior year) at which time students are advised to take the Medical College Admissions Test which is normally offered in April. The test is repeated in the early fall for those who wish to retake it or who, for compelling reasons, were unable to take it in the spring.

All students who are interested in the health professions should consult their class advisers as early as possible and should start a file in the Pre-Professional Office by the junior year at the latest. Applications for the standardized tests, school catalogues, and other relevant information are available in 105 Milbank.

Program Planning for Pre-Law Students

There are no specific course requirements for entry to law school, nor is there any specific recommended major. Admission to law school is based largely on grade point average and Law School Admission Test scores although other factors are taken into account. Students are encouraged to develop strong skills in writing and in speaking with precision, and to take programs that require demanding critical analysis and effective study habits. Information about law schools and what makes a good lawyer can be found in the Pre-Law Handbook, an annual publication of the Association of American Law Schools. Copies can be used in the Pre-Professional Office, 105 Milbank, which also collects law school catalogues and other relevant information.

Pre-Law students are encouraged to make themselves known to the Pre-Professional Office in the junior year or before. The LSAT should be taken in June or October of the year prior to expected entry to law school; of these, the June test is recommended because it allows for better planning. Applications for the LSAT and for the Law School Data Assembly Service (a required transcript analysis procedure) arrive in April each year and can be picked up in 105 Milbank any time thereafter.

Program Planning for Students Interested in Journalism, Architecture, Social Work and Business

Curricular planning should be made with an eye to some of the specific requirements in each of these fields. Familiarity with professional school catalogues in these areas is recommended. Information and printed literature is available in the Pre-Professional Office, 105 Milbank, and in the Office of Career Services, 11 Milbank.

Credit for Summer Study

Students are expected to complete the work for the degree in eight academic terms. Because Barnard does not offer courses during the summer, the granting of course credit for summer courses taken at other accredited institutions is treated as transfer credit, with some additional regulations. The maximum number of courses that can be credited toward the degree for course credit is four, subject to the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Although students cannot receive course credit for more than four summer courses totaling a maximum of 16 points, they can be exempted from or placed out of degree requirements with additional summer courses, subject to the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing, and in some cases, subject to satisfactory performance on a Barnard Placement Examination. The full regulations on credit for summer study are available at the Office of the Registrar and are listed on the Application for Approval of Summer Session Courses. The student may find out in advance whether the courses she wishes to take in summer school meet the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing by completing the form and submitting it to the Office of the Registrar well before the end of the spring semester. The application may also be retroactive. The student is advised to consult the application for the full regulations, some of which are listed below:

Other Academic Opportunities

1. No more than two one-semester courses may be counted for one summer session.
2. To be eligible for credit, courses normally must be of at least six weeks' duration, and 3 points (or more).
3. Grades for courses taken in summer school must be letter grades in A to C range. They are not included in the cumulative grade point average.

Study Abroad

Several options for study abroad are available to Barnard students.

Under the auspices of Reid Hall in Paris, several semester-long and full-year programs are offered. Semester-long Institutes include intermediate and advanced courses in French language, literature, and civilization; fine arts and architecture; sociology and ethnography of French society and culture; and Women's Studies. The year-long program combines classes in the French university system with research directed by a scholar in the student's chosen field. The majority of applicants to Reid Hall are not French majors, but a strong background in French is required for year-long programs. Further information may be obtained from the chairman of the French Department, the chairman of Women's Studies (concerning the Reid Hall Women's Studies program), or in the Office of the Dean of Studies. To receive degree credit for courses taken at Reid Hall, the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing is required on a special form available at the Office of the Registrar, 107 Milbank.

Barnard participates in the program of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome. Students who have completed at least four semesters of Latin above the elementary course, and at least one semester of elementary Greek, are eligible to apply for admission to the program of the Rome Center for one or two semesters, preferably in the junior year. Courses taken at the Rome Center may be counted toward the major and, in some cases, toward the fulfillment of the distribution requirements.

Barnard College is a Supporting Institution of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens and the American Academy in Rome, and certain privileges of those schools are available, without fee, to graduates of the College.

Course credit for courses taken at institutions abroad, other than Reid Hall, is treated as transfer credit (see page 40).

Study at Jewish Theological Seminary

The Jewish Theological Seminary of America, located two blocks from the Barnard campus, offers opportunities to Barnard students for specialized study under a cooperative arrangement. Students may enroll in courses at the Seminary under any of three options: (1) individual courses; (2) a year's study in residence at the Seminary; or (3) a double degree program.

A student wishing to study at the Seminary should consult her adviser and obtain the written permission of her major department chairman. Courses taken at the Jewish Theological Seminary are evaluated as transfer credit (see page 40 for rules on transfer credit). Students who wish to obtain simultaneously the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Barnard and Bachelor of Hebrew Literature from the Seminary must consult advisers in both institutions, and must be separately admitted to each.

Qualified Barnard students may request housing at the Seminary. Students who enroll in the Seminary College will be subject to Seminary tuition charges. Seminary College students may also apply to the Barnard Admissions Office to become special students or to fulfill the requirements for the A.B. degree at Barnard.

Other Academic Opportunities

Study at the Manhattan School of Music

The Manhattan School of Music is located one block to the north of the Barnard campus. Under a recently established program of cross-registration, musically qualified Barnard students have the opportunity to enroll in private music lessons at the Manhattan School. Students interested in this possibility should consult with the chairman of the Barnard Music Department.

DOUBLE AND JOINT DEGREE OPPORTUNITIES

Barnard offers double and joint degrees in coordination with other schools in the University system, including the School of International and Public Affairs, School of Engineering, and Law School. Details on specific programs are given below.

Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration

Barnard College and the Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration offer a joint degree program leading to the A.B. degree at the end of four years and the Master of Public Administration (M.P.A.) after one additional year.

Although application to the program is made in the junior year, it is advisable to consult the Program Director, Professor Demetrios Caraley, 402 Lehman, as early as the sophomore year to plan an appropriate undergraduate program. Admission to the joint program does not constitute automatic admission to the Graduate Program in Public Affairs and Administration. The student in the joint program applies for admission to the Graduate Program in the Autumn Term of her senior year. Final admission is conditional upon the applicant's receiving the A.B. degree from Barnard with an approximate grade point average of 3.5.

A Barnard student in the joint program must satisfy all Basic, Distribution, and Major requirements for the A.B. degree at Barnard. Courses in the Graduate Program may be used to fulfill major requirements only with the written consent of the chairman of the department in which the student is majoring. During the junior and senior years she must complete at least 24 points of course work at the 4000 level or above, including the first-year required core courses specified in the Bulletin of the Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration. An internship, usually during the summer between the fourth and fifth year, is also required. In the fifth year of the program a student completes at least 30 points including specialization requirements.

Further information may be obtained from the Program Director or in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

School of Law

Barnard College has the option of nominating, in conjunction with the Columbia University School of Law, two outstanding juniors each year to enter the Law School under the Accelerated Program in Interdisciplinary Legal Education (A.I.L.E.). These students must have completed 90 points at Barnard College, including all general requirements. They must also demonstrate that they will be able to complete their majors and the final 30 points at the Law School, 12 of which must be in the Arts and Sciences and the remainder in appropriate law courses.

To be nominated, a student must have an outstanding academic record (3.6 average or above), and have taken the LSAT by February of her junior year.

Students interested in the program should consult with the Dean for Pre-Professional Students early in the junior year and with the Senior Class Dean to ensure fulfillment of graduation requirements. LSAT applications are available in the Dean of Studies Office; the test is offered in June, October, December, and February.

School of Oral and Dental Surgery

A limited number of qualified students may wish to enter the School of Oral and Dental Surgery after three years of undergraduate work at Barnard. To be eligible for this program, before entering the Dental School, the student must have completed 90 points of academic work at Barnard and all of the prerequisite courses for the Dental School. To be eligible for the A.B. degree, she must have completed 120 points, 30 of which may be taken at the Dental School, and she must have completed all of the general and major requirements of Barnard College.

Other Academic Opportunities

Students interested in this option should consult with the Dean for Pre-Professional Students in the sophomore year for early program planning. Before her admission to the Dental School she should consult with the Senior Class Dean to make certain that she will be eligible for the A.B. degree while attending the Dental School.

School of Engineering

The School of Engineering and Applied Science and Barnard College offer undergraduate programs in the professional branches of engineering and in the applied sciences under a cooperative program. In addition to the general admission requirements, course work in mathematics through trigonometry, physics, and chemistry is desirable for entering students interested in engineering or applied science.

The first three years of the five-year program leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science are spent under the jurisdiction of Barnard College, and a few courses are taken in the Engineering School. During the junior year the student applies for admission to the School of Engineering and Applied Science, where the remaining two years of more specialized engineering study are taken. Completion of the Basic, Distribution, and Major requirements is required for the Barnard A.B. degree. Students interested in the program are encouraged to consult the adviser for combined programs in the Office of the Dean of Studies to plan an appropriate schedule of courses.

It is also possible to follow a four-year program which leads only to the Bachelor of Science degree. Two years of pre-engineering subjects are taken at Barnard, after which the student applies for admission to the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences. The remaining two years of engineering study are completed there.

Details on specific entrance requirements are available from the Office of Admissions of the School of Engineering and Applied Science and from the Office of the Dean of Studies at Barnard. Further information about the engineering program and the advanced degrees may be obtained in the Bulletin of the School.

CULTURAL EXCHANGE WITH THE UNIVERSITY OF ROME

According to the Agreement of Cultural Exchange signed by Barnard and the University of Rome in May 1980, Barnard College and Columbia University faculty will work in parallel or integrated courses with their colleagues at the University of Rome. Through these courses Barnard students will enjoy the unique opportunity of a dialogue between their professors and the visiting guests as an integral part of their classroom work. A joint Executive Committee of Barnard College, Columbia University, and University of Rome faculty directs the Exchange which is administered by the Center for International Exchange.

AUDITING

Student Auditing

Matriculated students may audit courses in special instances by arrangement with the instructor. Permission to audit a course is granted at the instructor's discretion. Courses audited do not appear on the student's program or transcript; they are not graded; and they may not be subsequently converted to credit courses.

Alumnae Auditing

Many Barnard courses are open to alumnae for auditing. No credit is given and no charge is made. The only requirement is that permission of the instructor must be obtained. Those interested in this program should contact the Alumnae Office and request a copy of the current catalogue and information about procedures.

IX. Registration

REGISTRATION PROCEDURES

Registration for New and Continuing Students

Instructions and materials for registration, enclosed in individual packets, are available to students in McIntosh Center on the days designated for registration.

Students are expected to register during the registration times published in the College Calendar, page 6. Permission to register may be refused to students who do not observe the deadline for registration. Those students who have permission to register late will be assessed additional fees, as posted at Registrar's Office.

Bills for tuition and fees (see page 19) are mailed before the beginning of the semester, and payment must be received by the deadline published in the College Calendar, page 6. In addition, any outstanding debts to the College, including library fines, must be paid before the student may register.

The final stage of the registration process is program filing (see page 50), which must be completed by the published deadline (see College Calendar, page 6). If for some compelling reasons students must enroll in less than a full-time program, the written permission of one of the deans in the Dean of Studies Office is required.

Registration for Resumed Education Students

Resumed education students are those Barnard students who have been away from the College for five years or more and are returning to complete the A.B. degree requirements and those Barnard graduates who are returning to the College to take additional course work. They obtain registration information and materials during the regular registration period (see College Calendar, page 6) in the Dean of Studies Office from the Director of the program who is their academic adviser. Resumed education students are subject to regular registration deadlines and payment of late registration fees.

Registration for Columbia University Courses

Many courses offered in other divisions of the University are open to qualified Barnard students; those cross-listed in the Barnard Catalogue do not normally need special approval; all undergraduate courses listed in the Columbia College bulletin do not need special approval unless so indicated in the course description. Other courses not cross-listed in the Barnard Catalogue may require divisional or instructor's approval in addition to the approval of the student's academic adviser. Columbia University courses are entered on the Barnard program; specific instructions are enclosed in the registration packet. The student is expected to have reviewed the course description and prerequisites before consulting an adviser, to determine for herself whether she is eligible to enroll.

Certain Columbia courses are sectioned prior to registration. Barnard students wishing to register in such courses must take part in the sectioning procedure.

Registration

Only students enrolled in the Education Program are eligible to take the Teachers College courses cross-listed in the Catalogue. All Teachers College courses which are not cross-listed require approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing by submission of a petition form during the first week of the term, and also require payment of additional Teachers College fees.

STUDENT PROGRAMS

Program Filing

The list of courses for which the student is registered each semester is known as the student's program.

During the program-planning period (see College Calendar, page 6), a student files her tentative program for the following semester at the Office of the Registrar after consulting her academic adviser. The tentative program must be signed by her adviser and filed by the published deadline. Failure to meet the deadline or to file without the authorized signature will entail a fee of $10.

During the registration period (see College Calendar, page 6), the tentative program is returned to the continuing student in her registration packet; each new student also receives a program form with her registration material. Between registration and the date for program filing a student is required to reach a final decision on the courses she will take for the term. The final program, signed by her academic adviser, is filed at the Office of the Registrar before the published deadline. There is no refund issued for courses dropped after the published deadline for program filing, and any part-time program filed after that date will be assessed full tuition. Note: the deadline for submission of programs is separate from, and somewhat later than, the registration deadline (see College Calendar, page 6). Programs filed late must be approved by each instructor and the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing, and will be assessed additional fees, which will be posted at the Registrar's Office. A student who neglects to file a program is subject to academic probation.

Adjustment of fees and refunds

For changing program of study. If a student changes her program and the tuition called for is lower than the amount she has already paid, she will be refunded the excess only if the alteration in her program is made by September 16 (last day of program filing) in the Autumn Term and by February 1 in the Spring Term. If the new program calls for higher tuition, the student is responsible for paying the additional charges promptly.

Schedule of Classes and Room Assignments

Class times and room numbers are published in the Schedule of Classes and Room Assignments, available during registration. Final information on changes in class times and rooms is posted at the entrance to Milbank Hall.

Sign-Up Sheets

Enrollment in certain courses is strictly limited and students are encouraged to indicate their intent to enroll in those courses well before registration by entering their names on "sign-up" sheets which are posted outside departmental offices and which list criteria for course enrollment.

Section Changes

A change from one section to another of a course after program-filing requires the approval of the instructor of the new section and the class adviser on the appropriate form to be submitted to the Office of the Registrar. Prior to program-filing the change should be made on the program form itself with departmental approval.

Registration

Adding Courses

Courses may not be added after the deadline for filing academic programs (see College Calendar, page 6). Up to that deadline, the student may add courses either on the program form, if she has not already submitted it, or by an Application to Add a Course, available at the Office of the Registrar. Adding a course requires the signatures on either the program or add form of the class adviser and the major adviser.

Dropping Courses

Courses may be dropped by submission of an Application to Drop a Course or Section, available at the Office of the Registrar. The form requires the signature of the class adviser and the major adviser, and must be returned to the Office of the Registrar before the deadline published in the College Calendar (see page 6). Courses dropped before the deadline will not be recorded on the permanent transcript. If withdrawal from a course is approved after the deadline, the course will be recorded on the permanent transcript with the notation W (Withdrawal).

Attendance

Students are expected to attend classes regularly. Frequent or prolonged absences from classes may cause a student to forfeit the right to complete course work or to take final examinations.

A prolonged or serious illness is considered an excuse for absence only if the student files a statement signed by her physician with the Office of Health Services immediately upon her return to a regular attendance schedule.

Barnard is a non-denominational college which does not schedule religious holidays in the academic calendar, although every effort is made to avoid the dates of major religious observances in the scheduling of class meetings, deadlines, and examinations. It is expected that students who miss classes due to observance of religious holidays will make individual arrangements with their instructors to make up any work missed as a result of absence.

Withdrawal During the Term

A student not subject to discipline for infraction of College rules may withdraw from the College during the semester by submitting a Notice of Intention to Withdraw form (blue copy) to the Office of the Dean of Studies with the signature of the parent or guardian before the final examination. If the student withdraws during the semester without submitting the proper notification, the term's work is subject to a grade of UW. For information on partial refund of tuition, see page 20.

Withdrawal Between Terms and Readmission

A student who plans to withdraw from the College after the completion of the semester should file a Notice of Intention to Withdraw form with the Office of the Dean of Studies.

A student in good health who leaves with her record complete and who is in good standing may re-register within one year of the date of withdrawal without reapplying through the Office of Admissions. No readmission fee is charged a student who submits a written confirmation of her intention to return to the Office of the Dean of Studies by April 1 for the Autumn term or November 1 for the Spring term. After an absence of one year a student must file readmission forms through the Office of Admissions and pay readmission fees (see page 17).

Exceptions to College Regulations

Requests by students for exceptions to college regulations governing the award of academic credit and requirements for the degree may be addressed to the Faculty Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Petition forms are available at the Office of the Registrar and should be returned there. Requests which bear the appropriate signatures of advisers and instructors normally receive consideration within two weeks of their submission.

X. Examinations

Language Placement Examinations

The foreign language requirement can be met by completing the required courses at Barnard (for individual languages see departmental curriculum statements), or by a College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) score of 750 or above, or, for transfer students, by having completed acceptable qualifying language courses.

Transfer Students

A transfer student who has a CEEB score is placed according to that score alone, if she has had no previous college language courses. The determination is made by the Director of Transfer Services, according to the provisions of an established scale. A transfer student who has no CEEB score or previous college language courses, must, if she wishes to continue with a particular language, take a placement test. Transfer students who are not required to take an examination are notified of language placement along with the evaluation of their transfer credits.

Freshman Students

Freshman students are placed (or exempted) on the basis of their CEEB scores. Those with no scores who wish to continue languages studied in high school take placement examinations. The Freshman Program Director advises all new freshmen of their language requirements.

Summer School Language Courses

Students, other than incoming transfer or freshmen students, who take summer language courses and wish exemption or placement in their continuing language studies must take a language placement examination, or secure departmental approval to receive degree credit and enter a higher level.

Any student who has been placed according to her CEEB score may take a placement examination if she wishes, but she must then accept that placement, even if it is lower than her previous placement.

A student who does not wish to continue with a language in which she has been placed may begin the study of a new language.

Applications for Language Placement Examinations are available at the Office of the Registrar; the examination dates are published in the College Calendar, page 6. The examinations are evaluated and placement is made by the appropriate departments. Results are posted at the Office of the Registrar.

Departmental Placement Examinations

Students may obtain exemption from or placement in certain courses by means of departmental placement examinations, for example in the Mathematics and Physics departments. Information and applications for the examinations are available in departmental offices, and deadlines are particular to each department.

Make-Up Examinations During the Term

Instructors are not required to give make-up examinations to students absent from previously announced tests during the term. An instructor who is willing to give a make-up test may request a report of illness from the College physician or acceptable evidence of other extenuating circumstances.

Examinations

Final Examinations

There are no class meetings on the last class day before the final examination period in each term. This interval may be extended for any class, at the option of the instructor, to the full week prior to the examination period. The dates for final examinations, given at the end of each semester, are published in the College Calendar, page 6. Exact times and room numbers for individual examinations are posted on the bulletin board at the Office of the Registrar two weeks before final examinations.

Barnard examinations are given under the Honor Code which states that a student should not ask for, give, or receive help in examinations, nor should she use papers or books in a manner not authorized by the instructor. She should not present work that is not entirely her own except in such a way as may be approved by the instructor. The Honor Code further requires that any student or member of the faculty who has first-hand knowledge of a violation of these rules has an obligation to report it to the Dean of Studies or Honor Board.

A student who wishes to leave the room before the end of the examination period will submit her blue books to the instructor. If a student becomes ill during the course of the examination, the student will notify the instructor and go to the College Physician, 202 Barnard Hall. If less than an hour has expired, a grade of DEF will be recorded on the transcript and she will take a deferred examination. If a student remains for more than one hour for a three-hour examination, she will be graded on the work she has completed.

Deferred Final Examinations

Deferred final examinations for Barnard courses, given in September and January (see College Calendar, page 6), are open only to those students who were absent from the regular examinations for reasons of illness or emergency. Exceptions to these conditions can be made only by petition to the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing before the regular examination period begins.

Absence from final exams for reasons of health should be reported to the Office of Health Services in person or by telephone on the day of the examination. In case of an emergency, the Dean of Studies should be notified.

Examinations missed in December are to be taken the following January or, in cases of prolonged illness, in September of the same year. Those missed in May are to be taken in September of the same year. If a student absents herself without a compelling and valid excuse from a final or deferred examination, she will receive a grade of zero for that examination. Applications for deferred examinations are filed with the Office of the Registrar by designated dates (see College Calendar, page 6). A payment of a $10 handling fee for each examination must accompany the application.

Arrangements for deferred examinations in other divisions of the University must be made by the student with the instructors, and should be completed during the term following registration for the course.

Examinations for Disabled Students

Individual arrangements are made for disabled students unable to take examinations in the usual manner. A disabled student who anticipates the need for a special examination procedure should consult her instructor(s) and the Dean for Disabled Students at the beginning of the semester.

SAT, URE, GRE, and LSAT Examinations

Information and application forms for the Scholastic Aptitude Examination, the Undergraduate Record Examination, the Graduate Record Examination, the Law School Admissions Test, and other specialized examinations are available in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

XI. Grading and Academic Honors

Grading system

Academic standing and eligibility for graduation are determined by both the number of courses completed and the grades for those courses. The system used at Barnard is as follows:

A +
A	Excellent
B +
B	Good
B –
C +
C	Satisfactory
C –
D	Poor
F	Failure
P	Passed without a specific grade on student’s election of P/D/F option
P*	Passed in a course for which only a grade of P or F is allowed
I	Incomplete
X	Absence from final examination
NC	No credit
Y	Two-semester course in which the grade for the second semester is the grade for the entire course
W	Approved withdrawal after “drop” deadline
UW	Withdrawal from course without official notification to Registrar

Pass-fail grades are recorded for all students in certain courses, e.g., in physical education. Pass-fail grades for individual students are subject to regulations described below.

Regulations that apply to grades of I (Incomplete) are outlined on page 56.

Grades of I or X that were recorded in 1980-81 or before will be changed to NC (no credit) if the missing work is not submitted and the portion of the course work that had been completed was passing; beginning 1981-82 the unsubmitted work will be calculated as zero in averaging the final grade. If the work completed was not passing, the grade will be changed to F.

Grading and Academic Honors

In the computation of grade point averages, marks for courses are awarded points on the following scale:

A +	=	4.3	B -	=	2.7
A	=	4	C +	=	2.3
A -	=	3.7	C	=	2
B +	=	3.3	C -	=	1.7
B	=	3	D	=	1

In order to be recommended for the degree, a student must maintain a cumulative average of 2.0 (C) for 120 or more points completed with grades of D or above. At the end of each term all records are examined. Normally only those students with cumulative averages of 2.0 or above are permitted to remain in college. Students whose work falls below the cumulative average of 2.0 may be permitted to continue at Barnard only with the permission of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing.

Courses in which the student receives the grade of D may not be counted toward the major requirement.

Grade Reports

The grade report for the Autumn semester is enclosed in the student's registration packet in January. At the end of the Spring semester, a cumulative grade report of all the student's work at Barnard is sent to the home address. The cumulative grade report is an unofficial transcript for which there is no charge. A student may request that her grade reports be sent to her parents or guardian by filing a permission card with the Registrar. Parents who have established their daughter's status as a dependent may receive transcripts of her grades without her consent. If the student wishes additional unofficial transcripts a charge of $2 per copy will apply (see Transcripts, page 57).

Pass-Fail Option

A student may request a course to be graded under the Pass/D/Fail option by submitting a Request for Pass-Fail form to the Office of the Registrar before the deadline published in the College Calendar, page 6. The forms are available at the Office of the Registrar about two weeks before the deadline. Under the pass-fail option the student is held responsible for fulfilling all the course requirements. A passing letter grade of A, B, or C reported by the instructor is converted to P by the Office of the Registrar. A grade of D or F is not converted.

Some courses record pass-fail grades for all students enrolled, e.g., English 2.

At least 96 of the 120 points required for graduation must be assigned letter grades, including English A and all courses designated to count toward the major (and minor, if the student has designated a minor). The pass-fail option does not apply to these courses. No more than six of the courses credited to the degree may be assigned a grade of P.

No limitation is placed on the number of pass-fail grades which may be recorded in a single term, except those rules which apply to the Dean's List and to eligibility for financial aid.

Grades of P are not included in the grade point average. A grade of F received under a pass-fail option is computed as zero in the grade point average.

The request for a course to be graded under the pass-fail option is irreversible. Subsequent change to a letter grade will not be allowed, and the option may not be elected retroactively.

Incompletes

A student may for compelling reasons arrange with her instructor to take a grade of I (Incomplete) by means of written approval on forms available at the Office of the Registrar. The deadline for filing the Application for Incompletes is the last day of the reading period.

Grading and Academic Honors

There are two Incomplete options. The “early Incomplete” requires submission of unfinished work to the Registrar soon after the end of the term by the date designated in the College Calendar and results in the removal of the “I” notation from the transcript. The second option extends the deadline to the first day of classes for the next Autumn Term, but the “I” notation remains on the permanent transcript and is joined by the final letter grade. The full regulations that apply to Incompletes are listed on the Application for Incompletes form available at the Office of the Registrar. Students who have the permission of their instructors to take grades of Incomplete are required to use the form, which is a written guarantee of the terms set forth in it by the student and the instructor.

A student who has more than two Incompletes outstanding may not be allowed to register for a new term.

Dean’s List

A Dean’s List, which contains the names of students who deserve special mention for superior scholarship, is compiled at the end of each academic year. Eligibility is based on all the letter grades, a minimum of three for a total of at least 12 points in each term, exclusive of those courses receiving grades of P.

Transcripts

Transcripts are ordered by the student or alumna by written request to the transcript secretary in the Office of the Registrar. An official Transcript Request Form is available, but the request may also be made by letter, provided that the letter includes the following information: student’s name (including maiden and married names) and Social Security number, dates of attendance at Barnard, purpose of the transcript, number of copies desired, specifications as to whether the transcript should or should not be delayed until the latest semester’s grades have been entered, name(s) and address(es) to which the transcript is to be sent, the student’s full signature, and a $2 check or money order for each transcript ordered. Official copies of transcripts (those bearing the seal of the College) can be sent only to academic institutions, business organizations, and government offices. Unofficial copies of transcripts may be sent to the student. All copies of transcripts, official and unofficial, are sent only at the written request of the student, and are subject to the $2 fee. There is no charge, however, for a transcript sent to a division of the University.

Honors

The Faculty awards honors to students who complete work for the degree with distinction (cum laude), with high distinction (magna cum laude), and with highest distinction (summa cum laude). Students whose records include study at other institutions will be eligible for honors if both the overall and the Barnard grade point averages meet this requirement. If transfer credit from a foreign institution is applied to the degree, the qualifying average is computed on a sliding scale. Grades for summer work are excluded from the grade-point average. Departmental honors are awarded to a percentage of eligible graduates nominated by their departments for distinguished work in their major fields. The final selection is made by the Committee on Honors.

Phi Beta Kappa

The Barnard section of the Columbia University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was founded in 1901. Election to the national honor society is a recognition of scholarship, and Barnard students of exceptionally high standing are eligible. Under the 35-course plan, eligibility for election as a senior will require thirty completed courses. Under the point system, junior election will require a minimum of 86 completed points and senior election, 102. Questions concerning Phi Beta Kappa should be referred to the Office of the Dean of Studies.

XII. Courses of Instruction

The Curriculum

The Barnard curriculum consists of forty-four departments and programs. At present, twenty-seven departments and eight interdisciplinary programs offer majors, and students may also elect minors if they choose. All academic programs listed are planned for 1983-84; their listing in this catalog is not a guarantee of their availability in subsequent years, and the College may revise its degree requirements from time to time.

Classes

The usual schedule consists of 15 points each semester, but depending on a student's interests or departmental requirements, additional courses may be added. However, an additional fee is charged per point for a program exceeding 18 points (see page 19 for the fee schedule). Classes vary in size. Those in which student participation is important are small. Introductory courses and classes taught primarily by the lecture method are often divided into smaller groups for conference and discussion. Laboratory work in the sciences is conducted with the most modern equipment, and computer facilities are available at Columbia.

Courses of Instruction

Course descriptions will be found in the following pages. Room assignments and all other registration information such as computer course numbers are published in a separate bulletin and distributed during registration.

Autumn term courses are followed by an x; Spring term courses are followed by a y.

Indivisible Barnard courses which run throughout the year are marked with a hyphen between the numerals (e.g., Music BC 1001-BC 1002). No credit is given for work in an indivisible course dropped at midyear without the written consent of the instructor and department chairman and the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. The first semester of elementary language, whether taken at Barnard or elsewhere, does not receive degree credit unless the second semester is completed.

Divisible Barnard courses which run throughout the year are marked with a comma between the numerals (e.g. Environmental Science BC 1001x, BC 1002y). The first half of such courses may be taken separately. Admission to the second half without completion of the first half is granted only with written permission of the instructor. Certain courses are offered in both Autumn and Spring semesters (Economics BC 1001x, BC 1001y) and may be taken in either semester.

Courses of Instruction

The following alphabetical prefixes designate the division of the university for whose students the course is primarily offered or indicate joint courses. Hyphens and commas between course numbers for other than BC courses do not necessarily have the connotations described above for Barnard courses.

BC—Barnard College (The last two digits of these numbers indicate the former numbers of these courses, with the exception of English A, Spanish A-B, Spanish 2, Spanish 3A-4A.)

C—Columbia College

F—School of General Studies

G—Graduate School of Arts and Sciences

R—School of the Arts

V—Joint undergraduate course (Barnard with Columbia College and/or the School of General Studies)

W—Other inter-faculty course

The level of the course is generally as follows:

1000-3999 Undergraduate

4000-4999 Advanced undergraduate and first-year graduate

5000-8999 Graduate, normally not open to undergraduates

American Studies

Office: 420 Lehman Hall

Telephone: 280-2159; 4385

This program is supervised by the Committee on American Studies:

Professor of History
Annette K. Baxter (Chairman)

Professor of Art History
Barbara Novak

Associate Professor of History
Charles S. Olton

Assistant Professor of English
Alfred Bendixen

Assistant Professor of History
Mark C. Carnes

This program helps students to develop understanding of American civilization considered as a whole. Specialized studies in all fields of learning dealing with American subject matter are included in the program, and the impact of these studies is reflected in the work of the senior seminar. Faculty members supervising the Program are specialists in American cultural and women’s history; American art history; early American history; American literature, and American social and political history. All are committed beyond their individual specialties to an interdisciplinary approach to the study of American history and culture.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

In order to acquire a broad understanding of American civilization and acquaintance with various methods of studying it, a student who majors in American studies must take a program, planned in consultation with her major adviser, consisting of 12 courses. There are no prerequisites for entrance to the Program or to American Studies BC 3401, BC 3402. Students are advised to complete American Studies BC 3401, BC 3402 before taking American Studies BC 3703, BC 3704, but exceptions are allowed. Courses taken in other departments in fulfillment of the major requirements may be taken in any sequence.

The 12 courses must represent the following distribution:

- 2 courses in ancient, medieval or European history in any combination;
- 2 courses in American history;
- 2 courses in the social sciences dealing with American subject matter;
- 2 courses in the humanities dealing with American subject matter;
- American Studies BC 3401, BC 3402 (in the junior year); and
- American Studies BC 3703, BC 3704 (in the senior year).

A research essay prepared in the senior seminar is required.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A student who minors in American Studies must take a program consisting of 6 courses. The 6 courses must represent the following distribution:

- 2 courses in American history;
- 1 course in the social sciences dealing with American subject matter;
- 1 course in the humanities dealing with American subject matter;
- American Studies BC 3401, BC 3402.

American Studies

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BC 3401x, BC 3402y. Seminar on American Culture and National Character.

An interdisciplinary approach to the understanding of America, drawing upon history, literature, art, women's studies, black studies, popular culture, oral history, folklore, and other sources. The first semester examines classic 19th and 20th century responses to American culture and the second semester examines the changing spectrum of contemporary scholarship on American society, from colonial times to the present.—BC 3401x: A. Baxter. Tu 2:10-4:00. BC 3402y: M. Carnes. M 2:10-4:00.

American Studies majors are required to take both semesters. Other students may take either semester. Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to ca. 20 students. 4 points.

BC 3703x, BC 3704y. Senior Seminar.

Individual research on diverse aspects of American civilization, in consultation with the instructor, and presentation of results in the form of the senior essay.—A. Baxter.

Enrollment limited to senior majors.

4 points. W 2:10-4:00 with frequent conferences.

Ancient Studies is designed to allow the student to explore various aspects of the ancient Mediterranean and Mesopotamian cultures while concentrating on one of these major civilizations. By studying these cultures in several academic disciplines the student will acquire a general knowledge and a context for her area of specialization. At Barnard and in the University a very large number of courses pertaining to antiquity is offered each year, and the program prepares an annual list to aid students in making their selections. This list may be obtained from the Representative for Barnard.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Each student, after consultation with the Representative for Barnard, chooses an adviser whose field is closely related to her own and with whom she will do her senior reading. The programs of all the students are reviewed by the Ancient Studies Committee, in order to maintain control and a sense of collective enterprise.

A total of 9 courses are required in the major, including

4 courses in one geographic area or period;

at least the first semester of Ancient Studies V3998, Directed Research in Ancient Studies, with presentation of written results; and the appropriate sequence in ancient history.

In some cases, a senior seminar in one of the departments may be substituted for Ancient Studies V3998, V3999. Ancient language courses may be used toward the major requirement; however, where a second ancient language is offered, one second-year sequence must be offered to gain credit for the first year.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

No minor is offered in Ancient Studies.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

A list of relevant courses of instruction offered in 1983-1984 may be obtained from the Representative for Barnard.

Anthropology is the study of the biological and cultural development of the human species, and of the variety of human societies and their cultures. The student majoring in this field will acquire an understanding of humans and their ways that is not bound by her own time and culture. In doing so, she will find herself drawing upon the literature of such diverse disciplines as genetics, archaeology, ethnography, linguistics, and the social sciences. Students with a degree in anthropology may undertake graduate and professional study in anthropology; they may also enter upon careers in other fields, such as development, education, government, journalism, law, labor organization, medicine, or social work administration, where the value of a training in anthropology is becoming increasingly recognized. The practical and applied dimensions of anthropology have increased significantly in recent years, and the profession attempts to serve many nonacademic needs both in American society and in international organizations.

Several major museums and libraries in New York City offer exceptional opportunities for research. Various summer schools provide opportunities for research in archaeology and ethnography, and under certain circumstances such work may be credited toward the Barnard degree. Students interested in cultural anthropology are encouraged, whenever possible, to conduct research in the New York area, or, during their summer vacations, in other localities.

All courses, except those limited to majors, satisfy the College's distribution requirements.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Every major is expected to have a general knowledge of all the fields of anthropology and of their interrelationship. The student's program should be designed in consultation with her adviser as soon as possible after the declaration of the major. Regular and frequent meetings with the adviser are encouraged.

Ten courses are required for the major, including

- V 1001 Introduction to Human Origins;
- V 1002 Introduction to Culture;
- V 3011 Social Organization;
- V 3041 History of Anthropological Theory;

2 colloquia; and

4 other Anthropology courses, one of which will be an Area course (e.g., Peoples of the Middle East, Peoples of Europe, Peoples of Africa, Peoples of Southeast Asia). The requirements of 2 colloquia and an Area course may be met by either undergraduate or graduate courses.

Anthropology

Students majoring in Anthropology are required to submit a substantial research paper or essay. Such a paper may have its origin in a colloquium (or in another course acceptable to the department), and be completed in BC 3999x or BC 3999y; or it may be based on papers submitted for two colloquia, the papers of which are to be presented to the department, along with introductory and culminating statements that make of them an entity; or it may be the result of a year's independent research in BC 3999.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor consists of 5 courses:

- V 1001 or V 1002;
- V 3041;
- one area course; and two other courses.

The department also cooperates with related programs such as Foreign Area Studies, Urban Studies, and Women's Studies, and with other departments offering, as an option to their majors, a four-course cluster in Anthropology (e.g. Architecture). Arrangements for combined, double, joint, and special majors are made in consultation with the chairman.

Premedical students who wish to minor in anthropology should seek the advice and approval of the department chairman.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BASIC COURSES

V 1001x, V 1001y. Introduction to Human Origins.

Human biological and cultural evolution, as studied by physical anthropologists and archaeologists.—Staff.

Institutions and organization of social life, particularly in non-literate societies; kinship and locality in the structuring of society.—J. Vincent.

Prerequisite: An introductory anthropology course.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (V)

V 3014x. Peoples of East Asia.

Introduction to the contemporary societies of China, Japan, and Korea, with special reference to the process of social change; emphasis on the interconnections between local communities and the total national societies.—M. Cohen.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

V 3016y. Peoples of the Pacific.

Comparative analysis of the ethnographic setting of Polynesian, Micronesian, and Melanesian populations; emphasis on theoretical contributions achieved and current anthropological problems being considered by researchers in the area.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

V 3018x. The Development of Urbanism: An Archaeological Perspective.

Development and maintenance of prehistoric urban societies, drawing upon examples from both the New and Old Worlds; relationships between developmental processes, environmental exploitation, urban-rural interactions, and the internal dynamics and structure of the city itself.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

V 3020y. Men's and Women's Speech.

Cross-cultural and cross-linguistic investigation of differences among men's and women's speech patterns as these are exemplified in literature, ethnographic texts, and actual utterances by speakers in various social settings; study of differences on the phonological, lexical, syntactic, and discourse levels; relation between cultural and linguistic patterns; variation across speakers and in time.

Prerequisite: Course V 1001 or V 1002.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

V 3021x. Sex Roles in Cross-Cultural Perspective.

Consideration of cultural expectations about male and female behavior in non-Western and Western societies. Differences in the social, economic, religious, and political behavior of men and women in a variety of cultures. Belief about sex and the sexes as well as the presence or absence of sex antagonisms.—N. Rothschild.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15. (V)

V 3024y. Changing Africa.

Major forces at work in contemporary Africa, and examination of changes that are taking place in the economic, social, political, educational, and artistic institutions of the emerging nation-states of that continent.—E. Skinner.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

V 3025y. Law, Culture, and Society.

Survey of law and order systems in Western and non-Western societies. Examination of the kinds of social control problems that societies of different levels of complexity confront and the solutions that those societies forward. Forms of conflict behavior, methods of dispute settlement, and substantive law content.—K. Newman.

3 points. Th Th 2:40-3:55. (V)

Anthropology

V 3027y. Culture and the Individual.

Development of personality in various cultural contexts: child-rearing and socialization; the role of personality theories in analyzing social systems and situations of culture change.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

V 3029y. The Archaeology of the New World.

Survey of the prehistoric past of native American cultures from the time of the aboriginal settling of the New World by Asian immigrants to that of European contact; special emphasis upon the rise of the New World civilizations in Mexico and Peru and the processes leading to their development.

3 points. Not offered in 1983-84. (V)

V 3032x. The Archaeology of the Old World.

Survey of the principal areas of cultural development in Europe, Asia, and Africa from the earliest beginnings of human culture to the dawn of first civilization.

3 points. Not offered in 1983-84. (V)

V 3033y. Sociolinguistics.

Speech considered as a social activity; the speech community; socially motivated linguistic change; ethnography of speaking; regional and social dialects; sex linked speech; the strategic use of language in varying speech events; analysis of natural discourse.—H. Woodbury.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (V)

V 3034x. Ethnolinguistics.

Linguistic categories and their relation to culture; systems of folk-classification and their analysis; linguistic representations of time, space and other systems of orientation; analysis of myths, stories, and other ethnographic texts; relationships between language and thinking.—H. Woodbury.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (V)

V 3036x. Peasant Societies.

Introduction to pre-industrial agrarian social systems; patterns of community organization and the relationship between the community and the state.

Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

V 3044y. Symbolism.

The ordering of experience through symbols in various cultures. The symbolic significance of natural anomalies, twins, the body, space, time, inversions, jokes and riddles examined through selected readings from Durkheim, van Gennep, Levi-Strauss, Mary Douglas, Victor Turner, and others.—E. Comb-Schilling.

3 points. Hours to be arranged. (V)

V 3100y. Urban Societies.

Evolution of cities: a cross-cultural view of kinds of urban formations; examinations within an anthropological context of various aspects of urban life.—R. Hassig.

3 points. Hours to be arranged. (V)

Anthropology

V 3128x. Medical Anthropology.

Examination of social and cultural factors as they relate to problems of health, illness, and medicine in the United States and in other societies.—L. Crandon.

3 points. Hours to be arranged. (V)

V 3201x. Introductory Survey to Biological Anthropology.

Human species in biological and evolutionary perspective with particular emphasis on the behavioral and morphological aspects of our evolution. Topics to be covered include evolutionary theory and basic population genetics, non-human primate behavior, fossil evidence for human evolution, human variation, and interactions of biology and culture.—R. Holloway.

3 points. Tu Th 4:10-5:25. (V)

V 3203x. Primate Behavior.

Introduction to the study of primates, emphasizing social behavioral patterns as adaptation within ecological constraints; primate taxonomy, fossil record, social behavior, uses and abuses of primate studies for understanding human evolution and behavior.—D. Melnick.

Prerequisite: Course V 3201 or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (V)

W 3204y. Dynamics of Human Evolution.

Introduction to human paleontology, particularly East African sites recently discovered, emphasizing how the fossil evidence relates to brain-behavioral evolution, sexual dimorphism, early hominid social behavior, etc.—D. Melnick.

Prerequisite: V 3201 or the permission of the instructor.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15. (V)

C 3830x. Colloquium: An Archaeological Perspective on Cultural Evolution.

A critical examination of theories dealing with the evolution of complex societies in prehistory. Topics include the development of urbanism, hydraulic agriculture, militarism, population pressure, and the role of religious ideology in the transformation from egalitarian to state-level societies.

Not offered in 1983-84.

4 points. (V)

W 4111x. Latin American Communities.

The kinds and distribution of small communities in Latin America, including peasant villages, haciendas and plantations, and towns. Their relation to the larger society as well as their internal workings.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

W 4122x. Ecological Anthropology.

Introduction to the study of human ecology as a multi-disciplinary undertaking. Emphasis on making cultural practices intelligible by relating them to the material world in which they develop or occur.

Prerequisite: V 3121 or the equivalent.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

W4187y. South Asian Society and Culture.

An examination of the peoples, institutions, and problems of contemporary South Asia. Among the topics to be covered are: village ecology and economy, community structure, family and kinship, the caste system, village-level religion, and culture change.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

W 4346x. Laboratory Techniques in Archaeology.

Training in general archaeological methods. Data recording techniques, preparation of reports, illustrations, etc. Should be taken simultaneously with W 4348x.—R. Solecki.

Enrollment limited to 15 students.

3 points. Th 10:00-12:50.

W 4347x. Economic Anthropology.

Approaches to the study of resource allocation: production, consumption, and distribution in tribal and peasant societies. Contemporary theoretical issues and selected ethnographic accounts.—M. Klass.

3 points. M W 2:40-3:55. (V)

W 4348x. Field Archaeology.

Introduction to archaeological techniques and methods of excavation.

Permission of the instructor required.

Approximately seven field sessions, supplemented by classroom work. Students must pay for their transportation and food in the field. Should be taken simultaneously with W 4346x.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

Anthropology

W 4350y. Cultural Resource Management.

Discussion of laws and regulations concerning the preservation of national archaeological resources and the procedures of cultural resource management. Contribution that public archaeology makes to research in the discipline.—N. Rothschild.

3 points. Th 10:00-1:00. (V)

W 4352x. Museology.

Methods and procedures of artifact conservation, cataloguing and display. Use of collections for research purposes.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

W 4354y. Archaeology of New York City.

The archaeology of Greater New York City and environs, from earliest Palaeo-Indian times to the early colonization of New York. Lectures illustrated from original research material, with visits to museums, and field trips to local archaeological sites. No previous coursework in archaeology necessary.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (V)

W 4625x. Anthropology and Film.

Use of film by anthropologists as a means of documentation of culturally patterned behavior and as a research tool. Films will also be analyzed as cultural texts.—P. Rubel.

3 points. W 1:00-4:00.

Dance BC 2568y. Dance and Movement: An Anthropological Approach.

An investigation of the theories and methods used to observe and analyze dance and movement in symbolic and social contexts. Critical examination of texts from the literature of anthropology and of dance. Course includes film viewing, practice in making observations, and a field work project.—C. Novack.

3 points. W 4:00-6:40.

FOR MAJORS ONLY

V 3041x. History of Anthropological Theory.

Intellectual developments contributing to the formalization of anthropology as a discipline. The works of Montesquieu, Comte, Maine, Durkheim, and Marx, along with the theoretical writings of such anthropologists as Tylor, Morgan, Boas, Malinowski, and Radcliffe-Brown.—J. Vincent.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

BC 3142x,y. Colloquium: Current Anthropological Theory.

Intensive analysis of selected theoretical approaches and issues in anthropology.

Permission of the instructor required.

Enrollment limited to ca. 16 students.

4 points.

BC 3142x. I. Male and Female in Cultural Analysis.

An examination of male and female perspectives as they affect analysis of social structure, symbolism, and political authority.

—A. Rosman.

Tu 2:10-4:00.

BC 3142. II. The Eclectic Approach in Anthropology.

An argumentative inquiry into the nature of theory in contemporary anthropology from the monothetical (such as Cultural Materialism) to the eclectic.

Not offered in 1983-84.

BC 3142y. III. Anthropological and Archaeological Approaches to the Study of Cities.

What are cities? How do they develop? How do people live in them? New York City will serve as a laboratory.—N. Rothschild.

Tu 2:10-4:00.

BC 3142y. IV. Ethnicity and Ethnic Relations.

An investigation of the notion of "marginality" which focuses on one ethnographic case, such as the Gypsies, and examines their relationship to the societies in which they exist.—J. Vincent.

Th 2:10-4:00.

V 3500y. Colloquium: Problems in Structuralism.

Reading and research in anthropological theories of structuralism; review of works of Claude Lévi-Strauss, Edmund Leach, and others in relation to relevant work in linguistics, psychology, sociology and philosophy.—R. Murphy.

Enrollment limited to 20 students.

4 points. W 11:00-12:50.

V 3700x. Colloquium: Anthropological Research Problems in Complex Societies.

Study of the local community and its relationship to regional and national societies; discussion of plural societies, minority and ethnic groups in a cross-cultural setting. Cases selected from Africa, Latin America, Asia, Europe, and North America.—K. Newman.

4 points. Tu 11:00-12:50.

Anthropology

V 3720x. Colloquium: Marxism and Ethnography.

Examination of some basic sources of Marxist social theory, their implications for anthropological theory and method, and selected ethnographies influenced by or relevant to them.

Enrollment limited to 20 students. Permission of the instructor required.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points.

V 3825x. Seminar: Archaeology and Religion.

Survey of the nature and role of religion in prehistoric societies from the time of its earliest manifestations in the archaeological record through the rise of ancient civilizations. Archaeological data as well as ancient textual evidence of religious ideology and activity in prehistoric societies throughout the world. The relationship between religion, political structure, and economy, the diffusion of religious ideologies, and the role of religion in the rise of centralized societies.

Prerequisite: Course V 1001, V 1002. Permission of the instructor required.

Not offered in 1983-84.

4 points.

V 3920x. Seminar: the Evolution of Economic Systems.

A survey of the models and methods appropriate to analysis of the development of economic systems from the earliest societies to the rise of the ancient civilization. Problems considered include analysis of subsistence strategists, specialization of production, economic differentiation, and exchange systems from a variety of perspectives. Models and data will be drawn from archaeological, ethnoarchaeological, and ethnohistorical sources.—T. D'Altroy.

Introduction to Archaeology or permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 15 students.

4 points. M 4:10-6:00.

BC 3868y. Ethnographic Research in New York City.

Seminar-Workshop on field research in New York City. Lectures, discussions and demonstrations of research methods of anthropology followed by supervised field research on selected ethnographic topics in a variety of urban settings.—P. Rubel.

Permission of the instructor required.

Enrollment limited to ca. 16 students.

Field work required.

4 points. Tu 2:10-4:00.

BC 3871x-BC 3872y. Senior Research Seminar.

Discussions and conferences on individual advanced research projects including those which have developed from students' participation in Anthropology BC 3868. Each student is engaged in independent research under the guidance of her Senior Essay Adviser. All students participating in the seminar may meet together periodically for joint discussion. During the Spring Term a final seminar meeting may be held at which students present their work prior to its submission as satisfying the Senior Research Essay requirement of the Department.—Staff.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

BC 3999x, BC 3999y. Individual Projects.

Research projects are planned in consultation with members of the department and work is supervised by the major's Research Essay adviser. The advisory system requires periodic consultation and discussion between the student and her adviser as well as the meeting of specific deadlines set by the Department each semester. The final research paper is submitted to meet the Senior Research Essay requirement of the department.—Staff.

Permission of the instructor required.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

GRADUATE COURSES

Certain graduate courses given in the University are open to qualified majors with the consent of the department chairman and the major adviser. These courses are described in the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. As noted, graduate seminars may be used to satisfy the requirement of 2 colloquia and graduate area courses may be used to fulfill the area course requirement.

Officers of the University offering courses listed below:

Professor

Robert A.M. Stern

Associate Professors

Michael Mostoller, Dorothea Nyberg

Adjunct Assistant Professors

Anthony Alofsin, Frederic Schwartz, Ronald Williams

Instructors

Dimitri Balamotis, Anna Kalla

Special Lecturer in Architecture

Mario Salvadori

Architecture majors experience and investigate the central aspects of the field. The major provides an inclusive program offering opportunities to explore historical and contemporary relationships among physical, social, and cultural forms and environmental contexts. Active studio work complements seminar discussions, lectures and research, and students are required to choose a “cluster” of courses in another area of particular interest, thus relating architecture to other disciplines.

Students considering an Architecture major or minor should consult with the adviser at the earliest possible date to develop the most appropriate sequence of studio and lecture courses. Those interested in graduate study in architecture should consult with the adviser in their junior year concerning their programs.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The major in Architecture is required to complete 16 courses, at least six of which should be Barnard courses:

5 Studio courses (studio courses have limited enrollment and priority is given to Architecture majors and upperclassmen)

V 3103	Freehand Drawing
V 3101	Architectural Graphics
BC 3114	Fundamentals of Architectural Design
V 3201-V 3202	Elements of Architectural Design I and II

7 History/Theory courses (5 Lectures and 2 Seminars)

Each semester there are other applicable courses scheduled at the University that can be taken upon approval of the adviser. For the description of these courses consult the listings of other departments.

5 Lecture courses from the following list:

C 1001	Introduction to Architecture
C 3301	The Beginning of Architecture
C 3302	Architecture in the Western World
A 4110	Building of Buildings
Art History BC 3661	European Architecture from the Renaissance to 1700
Art History BC 3669	French Architecture 1500-1800
Art History BC 3670	European Architecture from the 18th Century to 1900
Art History C 3833	Modern Architecture

Architecture

2 Seminars to be taken in the Junior or Senior Year:

BC 3934	Building Types Seminar
V 3901	Senior Seminar I or II
Art History C 3666	Architecture since 1945
Art History BC 3993	Fantasy Architecture, 1700 to the Present
BC 3425	The History of Landscape Design
BC 3431	Architectural Criticism in the Essay Form
Art History BC 3996	Art of the Rococo
Art History BC 3998	Social and Political Functions of Architecture

1 of the following courses with laboratory:

Environmental Science BC 1001, BC 1002	Environmental Science
--	------------------------------

3 courses, chosen in consultation with the adviser from one area of study or cluster such as Anthropology, Art History, Economics, Environmental Conservation and Management, Geography, History, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Urban Studies, or Studio Art.

Students who wish to continue in graduate studies in Architecture for a professional degree are also advised to take:

BC 3216	Advanced Architectural Graphics
C 3211	Intermediate Design I
Physics V 1003	General Physics
Mathematics V 1100	Brief Calculus

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Architecture consists of five courses: Architecture BC 3114, V 3103 and 3 History/Theory courses to be chosen in consultation with the adviser.

Note: All studio, seminar, and upper level courses require the permission of the instructor and student sign-up before registration.

C 1001y. Introduction to Architecture.

Intended for prospective architecture majors as well as those interested in acquiring a general familiarity with architecture. Basic concepts and representative buildings. Lectures, readings, discussions and field trips.—R. Oliver.
Recommended in the sophomore year.
3 points. M 1:00-2:00, W 12:00-1:50.

C 3301x. The Beginnings of Architecture.

Survey of the history of architecture from pre-historic times through the fall of Rome, including major examples of non-Western architecture.—E. Santomaso.
Recommended in the sophomore year.
3 points. Tu Th 12:00-2:00.

C 3302y. Architecture in the Western World.

Continuation of Course C 3301. Survey of European architecture from the fall of Rome to the beginnings of the Industrial Revolution.—E. Santomaso.
Recommended in the sophomore year.
3 points. Tu Th 12:00-1:50.

A 4110x. The Building of Buildings: A Survey of Structural Principles.

Introduction to basic concepts of structural action by means of models, slides, and films. Elementary and refined concepts are qualitatively considered without the use of mathematical tools. Special consideration to modern structural materials and to both classical and contemporary structural systems.—M. Salvadori.

Recommended in the sophomore year.
2 points. Tu 6:10-8:00.

V 3901y. Senior Seminar.

Readings, individual class presentations, and written reports. Instructors to be announced.
Open to architecture majors only.
3 points.
Section I M 11:00-1:00.
Section II F 9:00-11:00.

Architecture

BC 3425x. The History of Landscape Design
Landscape design and theory since the Renaissance; analysis of program, composition and elements of major public and private gardens in Europe and America. The education and profession of garden designers such as Lenotre, C. Brown, F. L. Olmstead, G. Jekyll, V. Sackville-West and B. Farrand.—D. Nevins.
3 points. F 11:00-12:50.

BC 3431x. Architectural Criticism in the Essay Form.

Investigation of three critical modes developed by architectural historians, journalists and architects in relation to architecture and urban design. Analysis of key texts written from the 1850s to the present.—S. Stephens.
3 points. W 11:00-12:50.

BC 3934y. Building Types Seminar.

Contextual, spatial, esthetic and structural analysis of buildings designed to serve the purpose of culture (libraries, museums) and consumption (markets, stores, exhibition halls) from the early Renaissance to the present.—S. Torre.
Permission of the Instructor.
4 points. F 11:00-12:50.

STUDIO COURSES

V 3103x, V3103y. Freehand Drawing.

Drawings from nature and architecture; spatial notations; image systems and their use; research in three dimensions.—R. Williams.
Recommended in the sophomore year.
3 points.
Section I M W 9:00-10:50.
Section II Tu Th 9:00-10:50.

V 3101x, V 3101y. Architectural Graphics.

Introduction to a two- and three-dimensional graphics vocabulary with emphasis on measured drawing techniques and scale model construction.—A. Kalla.

Art History, which involves analysis of man's cultural and artistic expressions, is one of the broadest of the humanistic disciplines. Students study works of art and relate them to the cultures that produced them. The study is both formal (dealing with problems of style) and historical (dealing with a wide range of related disciplines such as history, philosophy, literature, religion, and anthropology). Students not only examine how a work of art is made, but also ask "why"; knowledge of intention, as far as that is possible, leads to a better understanding of civilizations, past and present. The department emphasizes direct experience of the art object through use of New York City's museums and art galleries, which are the center of the international art world.

A limited number of studio courses are offered at Barnard; in addition students may take courses for which they qualify in the Department of Painting and Sculpture, School of the Arts of Columbia University. See page 81 for regulations governing these courses. A studio fee is charged for studio art courses.

Students contemplating a career in studio art should see the announcement on the Program in the Arts, page 82, and consult with the Art History Chairman or the Chairman of the Program in the Arts at the earliest possible time.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Each major chooses an adviser who assists her in planning a program that incorporates personal interests while meeting departmental requirements. Nine courses are required for the major. Art History BC 1001, 1002, Introduction to the History of Art, is strongly suggested as an introduction to the field though it may be waived if a student has sufficient previous training. The nine courses should include at least one in each of the following periods—ancient, medieval, renaissance, baroque and modern—and two seminars. Of these, four lecture courses and one seminar should be taken at Barnard. Courses in film are accepted as part of the major; studio courses are encouraged but are not part of the major.

A senior essay is required of the major. Under special circumstances and with the chairman's permission, seniors may elect Art History BC 3999, Independent Research, for the senior essay. Art History BC 3999 may not be used to fulfill the seminar requirement, but may be taken in addition to the two required seminars. The senior essay may be an expansion of a seminar paper.

Students who plan to undertake graduate work should obtain a reading knowledge of at least two foreign languages in which the major contributions to the history of art have been made. Most graduate schools require a reading knowledge of French and German; the department strongly recommends taking German while at Barnard.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Art History consists of 5 lecture courses, including Art History 1,2 and one each in three of the following periods: ancient, medieval, renaissance, baroque, and modern.

BC 3989y. The Art Film.

Examines the ways in which filmmakers approach the visual arts, using leading examples of films on art. Films on Gauguin, Van Gogh, Edward Munch, Jackson Pollock, Christo and others. Filmmakers include the Maysles brothers, Perry Miller Adato, Barbara Rose, Lucy Jarvis, Danny Lyon, Michael Blockwood and Brian O'Doherty. Papers and criticism will be part of the course work.—B. O'Doherty.

Not offered in 1983-84.

4 points.

C 3974y. Seminar in Prints and Drawings.

Technique, function, and stylistic development in Renaissance and Baroque drawings and prints. Students will study originals at the Cooper Hewitt Museum, private collections, and dealers.—C. Andersson.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

V 3980y. Seminar in Chinese Art.

The Orthodox and Individualist Modes in later Chinese painting. Issues of method and interpretation in the study of Ch'ing Dynasty painting. Problems of connoisseurship, the interaction of painting and painting theory, art historical painting, and political and personal interpretations of art. Emphasis on original works in New York collections.—R. Vinograd. Prerequisite: Junior standing and the instructor's permission.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

BC 3999x, BC 3999y. Independent Research for Seniors.

Independent research, primarily for the senior essay, under a chosen faculty adviser and with the chairman's permission.—Staff.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

STUDIO COURSES

A maximum of four courses of studio work may be credited: each of the second two must be matched with an art history course to be credited. Studio courses, 2003x, 2004y, 2005x, 2006y, 2007x, 2008y are given at Barnard. Enrollment is limited and students must sign up. The remainder of studio courses are given at the School of the Arts, in Dodge Hall, and students may register for these only with written permission of the departmental representative. Classes are limited to 18 students. Students who wish to enter the Columbia courses listed below are required to apply for space in 305 Dodge Hall during the preregistration period prior to each term.

BC 2003x, BC 2004y. Studio Painting.

Studio courses in painting with acrylic and oil; supplementary instruction in drawing and the use of color. Emphasis on individual development.—A. McCoy.

2 points. Th 2:10-6:00.

BC 2005x, BC 2006y, BC 2007x, BC 2008y. Painting.

Basic skills developed by setting specific tasks to be executed in painting. Previous art training is not necessary.—Instructor to be announced.

2 points. F 1:00-5:00.

Drawing R1001x, R1002y. Drawing, I and II.

Model fee: $15.00 per term.—Staff.

Enrollment limited to 18 students per section.

Permission of the instructor required.

3 points.

Section I M W 9:00-11:50.

Section II M W 1:10-4:00.

Program in the Arts

Office: 204 Barnard Hall Annex

Telephone: 280-2952

This program is supervised by the Committee on the Program in the Arts:

Professor of Art History

Barbara Novak

Professor of Dance

Jeanette Roosevelt

Professor of English (Writing)

Barry Ulanov (Chairman)

Professor of English (Theatre)

Kenneth Janes

Professor of Music

Hubert Doris

Program Coordinator

Deborah Loomis

Advisers for the Concentrations

Dance	Jeanette Roosevelt, 203 Barnard Hall Annex
Music	Hubert Doris, 409 Milbank Hall
Theatre	Luz Castaños, 230 Milbank Hall
Visual Arts	Instructor to be announced
Writing	Barry Ulanov, 408D Barnard Hall

The Program in the Arts is offered for a limited number of students who are gifted in one of the performing or studio arts and who wish both to continue the development of their skills and to obtain a liberal education. It is designed as an interdisciplinary major in the arts with concentration in one particular art. The program offers a general introductory course, a junior colloquium, and a senior seminar, as well as directed work in a field of concentration such as visual arts studio, music as a performing art, the dance in all its aspects, theatre as a performing art or as a discipline of literary scholarship, and writing in all its branches.

The Program draws upon the ample resources in the arts which New York City affords, both in opportunities for majors to study with master teachers and in bringing artists to the campus to work with students. Attendance at concerts and dance performances and visits to museums and galleries in the city allow a continuing interaction with the arts.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students are normally admitted to the Program in the Arts in their sophomore year, but freshmen who look forward to entering this major are strongly advised to seek the counsel of advisers as early as possible in shaping their programs so as to include courses in at least two arts other than that in which they expect to concentrate. Recommended courses include: Art History BC 1001, BC 1002; Dance BC 2566; English BC 3103, BC 3104, etc.; English BC 3129; and Music BC 1001-BC 1002. Admission is based upon application to be made before March 15 of the sophomore year. Applicants provide supporting evidence of their individual skills. There are broad general requirements and special ones in each of the disciplines, but each student's program is shaped individually.

Students accepted as majors may take classes with artist-teachers in New York City.

Each student is required to take the three courses offered by the Program:

Arts BC 3031	Imagery and Form in the Arts
Arts BC 3351	Junior Colloquium and
Arts BC 3591	Senior Seminar

Program in the Arts

In lieu of a senior thesis, majors in the Program offer an equivalent demonstration of mastery in the discipline: dancers present concerts; musicians perform solo recitals; theatre majors work as actors, designers, directors, or in a combination of these in a theatrical presentation; writers submit portfolios of stories or poems or both; visual artists hang shows of their work in Barnard's Little Gallery.

Requirements of the various concentrations within the Program are outlined in the following lists. A student should consult with the faculty member on the Committee who is responsible for the area in which her interest lies.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

No minor is offered in the Program in the Arts.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BC 3031x. Imagery and Form in the Arts.

The operation of imagery and form in dance, music, theatre, visual arts, and writing; students are expected to do original work in one of these arts.—D. Chang.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

BC 3351y. Junior Colloquium.

An interdisciplinary consideration of a crucial period in the history of the arts. The inter-relationship of the arts, their separate and common critical vocabularies, their borrowings from each other, their defining differences. Consideration of style in the various arts and major figures in the period whose innovations in style or inventions in technique led to new forms of expression, with the special skills in writing and discussion and equipping students to deal with the special problems that accompany the examination of art. Theme for 1983-84: The arts of the Baroque.—H. Doris, J. Roosevelt, and guests.

4 points. Th 4:10-6:00.

BC 3591x. Senior Seminar.

Contemporary issues in the arts, with reports and projects leading to a thesis or performance. Participating students are encouraged to work in groups, whenever their interests coincide or the logic of performance suggests such collaboration. Theme for 1983-84: Expressionism.—J. Roosevelt and guests.

4 points. Tu 4:10-6:00.

Courses required for the Dance concentration:

Dance BC 2561, BC 2562.

Dance Workshop I.

Dance BC 2563.

Form in Dance Composition.

Dance BC 2564.

Content in Dance Composition.

Dance BC 2565, BC 2566.

History of Dance.

Dance BC 2567.

Fundamentals of Music for Dancers.

Dance BC 3571, BC 3572.

Dance Workshop II.

Dance BC 3574.

Seminar on Contemporary Choreographers and Their Works.

Courses required for the Music concentration:

Any two of the following:

Music V3124. History II.

Music V3125. History III.

Music V3126. History IV.

Plus the following courses if the student is not exempted from them upon entrance into the Program:

Music V2100-V2101. Theory I and II.

Music V2300-V2301. Theory III and IV.

Music V2303-V2305. Theory V and VI.

Courses required for the Theatre concentration:

English BC 3129.

History of the Theatre: Aeschylus to Ibsen.

English BC 3133, BC 3134.

Play Production.

English BC 3131 or BC 3132.

The Contemporary Theatre.

English BC 3135 or BC 3136.

Actor's and Director's Interpretation of Dramatic Literature.

Dance Technique. One semester. (Dance composition may be substituted upon evidence of adequate prior training.)

Program in the Arts

Three courses in dramatic literature drawn from the following:

Class. Lit. V 3123.

Greek Drama and its Influences.

English BC3163 or BC 3164.

Shakespeare.

English BC 3186.

Modern Drama.

French BC 3034.

The French Theater of the Seventeenth Century.

Greek V 3305.

Tragedy.

German BC 3025.

German Prose and Drama from Buchner to Nietzsche.

German BC 3026.

Modern German Theater.

Courses required for the Visual Arts concentration:

Art History BC 1001, BC 1002.

Introduction to the History of Art.

Art History BC 3678, BC 3679.

Modern Art.

Art History BC 3986.

Seminar in Art Criticism.

A minimum of four studio courses, to be selected from offerings listed in the Barnard catalogue.

Courses required for the Writing concentration:

Four courses selected from the following:

English BC 3103, BC 3104.

Structure and Style.

English BC 3105, BC 3106.

The Craft of Writing.

English BC 3107, BC 3108.

Experiments in Writing.

English BC 3111, BC 3112.

Story Writing.

English BC 3113, BC 3114.

Dramatic Writing.

English BC 3193.

Literary Analysis and Evaluation.

Plus two advanced courses from any of the College departments of language and literature.

¹Absent on leave, Autumn Term

Biology is a field which explores the structure, function, interactions, and evolution of living organisms. It includes the study of communities, populations, whole organisms, organs, tissues, cells, and subcellular components. Some of the most exciting issues of the day, such as those relating to ecological problems, genetic engineering, and environment and health, require a strong background in biology. At Barnard the emphasis is on organismal biology. Courses cover the gross and fine structure, development, physiology, behavior, ecology, and evolution of organisms and populations of organisms. This approach is complemented by the molecular, biochemical, and neurobiological approach of the Columbia University department.

Many students specialize in this field in preparation for a career in medicine, dentistry, public health, or nutrition, while others anticipate graduate work in one of the many sub-fields of biology leading to a teaching and research career. Still others plan futures as biological or medical librarians, scientific illustrators or photographers, researchers in industry or government, or in environmental law.

Equipment available at Barnard includes an RCA 4B transmission electron microscope with accessory equipment, photomicrographic and darkroom instruments, an Apple II computer, a scintillation counter, an ultracentrifuge, and physiographs. The facilities include constant temperature rooms, darkrooms, an animal care facility, and a greenhouse. A Biology Club, originated and governed by students and sponsored by the department, presents seminars and film programs of interest.

Students are encouraged to do summer work in biological laboratories or field stations. Financial assistance for such work may be awarded to qualified students through the Edna Henry Bennett Memorial Scholarship Fund, the Herbert Maule Richards Fund, or the Donald and Nancy Ritchie Fund. The department maintains a folder of summer courses and research stations, and information on available funds can be obtained from the department chairman. Support for participation or assistance in the research of the Barnard faculty is available at times from research grants and such programs as the Merck Foundation grant on Women in Science and Technology.

Biological Sciences

Biology BC 1101-BC 1102, or its equivalent, is a prerequisite for upper level courses in the department. Students who have passed the Advanced Placement examination with a grade of 4 or 5 are exempted from the general course, but will not receive course credit. Students should consult with the department chairman before entering courses for which general biology is a prerequisite. Students may also take courses at Columbia University, including graduate courses; they should consult the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and their advisers before planning to take such courses.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students are encouraged to make a balanced selection of courses for the major, but no special concentration or track is required. Majors should consult their departmental advisers who are chosen at the end of the sophomore year.

A minimum of nine courses in biology (of which six must include laboratory work) and two courses in chemistry with laboratory (including organic chemistry) are required for the major. To ensure a balanced preparation in biology, at least one course must be selected from each of five of the following categories:

- i. Biochemistry, Molecular Biology: C 3501, Biochem G 4021, C 3064, W 3073
- ii. Genetics: BC 3105, C 3032
- iii. Cell Biology: BC 3110, BC 3128, W 3040, W 3041
- iv. Anatomy, Physiology, Development: BC 3109, BC 3111, BC 3116, BC 3124, BC 3134, W 3002, W 3022
- v. Organismic Biology: BC 3103, BC 3107, BC 3115
- vi. Population Biology: BC 3108, BC 3119, W 3094

Courses counting for the laboratory requirement are listed below. There is a laboratory fee of $25 per biology laboratory course:

Biology BC 1101-BC 1102	General Biology
Biology BC 3103	The Biology of Plants
Biology BC 3105 with Biology BC 3114	Introduction to Genetics with Laboratory in Genetics
Biology BC 3107	Invertebrate Zoology
Biology BC 3109	Vertebrate Embryology
Biology BC 3110	Microbiology
Biology BC 3111	Morphology of Vascular Plants
Biology BC 3116 with Biology BC 3118	Mammalian Physiology with Laboratory in Physiology
Biology BC 3119	Population and Community Ecology
Biology BC 3124	Plant Development
Biology BC 3128 with Biology BC 3130	Biology of Cells and Tissues with Laboratory in Cell and Tissue Biology
Biology BC 3134 with Biology BC 3136	Plant Physiology with Laboratory in Plant Physiology
Biology BC 3138 with Biology BC 3140	Biology of Reproduction with Laboratory in Reproductive Biology
Biology BC 3151	Quantitative Field Biology
Biology BC 3599	Problems of Biology (if it includes laboratory work)
Chemistry BC 3355	Biochemistry Techniques Laboratory
Columbia biology courses with laboratory
Laboratory courses from other colleges (with special permission of the chairman).

Majors who passed the Advanced Placement examination with a grade of 5 and who are allowed the exemption for Biology BC 1101-BC 1102 are required to take a minimum of eight courses in biology; four with laboratory in addition to the "balance" and chemistry requirements. Those with a grade of 4 that are allowed the exemption, however, must complete all the requirements for the major.

Biological Sciences

Participation in a special project, Biology BC 3598 or BC 3599, is highly recommended. These courses give the student an opportunity to experience independent laboratory research. Both intradepartmental (Biology BC 3599) and extradepartmental (Biology BC 3598) projects require the approval of a member of the faculty in the department, who serves as sponsor (intradepartmental projects) or as cosponsor (extradepartmental projects). All projects must involve planning, experimentation and interpretation of results and all require a formal report, written in journal style. All extradepartmental projects receive pass or fail grades; intradepartmental projects may be graded P or F, or by a letter grade, at the option of the sponsor. Only one term may be counted toward the major.

The Graduate Record Examination is used as the major examination. The scores are also used, together with grade point averages and faculty recommendations, to determine the recipients of departmental honors.

A year of chemistry with laboratory, including one term of organic chemistry, is required for the major. A number of upper level biology courses require two years of chemistry (Chemistry BC 1601, General Chemistry; BC 3328, BC 3230 and BC 3231, Organic Chemistry I-II; BC 3232, Intermediate General Chemistry; and BC 3338, Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory). Entering freshmen who plan to major in biology are encouraged to take Chemistry BC 1601 and BC 3328, BC 3230 in addition to Biology BC 1101 and BC 1102 in their first year. Students interested in attending graduate or professional schools should also take at least two years of chemistry, and, in addition, one year each of calculus and physics. Graduate work generally requires a knowledge of one or more modern foreign languages.

Students interested in the health sciences should register with the Pre-Professional Office in their freshman or sophomore year and must take the MCT exam in their junior year.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minor in biology must have one year of general biology (two terms with laboratory) and three more advanced courses in biology, two of which must include laboratory work. Physics, Psychology, Chemistry, and Biochemistry majors need take only one advanced laboratory instead of two.

BIOPSYCHOLOGY

A major in biopsychology aims to provide a strong background in the biobehavioral sciences for students who plan to pursue a Ph.D. in Biopsychology or Psychobiology and for whom research training is of prime concern, and for students planning to enter the health sciences. The program is jointly administered by the departments of Biological Sciences and Psychology. Students electing this track are exposed to traditional courses in Biology (e.g., genetics, physiology) and Psychology (e.g., learning), as well as to interdisciplinary courses (e.g., development and evolution of behavior, neurosciences) and research training in the laboratory setting.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE BIOPSYCHOLOGY MAJOR

It should be noted that students may also arrange individualized interdisciplinary programs by taking a major in either Psychology or Biological Sciences and a minor in the other discipline, or by taking a double major.

A minimum of 12 courses in Biology and Psychology is required:

Biology BC 1101-BC 1102 with laboratory;

One of the following combinations:

Biology BC 3116 with Biology BC 3118 and Psychology BC 3119,
Physiological Psychology or Biology BC 3116 and Psychology BC 3117;

Biology BC 3105 Introduction to Genetics
Biology BC 3122 Animal Behavior

Biological Sciences

Psychology BC 1001 Introduction to Psychology
Psychology BC 1105 Psychology of Learning
Psychology BC 1609 Statistics

One of the following courses:

Biology BC 3107 Invertebrate Zoology
Biology BC 3108 Physiological Ecology
Biology BC 3109 Vertebrate Embryology
Biology BC 3115 Vertebrate Zoology
Biology BC 3119 Population and Community Ecology
Biology BC 3138 Biology of Reproduction
Biology W 3002 Introduction to Animal Structure and Function
Biology-Chemistry
C 3501 Biochemistry I
Biochemistry G 4021 General Biochemistry
Psychology BC 2154 Hormones and Reproductive Behavior
Psychology BC 3169 Developmental Psychobiology

Either Biology BC 3599 or Psychology BC 3599 or Psychology BC 3591-BC 3592 in which the student will prepare a project;

If the project is taken in biology, one additional psychology course with laboratory; if project is taken in psychology, one additional biology course with laboratory;

Plus at least 7 cognate courses:

Chemistry BC 1601	General Chemistry I
Chemistry BC 3230, BC 3231	Organic Chemistry I and II
Physics V 1003, V 1004 or	General Physics
Physics V 1103, V 1104	General Physics
Mathematics	One year calculus

Computer Science is optional.

The major examination consists of the Graduate Record Examination in Biology, the Graduate Record Examination in Psychology, or the completion of a satisfactory research paper in Psychology.

Students who wish to attend graduate or medical school are advised to take two semesters each of General Chemistry and Organic Chemistry.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

There is no minor in Biopsychology.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BC 1101x-BC 1102y. General Biology.

Nature, development, and implications of biological knowledge; biochemical basis and energy relations of organisms; structure and function of cells; organization and physiology of plants and animals, with emphasis on integration and control; classical and molecular genetics; development and differentiation; evolution, ecology, and animal behavior.—1: P. Ammirato; 2: P. Hertz.

Enrollment in laboratory sections limited to 16 students per section.

4½ points.

Lecture M W F 9:00.

Laboratory Tu or Th 9:00-11:50, W or F 10:00-12:50, M, Tu, or Th 1:10-4:00, M, Tu, W, or Th 2:10-5:00.

BC 3103y. The Biology of Plants.

Evolutionary, morphological, physiological, and ecological aspects of plants, with some attention to their historical, esthetic, and economic importance.—D. Stevenson.

Prerequisites: Course 1-2 or equivalent, and permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to 48 students.

5 points.

Lecture Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

Laboratory Tu or W 1:10-5:00.

Biological Sciences

BC 3104x. Natural History of the New York Area.

Field observations of plants, fungi, birds, reptiles, amphibians, lower invertebrates and arthropods; methods of identification, collection, preservation; visits to a variety of ecosystems, both semi-wild and altered by man.—F. Warburton, D. Stevenson, and J. Sanders.

Registration for course in Autumn.

Enrollment limited to ca. 15 students.

Field trips, laboratory, and discussions required.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points.

BC 3105x. Introduction to Genetics.

Mendelian and quantitative genetics of plants, animals, and man; segregation, recombination, measurement of linkage, and genetics of continuous variation; cytogenetics; developmental genetics; population genetics and evolution. Human genetics emphasized where it exemplifies general principles.—F. Warburton.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent, calculus or statistics, or permission of the instructor.

Students interested in laboratory see BC 3114.

3 points.

Lecture Tu Th 10:35-11:50, plus one hour recitation and demonstration to be arranged.

BC 3106y. Evolution.

Modern theory of evolution: genetic and ecological mechanisms that adapt organisms to their environments and increase the diversity of species.—F. Warburton.

Prerequisite: BC 1101-BC 1102 or equivalent.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

BC 3107x. Invertebrate Zoology.

Invertebrate animals: comparative fine and gross structure, development, physiology and autecology; emphasis on marine invertebrates. Laboratory-demonstration includes a survey of major groups and an individual project on the ultrastructure, physiology, or ecology of an invertebrate animal.—P. Dudley.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent, and permission of the instructor.

5 points.

Lecture: M W F 11:00.

Laboratory/demonstration: W 1:10-5:00.

BC 3108y. Physiological Ecology.

Effects of selected physicochemical environmental factors on organisms in populations and communities; characteristics of major terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems; human influences on the environment.—P. Dudley.

Prerequisites: A year of college biology and permission of the instructor. A course in general chemistry is recommended.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15.

BC 3109x. Vertebrate Embryology.

Anatomy, morphogenesis, and differentiation of embryos of vertebrate animals: gametogenesis, fertilization, cleavage, gastrulation, and the morphogenetic and physiological events which occur during embryonic histogenesis and organogenesis. The laboratory includes comparative studies of the anatomy of embryos and experimental analysis of development.—S. Hampton.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 with laboratory or its equivalent with permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to 40 students.

5 points.

Lecture M W F 9:00.

Laboratory M or Tu 1:10-5:00.

BC 3110y. General Microbiology.

Survey of procaryotic and eucaryotic microorganisms; structure and function, nutrition, physiology, genetics, growth, inhibition of growth and activity, classification, distribution and importance in natural environments.—W. Corpe.

Prerequisites: A year of college biology, general chemistry and permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to 24 students.

5 points.

Lecture M W F 9:00.

Laboratory M W 1:00-3:00.

BC 3111x. Morphology of Vascular Plants.

An analysis of form and structure in the higher plants. Differentiation, ultrastructure and anatomy of cells, tissues and organs. Evolution and comparative morphology studied from the viewpoint of both fossil and extant representatives. Laboratory utilizes various histological techniques including fossil peels.—D. Stevenson.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or equivalent; BC 3103.

Enrollment limited to 24 students.

5 points.

Lecture: Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

Laboratory: Th 1:10-5:00.

Biological Sciences

BC 3113x. Biogeography.

Plant and animal distribution: the effects of biological introductions via human activities, the major vegetation zones, mechanisms of dispersal, and utilization of the biota including the effects of exploitation on species and habitats.

—D. Stevenson.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or equivalent (or one year of any other laboratory science and permission of the instructor).

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points.

BC 3114y. Laboratory in General Genetics.

Exercises in the use of Drosophila, Neurospora, bacteria and bacteriophages to illustrate basic genetic principles and to investigate population genetics, linkage and recombination, and biochemical genetics; techniques used in human genetics and cytogenetics.—F. Warburton.

Prerequisite: BC 3105.

Enrollment limited to 32 students.

2 points. Tu or W 1:10-5:00.

BC 3115x. Vertebrate Zoology.

A systematic survey of the Phylum Chordata including fossil history, biogeography, systematics, natural history, body architecture, energetics, locomotion, feeding, and behavior.—P. Hertz.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or its equivalent and permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to 32 students.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

BC 3116x. Mammalian Physiology.

Physiology of major organ systems; function and control of circulatory, respiratory, digestive, excretory, endocrine, and nervous systems in animals; emphasis on higher vertebrates and man.—J. Chase.

Prerequisites: Three terms of biology, two terms of organic chemistry, or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

BC 3118x. Laboratory in Physiology.

Physiographic recording of cardiac, respiratory and muscle function; small animal surgery; sterotaxic and histological confirmation of lesions. Additional laboratories in amphibian metamorphosis, enzyme kinetics, active transport, exercise physiology and renal function.—J. Chase.

Corequisite or Prerequisite: BC 3116.

Enrollment limited to 32 students.

2 points. Th or F 1:10-5:00.

BC 3119x. Population and Community Ecology.

Introduction to major concepts and issues in evolutionary ecology; emphasis on such topics as life history strategies, population growth, competition, predator-prey interactions, population regulation, species diversity, community organization, biogeography. Lectures integrate recent theory with observational and experimental data.—P. Hertz.

Prerequisites: A year of college biology, one of the following: BC 3103, BC 3107, BC 3110, or BC 3115, and permission of the instructor.

Calculus is recommended.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

Not offered in 1983-84.

5 points.

BC 3122y. Animal Behavior.

Introduction to animal behavior: physiological bases of behavior (sensory systems, neurophysiology of behavior, appetitive and reproductive behavior), traditional ethological approaches to behavior (communication, dyadic behavior, territoriality, dominance and aggression) and evolution of behavior (behavior genetics, ecological correlates, social behavior).—J. Chase.

Prerequisite: One year of biology or one year of psychology.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

BC 3124y. Plant Development.

Processes of growth, differentiation and organization in plants; major morphogenetic events in the transition from zygote to flowering plant; hormonal and environmental effects and mechanisms of action. Laboratory utilizes whole plant, organ and cell cultures.—P. Ammirato.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or equivalent, one semester of organic chemistry, and permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 5 points.

BC 3126y. History of Biology.

Growth of biological knowledge and ideas to the time of Darwin and Pasteur, and the paths leading to modern genetics, developmental biology, and evolutionary theory since then, in relation to concurrent developments in technology, medicine, and other sciences; religious, political and social influences on biological thought. Numerous excerpts from original biological writings will be examined.

Biological Sciences

—F. Warburton.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent, and one advanced biology course.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points.

BC 3128x. Biology of Cells and Tissues.

Structural and physiological aspects of cells, tissues and organs in vertebrate animals; advances in histological technology; light microscopic and electron microscopic studies of the structure of cell organelles and the basic types of tissues; integration of tissues as organs; modern concepts of function.—P. Dudley.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or its equivalent, and one advanced biology course or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1983-84. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points.

BC 3130x. Laboratory in Cell and Tissue Biology.

Optional laboratory to be taken concurrently with BC 3128. Correlated light microscopic and electron microscopic analyses of the structure of tissues and organs of vertebrate animals; demonstrations and practice in histochemical, light microscopic and electron microscopic techniques.—P. Dudley.

Corequisite: BC 3128. Permission of the instructor required.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

Not offered in 1983-84. Offered in 1984-85. 2 points.

BC 3134y. Plant Physiology.

Processes of metabolism, nutrition, growth, and development of green plants: photosynthesis, respiration, nitrogen and intermediate metabolism, water and solute uptake and transfer, translocation, plant growth regulators, tropisms and nasties, photoperiodism, vernalization, dormancy, senescence and death.—P. Ammirato.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or its equivalent, one term of organic chemistry and permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

M F 11:00-12:00.

3 points.

BC 3136y. Laboratory in Plant Physiology.

Determination of water and osmotic potential and transpiration rates. Solute uptake and mineral deficiency studies. Photomeric determination of the Hill reaction in isolated chloroplasts; manometric measurement of CO₂ compensation points and respiration rates. Extraction, separation and identification of amino acids, nucleic acids and plant hormones. Bioassay procedures with whole plants and cell cultures. Studies of phytochrome controlled germination and photomorphogenesis.—P. Ammirato.

Corequisite or Prerequisite: BC 3134.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

2 points. Th 1:10-5:00.

BC 3138y. The Biology of Reproduction.

The diversity of reproductive strategies in animals; functional morphology, physiology and endocrinology of reproduction; pregnancy, placentation, parturition, lactation; reproductive efficiency, fertility, sterility.—S. Hampton.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or its equivalent; BC 3109 or Psychology BC 3154; or permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to 40 students.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10.25.

BC 3140y. Laboratory in Reproductive Biology.

Optional laboratory to be taken concurrently with BC 3138. Assay systems for reproductive hormones. Spermatogenesis. In vitro and in vivo studies of oocyte maturation and fertilization; transfer of fertilized eggs to foster mothers, using rodents. Uterine and placental physiology. Experimental teratology.—S. Hampton.

Corequisite: BC 3138.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

2 points. Th 1:10-5:00.

BC 3144y. Cytogenetics.

The chemical and genetic organization of chromosomes and the behavior of chromosomes in dividing and non-dividing cells. Relationships of chromosomal components to metabolic functions and cellular and organismic life cycles. The contributions of cytogenetics to understanding taxonomic relationships and evolutionary processes in procaryotic and eucaryotic organisms.—S. Hampton.

Prerequisite: BC 3105 or C 3032 or equivalent.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points.

BC 3151x. Quantitative Field Biology.

An introduction to ecological theory and methods with an emphasis on hypothesis construction, experimental design, methods of field data collection, data analysis, and presentation of research results. Students will design and complete field projects, culminating in oral and written reports.—P. Hertz and D. Stevenson.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102, one of the following: BC 3108, BC 3113, BC 3119, and permission of the instructors.

Biological Sciences

Enrollment limited to 12 students.

5 points. Tu 1:10-5:00 and all day Saturday (first six weeks in Autumn and last six weeks in Spring term).

BC 3598x, BC 3598y. External Studies in Biology.

Research projects outside the department developed in consultation with an instructor who serves as cosponsor.—Staff.

Prerequisite: One year of general biology and permission of the instructor.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

BC 3599x, BC 3599y. Individual Research in Biology.

Independent work in the department to suit the needs of the student after consultation with the instructor.—Staff.

Prerequisite: One year of general biology and permission of the instructor.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 1208y. Introduction to Organismic and Evolutionary Biology of Animals.

¹Absent on leave, Spring Term.

Chemistry is the study of the nature of substances and their transformations. In a three-year sequence of core courses, a chemistry or biochemistry major gains familiarity with the basic areas of the field: inorganic, organic, physical, and analytical chemistry. In addition, she acquires sufficient skill in the laboratory so that she is prepared for independent research.

Students who have taken an Advanced Placement course in secondary school may be given advanced placement and credit with scores of 4 or 5, if they present evidence of satisfactory laboratory experience.

The laboratories of the department are modern and well-equipped both for course work and for independent projects. Students may undertake independent research projects under the guidance of members of the department during the academic year or the summer; some student work has been published in chemical journals. Opportunities are also available for undertaking research projects with members of the staff of one of the many medical schools or research institutions in New York City, as well as with the Columbia faculty.

Students wishing to fulfill the minimum two year chemistry requirement for medical school should take Chemistry BC 1601, General Chemistry; Chemistry BC 3328, BC 3230, and BC 3231, Organic Chemistry I and II with laboratory; Chemistry BC 3232, Intermediate General Chemistry; and Chemistry BC 3338, Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory.

The fee of $28 per laboratory course covers the cost of non-returnable items, chemicals, and other consumable supplies, as well as reasonable breakage. In addition, students may be charged for excessive breakage.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Two majors are offered by the department, in chemistry and biochemistry. The same major examination is required for both chemistry and biochemistry; there is no senior essay required for either.

Chemistry

A student who is interested in chemistry should consult any member of the department during her freshman year. In the first year she should take Chemistry BC 1601, BC 3328, and BC 3230, and start or continue the study of calculus. It is then possible for her to fulfill the basic requirements for the major in three years and to take advanced courses in the senior year. After completing the undergraduate curriculum, students are encouraged to take graduate courses in chemistry or biochemistry at Columbia, and to undertake independent research projects.

Chemistry

Courses required for the major are:

Chemistry BC 1601	General Chemistry
Chemistry BC 3328, BC 3230, BC 3231	Organic Chemistry I with laboratory and II
Chemistry BC 3335	Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory
Chemistry BC 3236	Introductory Thermodynamics and Kinetics
Chemistry BC 3340	Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory
Chemistry BC 3261	Atomic and Molecular Structure
Chemistry BC 3264	Applied and Statistical Thermodynamics
Chemistry BC 3365, BC 3368	Advanced Chemistry Laboratory

(For BC 3365 and BC 3368, Chemistry BC 3370 may be substituted.)

Physics V1103-V1104 General Physics with Laboratory

Physics C1006-C1007

Mathematics Calculus I, II, and III in any sequence (A, B, or C)

Recommended: Calculus IV and an advanced inorganic chemistry course.

A list of major requirements, several possible course sequences, and information about the major examination may be obtained from any member of the department.

Students interested in taking Chemistry BC 3599 should consult with individual faculty members about the research problems currently being investigated.

Biochemistry

Courses required for the major are:

Chemistry BC 1601, BC 3328, BC 3230, BC 3231,
BC 3333, BC 3338 and BC 3355;

Chemistry BC 3236 and BC 3264 (or Chemistry
V3059-V3060);

Introductory Physical Chemistry I and II

Biology BC 1101, BC 1102

Physics V1103-V1104

Calculus I, and II.

General Biology General Physics

Biology-Chemistry C 3501 and G 4502

Biochemistry I and II

Elective courses totaling 5 points from a list of approved Biology and Chemistry courses.

A list of major requirements, including the courses from which the advanced laboratory and lecture electives are to be selected, and information about the major examination may be obtained from any member of the department.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Courses required for the Chemistry minor are: Chemistry BC 1601, BC 3328, BC 3230, BC 3231, BC 3333, and BC 3338, plus one of the following three: Chemistry BC 3232, BC 3236, or V 3059.

There is no minor in Biochemistry.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BC 1601x. General Chemistry I.

Particulate nature of matter in various states; chemical transformations of matter, especially of ionic substances; properties of gases and kinetic theory, solutions, equilibrium, oxidation-reduction reactions and thermochemistry; laboratory experience with both qualitative and quantitative techniques.—B. Segal, G. King and associates.

Prerequisite: Algebra (Math SAT score of 550 for freshmen).

Enrollment in laboratory sections limited to 176 students.

5 points. Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

Recitation one afternoon: M Tu W Th or F 1:10-2:00.

Laboratory same afternoon as recitation M Tu W Th or F 2:00-5:00 or Th 10:35-1:35.

Students in the morning lab must choose a M, Tu, or W recitation.

Lecture and lab must be taken together unless permission of the instructor is given at the time of program filing.

BC 1602y. General Chemistry II.

Kinetics and mechanisms of chemical reactions; nuclear chemistry and radioactivity; atomic and molecular structure; chemistry of selected elements with attention to carbon; selected topics in environmental chemistry and biochemistry.—S. Chapman, G. King and associates.

Prerequisite: BC 1601 or permission of the instructor. Students who have completed BC 3230 or its equivalent may not subsequently receive credit toward the degree for BC 1602. Primarily for majors in fields other than science.

5 points. Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

Recitation and laboratory one afternoon Tu or W 1:10-5:00.

BC 3328y. Introductory Organic Chemistry Laboratory.

Basic techniques of experimental organic chemistry. Principles and methods of separation, purification, and characterization of organic compounds and techniques of compound preparation.—R.D. Libby, J. Carter, and associates.

Prerequisite: BC 1601 or equivalent with grade of C– or better, or BC 1601 and BC 1602 or equivalent. Corequisite: BC 3230 or equivalent.

Enrollment limited to 144.

2½ points.

Lecture one afternoon M Tu W Th or F 1:00-1:50.

Laboratory same afternoon as lecture M Tu W Th or F 1:50-5:30.

BC 3230y. Organic Chemistry I.

Atomic and molecular structure; an introduction to aliphatic and aromatic chemistry with emphasis on modern theories; basic organic reaction mechanisms, stereochemistry and spectroscopy.—R.D. Libby.

Prerequisite: BC 1601 or equivalent with a grade of C– or better, or BC 1601 and BC 1602 or equivalent.

3 points. Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

Problem section F 12:00.

BC 3231x. Organic Chemistry II.

Continued treatment of the topics of Organic Chemistry I with extensions and an introduction to biological compounds and bio-macromolecules.—B. Jacobson.

Prerequisite: BC 3230. Required for biology majors and premedical students.

3 points. M W F 10:00.

Problem section Tu 12:00.

BC 3232y. Intermediate General Chemistry.

Selected aspects of general chemistry, primarily for premedical and biological science students without the background for Chemistry BC 3236 or V 3059. Thermochemistry, chemical equilibrium, chemical kinetics, complex ions and coordination compounds, and nuclear chemistry, with applications to analytical chemistry and biochemistry.—B. Segal.

Prerequisite: BC 1601 and Organic Chemistry 1. BC 3230 may be taken as a corequisite with permission of the instructor.

Optional parallel laboratory work: one afternoon under BC 3338.

Course C 1404 is not an acceptable equivalent for BC 3232.

3 points. M W F 10:00.

BC 3333x. Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory.

Introduction to qualitative and quantitative organic analysis and to advanced techniques, emphasizing instrumental and chromatographic methods.—B. Jacobson, J. Carter.

Prerequisites: BC 3328 and BC 3230. Corequisite: BC 3231. Suitable for premedical and biological science students but not required by all medical schools.

Enrollment limited to 12 students.

3 points. Lecture Th 1:10.

Laboratory one afternoon Tu 1:10-5:00 or F 1:10-5:00.

Chemistry

BC 3335x. Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory.

Identical with BC 3333, but with a library problem, a short project and additional preparative experiments.—B. Jacobson, J. Carter.
Prerequisites: BC 3328 and BC 3230. Corequisite: BC 3231. Chemistry majors must take this course, but it is not required by medical schools. Enrollment limited to 15 students.
5 points. Lecture Th 1:10.
Laboratory two afternoons Tu 1:10-5:00, Th 2:10-6:00 plus two additional hours to be arranged.

BC 3236y. Introductory Thermodynamics and Kinetics.

Introduction to chemical kinetics, the laws of thermodynamics, and a study of ionic solutions and crystals.—L. Lessinger.
Prerequisites: BC 3230, Calculus I and II, and preceding or parallel Physics V1103-V1104 and Calculus III. Recommended parallel: BC 3340.
4 points.
Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25 and M 12:00.

BC 3338y. Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory.

Quantitative techniques in volumetric analysis, radiochemistry, spectrophotometry, and pH measurement. Biochemical applications are included and some experience with computer programming is provided.—S. Chapman and O. Jebejian.
Prerequisite: Course V3059 or corequisite: BC 3232 or BC 3236.
Suitable for premedical and biological science students. Required of biochemistry majors.
3 points. Lecture Tu 1:10.
Laboratory Tu 2:10-6:00 or Th 1:10-5:00.

BC 3340y. Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory.

Identical with BC 3338 except that a greater variety of experiments is offered, with more individual options.—S. Chapman and O. Jebejian.
Prerequisite: V 3059 or corequisite: BC 3232 or BC 3236.
Required of chemistry majors and suitable also for premedical and biological science students.
5 points. Lecture Tu 1:10.
Laboratory two afternoons Tu 2:10-6:00 and Th 1:10-5:00.

V3059x. Introductory Physical Chemistry I.

Thermodynamics, physical chemistry of solutions, chemical equilibria including acid-base equilibria, electrochemistry.—S. Chapman.
Prerequisite: Organic Chemistry II, Calculus I and II, and Physics V1103-V1104, or the equivalents.
Intended for majors in biochemistry and biology, and premedical students.
3 points.
Recommended laboratory: BC 3338 or BC 3340. Lecture M W F 11:00.
Recitation hour W 12:00.

V3060y. Introductory Physical Chemistry II.

Kinetic theory, chemical kinetics, transport properties, surfaces, macromolecules, quantum chemistry, and spectroscopy.—L. Chia.
Prerequisite: V 3059 or permission of the instructor.
3 points. M W F 11:00.

BC 3355x. Biochemistry: Laboratory Techniques.

Experience with fundamental techniques used in the isolation, characterization and study of biomolecules. Techniques employed include homogenization, centrifugation, solvent extraction, salt fractionation, chromatography, electrophoresis, chemical and enzymic assays, enzyme kinetics and simple genetic cell transformation methods.—D. Libby.
Prerequisite: BC 3231, Biology BC 1101, BC 1102 and a total of four semesters of chemistry and biology laboratory. Corequisite: Biology-Chemistry C 3501 or Biochemistry G 4021.
Enrollment limited to 30 students.
5 points. Lecture: Tu 1:10-2:00.
Lab: Tu 2:00-6:00 and Th 1:10-5:00.

BC 3261x. Atomic and Molecular Structure.

Introduction to quantum chemistry and spectroscopy.—L. Lessinger.
Prerequisite: BC 3236, Physics V1103-V1104, and Calculus III. Calculus IV is recommended.
4 points. Lecture M W F 11:00, Tu 12:00.

BC 3264y. Applied and Statistical Thermodynamics.

Thermodynamics of real gases and solutions; phase equilibria; kinetic theory of gases; statistical thermodynamics, partition functions, equilibrium.—B. Segal.
Prerequisite: BC 3230, BC 3236, Physics V1103-V1104, and Calculus III. BC 3261 and Calculus IV are recommended.
4 points. Lecture M W F 11:00, F 12:00.

BC 3365x. Advanced Chemistry Laboratory. Laboratory experience with various types of spectroscopy.—L. Lessinger.

Prerequisite or corequisite: BC 3261.

2 points. W 1:00-5:00, and if enrollment requires, M 1:00-5:00.

BC 3368y. Advanced Chemistry Laboratory. Preparation and characterization of inorganic compounds; experiments in kinetics, spectroscopy, and electrochemistry using instrumental methods; some experience with computer programming is provided.—L. Lessinger and C. Wu.

Prerequisite: BC 3236 or V 3059, and BC 3340 or equivalent. Corequisite: BC 3264. BC 3335 is recommended.

3 points. Lecture Tu 12:00.

Laboratory one afternoon M or W 1:10-5:00.

BC 3370y. Advanced Chemistry Laboratory. Identical with BC 3365 plus BC 3368.

—L. Lessinger and C. Wu.

Prerequisite: BC 3236 or V 3059, and BC 3340 or equivalent, and BC 3261. Corequisite: BC 3264. BC 3335 is recommended.

5 points. Lecture Tu 12:00.

Laboratory two afternoons M W 1:10-5:00.

BC 3599x, BC 3599y. Problems in Chemistry. Advanced individual laboratory projects for students who have completed the major requirements.—Staff.

Prerequisite: Completion of major laboratory BC 3335 and BC 3340. For some projects, BC 3370 is also required. Permission of the instructor required.

4 points. Eight hours by arrangement.

Summer Research

The department has available a number of fellowships for summer research within the department. (Funding has been provided primarily by the IBM Foundation.) Individual members of the department should be consulted, early in the spring semester, about the availability of projects.

Attention is called to the following courses offered elsewhere in the University.

Biology-Chemistry C3501x. Biochemistry I.

²Absent on leave, Spring Term

The objectives of the department are to provide students with a knowledge of the language and an understanding of the literature and civilization of the ancient Greeks and Romans. The close cooperation of Barnard and Columbia in planning and implementing the curriculum offers students a wide range of specialties from which to construct a sound and coherent program of studies according to their individual interests. All members of the Barnard department are available as advisers and should be consulted as early as possible in the planning of a major program.

Students may fulfill the foreign language requirement in Greek and Latin either by completing Greek BC 2011, Prose and Poetry, and Greek BC 2012, Selections from Homer; or by completing Latin BC 2003, Cicero: Selections, and Latin BC 2004, Vergil: Selections from the Aeneid; or by completing one semester of study above Greek BC 2012 or Latin BC 2004 (or the equivalent Columbia courses); or by passing an exemption examination with a sufficiently high grade. This examination tests the student's knowledge of grammar and her ability to translate written Greek or Latin. Students may fulfill the language requirement in Modern Greek by completing Modern Greek BC 2004, Intermediate Course II.

The Classics Department is the beneficiary of the Matthew Alan Kramer Fund whose principal purpose is the support of the production of plays in Ancient Greek and Latin. In recent years students of the department have produced Medea, Alcestis, The Persians, and The Eumenides and Cyclops which have proved not only satisfying in themselves, but have provided an exciting and different learning experience for the participants.

Barnard College participates in the program of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome. Students who have completed at least four semesters of Latin above the elementary course, and at least one semester of elementary Greek, are eligible to apply for admission to the program of the Rome Center for one or two semesters, preferably in the junior year. Courses taken at the Rome Center may be used in the major and, in some cases, may be used to satisfy distribution requirements. Barnard College is a Supporting Institution of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens and the American Academy in Rome, and certain privileges of those schools are open, without fee, to graduates of the College.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR IN GREEK, LATIN, AND GREEK AND LATIN

The major in Greek or Latin requires a minimum of eight courses above the elementary level.

In Greek, this would be fulfilled by taking

Greek W 4139
 Greek W 4105-W 4106
 and five others.

Greek Syntax
History of Greek Literature

In Latin, this would be fulfilled by taking

Latin W 4139
 Latin W 4105-W 4106
 and five others.

Latin Syntax
History of Latin Literature

A student may elect to major in both Greek and Latin by completing the major requirements in one language and 5 courses above the elementary level in the other.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Classics requires five courses above the elementary level.

FOR THE REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR IN ANCIENT STUDIES, SEE ANCIENT STUDIES.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

CLASSICS IN TRANSLATION

Classical Literature BC 1032y. Classical Myth.

Survey of major myths from the ancient Near East to the advent of Christianity, with emphasis upon the content and treatment of myths in classical authors (Homer, Hesiod, Aeschylus, Euripides, Sophocles, Vergil, Livy, Ovid).—C. Patterson.
 3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (III)

Classical Literature V 3123x. Greek Drama and Its Influences.

Evolution of various types of tragedy and comedy from the 5th century B.C. in Athens to the 1st century A.D. in Rome; relation of these forms to later European dramatic forms; theories of comedy and tragedy including those of Aristotle; the production of plays.—H. Foley.
 3 points. M W F 11:00. (III)

Classical Literature W 4300y. The Classical Tradition.

Social, political, intellectual, and religious contexts in which epic, lyric, tragic and comic poetry originally developed in Greece; Roman adaptations and their influence on modern poets.—M. Santirocco.
 3 points. Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Classical Civilization V 3158y. Women in Antiquity.

Role of women in ancient Greek and Latin literature; portrayal of women in literature as compared with their actual social status; male and female in ancient Mediterranean cosmologies; readings from ancient epic, lyric, drama, history and historical documents, medical texts, oratory and philosophy as well as contemporary sociological and anthropological works which will help to analyze the origins of the Western attitude towards women.—H. Foley.
Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84.
 3 points. M W F 11:00.

Classical Civilization V 3162y. Ancient Law.

Greek and Hellenistic legal systems. Roman law until the time of Justinian; development of law, legal codes as an expression of the nature of society which produced them.—R. Bagnall.
 T Th 10:35-11:50.
 3 points.

Classical Civilization V 3163x. The Greek Historical Tradition.

Greek conceptions of how history is made; determining influences such as divine interference, individual human exploits, chance; analysis of epic, philosophical, and historical texts.—P. Pouncy.
Not offered in 1983-84.
 3 points.

Classics

Classical Civilization V 3175x. The World of Late Antiquity.

The social, economic and religious history of the Roman world from the second to the early seventh centuries A.D.—A. Cameron.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points.

Classical Civilization V 3140y. The Archaeology of the Later Greek Bronze Age.

The material culture of Mycenaean Greece and Crete, including architecture, painting, pottery and the Linear B tablets. The problem of the final collapse of Mycenaean Civilization, and the Dark Ages, which gave rise to the Homeric poems.—R. Janko.

Not offered in 1983-84.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

BC 1001x-BC 1002y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Grammar, composition, and reading. In Greek BC 1002 a dialogue of Plato, generally the Apology, will be read.—x: H. Bacon. y: C. Patterson.

BC 1001 is prerequisite to BC 1002.

4 points.

No credit is given for BC 1001 unless BC 1002 is completed.

M W F 9:35-10:50.

W 1101x-W 1102y, W 1102x-W 1101y. Elementary Course.

Equivalent to BC 1001-BC 1002.

4 points.

No credit is given for W1101 unless W1102 is completed.

W 1101x-W 1102y: M W F 11:00-12:15. x: L. Slatkin.

W 1102x-W 1101y: M W Th 6:10-7:25. Instructor to be announced.

BC 2011x. Prose and Poetry.

Selections from Herodotus and relevant archaic poetry; Herodotus' historiographical and literary techniques and his themes. There will be weekly assignments to review forms and syntax.—C. Patterson.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or W 1101-W 1102.

3 points. M W F 11:00. (II)

W 1201x. Prose and Poetry.

Equivalent to BC 2011.—L. Taran.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or W 1101-W 1102.

4 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50, F 11:00. (II)

BC 2012y. Selections from Homer.

Detailed grammatical and literary study of several books of the Iliad or Odyssey, and introduction to the techniques of oral poetry, to the Homeric hexameter, and to the historical background of Homer.—L. Lenaghan.

Prerequisite: BC 2011 or permission of the instructor.

3 points. M W F 10:00-10:50. (II)

W 1202y. Homer.

Equivalent to BC 2012.—R. Janko.

Prerequisite: BC 2011 or permission of the instructor.

4 points. M W 2:40-3:55, F 11:00. (II)

V 3305x. Tragedy.

Prerequisite: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points. (II)

V 3306y. Historians.

Prerequisite: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points.

V 3307x. Comedy.

Aristophanes' Frogs: as an example of and a commentary on choral drama in Athens.—H. Bacon.

Prerequisite: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84. 3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (II)

V 3308y. Philosophy.

Plato, Phaedo: a detailed reading of the text with special emphasis on the dramatic setting, the arguments for the immortality of the soul, and the relation of the Phaedo to the Platonic dialogues.—L. Taran.

Prerequisite: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84. 3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (II)

V 3309x. Selections from Greek Literature, I.

Content of course changes each year; it may be taken in consecutive years. Topic for 1983-84: Theocritus' total oeuvre and its relation to Alexandrian poetics. In particular, pastoral as a sophisticated meditation on the nature and sources of poetry. Pre-Hellenistic predecessors: Gorgias, Euripides, Plato. Post-Hellenistic consequences: Vergil's Eclogues, Longus' Daphnis and Chloe and selected examples of pastoral from European literature after the Middle Ages. Works by authors other than Theocritus will be read in translation.—J. Coulter.

Prerequisite: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (II)

V 3310y. Selections from Greek Literature, II.

Content of course changes each year; it may be taken in consecutive years. Topic for 1983-84: Euripides' Hippolytos and Sophocles' Philoctetes: a study of two Greek tragedies about the crisis of youth, including supplementary material on the appropriate cultural background.—H. Foley.

Prerequisite: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

3 points. M W 2:40-3:55. (II)

W 4139x. Greek Syntax.

Writing of sentences and connected passages in Greek.—R. Janko.

Prerequisite: At least four terms of Greek or equivalent.

3 points. Tu 11:00-12:50.

V 3997x, V 3997y. Directed Reading.

To be tested by a series of short papers, one long paper, or an oral or written examination.—Staff.

Permission of the chairman of the department required.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

V 3998x, V 3998y. Supervised Research in Greek Literature.

Program of research in Greek literature, with the composition of a paper embodying results.—Staff.

Permission of the chairman of the department is required.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4105x-W 4106y. History of Greek Literature.

Lectures based on extensive readings in Greek literature from Homer to the fourth century A.D.—x: H. Foley; y: J. Coulter.

Prerequisite: At least two terms of Greek beyond BC 2011 and BC 2012.

4 points. Tu 4:10-6:00, Th 4:10-5:00. (II)

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

BC 1001x-BC 1002y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Autumn: Grammar, composition, and reading. Spring: Complete review of grammar and syntax; emphasis on representative readings.—L. Lenaghan.

BC 1001 is normally prerequisite to BC 1002.

BC 1002 may be taken without BC 1001 by permission of the instructor.

4 points.

No credit is given for BC 1001 until BC 1002 is completed.

Section II M W 6:10-7:25, F 10:00. Instructor to be announced. (II)

W 1203y. Ovid: Selections from the Metamorphoses.

A. Cameron.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or 2-3 years high school Latin.

4 points. M W 11:00-12:15, F 10:00. (II)

V 3012x, V 3012y. Lyric Poetry.

Selections from Catullus' polymetric poems and epigrams and from Horace's Odes and Epodes. The course combines literary analysis with work in grammar and metrics.

x: C. Patterson; y: L. Slatkin.

Prerequisite: BC 2004 or four years of high school Latin.

3 points. x: M W 4:10-5:25.

y: T Th 1:10-2:25. (II)

BC 3033y. Medieval Literature.

Survey of representative late Latin and medieval texts; readings from the Vulgate, the Church Fathers, sacred and secular lyric, history, romance, satire, and biography; practice in paleography.—L. Lenaghan.

Prerequisite: Three semesters of college Latin or permission of the instructor.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (II)

V 3305x. Historians.

Prerequisite: Course V 3012 or the equivalent.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85.

V 3306y. Roman Satire.

Prerequisite: Course V 3012 or the equivalent.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85.
3 points. (II)

V 3307x. Elegiac Poetry.

Selections from Tibullus, Propertius, and Ovid.—S. Commager.

Prerequisite: Course V 3012 or the equivalent.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84.
3 points. M W 4:10-5:25. (II)

V 3308y. Philosophy.

Selections from the De Rerum Natura of Lucretius. The poetic presentation of Epicurean theories about matter, the soul, death and civilization.—S. Commager.

M W 4:10-5:25.

Prerequisite: Course V 3012 or the equivalent.
Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84.
3 points. (II)

V 3309x. Selections from Latin Literature, I.

Content of course changes from year to year; it may be taken for credit in successive years. Topic for 1983-84: Selected letters of Cicero with attention to social, political, and literary questions of the age.—R. Bagnall.

Prerequisite: Course V 3012 or the equivalent.
3 points. T Th 1:10-2:25. (II)

V 3310y. Selections from Latin Literature, II.

Content of course changes from year to year; it may be taken for credit in consecutive years. Topic for 1983-84: Roman Comedy. One play by Plautus and Terence will be read in Latin and others in translation with attention to the background of Greek New Comedy and the special characteristics of its Roman adaptations.—P. Knox.

Prerequisite: Course V 3012 or the equivalent.
3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (II)

W 4139x. Latin Syntax.

Writing of sentences and connected passages in Latin.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: At least four terms of Latin or the equivalent.

3 points. W 11:00-12:50.

V 3997x, V 3997y. Directed Reading.

To be tested by a series of short papers, one long paper, or an oral or written examination.—Staff.

Permission of the chairman of the department required.

V 3998x, V 3998y. Supervised Research in Latin Literature.

A program of research in Latin literature, with the composition of a paper embodying results.—Staff.

Permission of the chairman of the department required.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4105x-W 4106y. History of Latin Literature.

Lectures based on extensive readings in Latin literature from the beginning to the fourth century A.D.—x: S. Commager; y: P. Knox.

Prerequisite: At least two terms of Latin beyond Course V 3012.

4 points. Tu 4:10-5:00, Th 4:10-6:00. (II)

GRADUATE COURSES

Certain graduate courses given in the University are open to qualified majors with the consent of the chairman and the major adviser. These courses are described in the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

MODERN GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

BC 1001x-BC 1002y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Introduction to Demotic Greek; emphasis on both speaking and writing; basic grammar and syntax; pattern practice reinforced by laboratory attendance; easy reading.—D. Gregory.
Work in the language laboratory is required.
3 points.

No credit is given for BC 1001 until BC 1002 is completed.

Tu Th 2:30-4:00.

BC 2003x. Intermediate Course, I.

More complex and idiomatic Greek through a variety of readings, including selections from Kazantzakis' Report to Greco and short stories by Myrivilis and Venezis; grammar and syntax review; conversation; short weekly compositions.—D. Gregory.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or the equivalent.

3 points.

Tu Th 4:10-5:25. Additional hour for conversation M 12:00-1:00.

BC 2004y. Intermediate Course, II.

Selected readings from Modern Greek literature, both poetry and prose, annotated and presented in order of difficulty, used as a basis for discussion and composition. Poems by Solomos, Palamas, Cavafy, Seferis; short stories and essays by Theotokas, Terzakis and others. The improvement of the student's language skills is still a primary goal.—D. Gregory.

Prerequisite: BC 2003 or the permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 4:10-5:25.

An additional hour for conversation M 12:00-1:00.

BC 3005x. Prose of the Twentieth Century: 1930-1950.

Four works representing the main trends of twentieth-century prose up to the Civil War: Myrivilis' Life in the Tomb, Venezis' Aeolian Land, Petsalis-Diomedes' The Bell of Holy Trinity, and Kazantzakis' The Fratricides. Main themes highlighted by a few relevant poems by Cavafy, Sikelianos and Seferis.—D. Gregory.

Prerequisite: BC 2004 or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:35.

(II)

BC 3006y. Contemporary Prose and Poetry.

Divided equally between prose and poetry: selections from a few important works written after 1950: Samarakis' I Refuse, Vassilikos' The Leaf, The Well, The Angel, Margarita Lymberaki's The Other Alexander, Seferis' Logbook III, Ritsos' Romiosini, Moonlight Sonata, Repetitions, and Elytis' The Axion Esti.—D. Gregory.

Prerequisite: BC 3005 or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:55.

The spectrum of computer science ranges from the analysis of problems in a great variety of applications to the design of the machines that effect the solutions, and it includes all the linking steps between them. Computer scientists are interested not only in mathematics and engineering, but also in the sources of the problems, wherever they lie. Thus, although most recent graduates in Computer Science are now in computer science proper, either in industry or in graduate degree programs, many are in medical school, business school, or other such activities, planning to combine computer science with another strong interest in their careers.

The Computer Science curriculum has a double core, partially in areas with an immediate relationship to the computer, such as programming languages, compilers, operating systems, and computer architecture, and partially in theoretical computer science and mathematics. A broad range of upper level courses is available in topics such as artificial intelligence, computational complexity, and the analysis of algorithms, combinatorial methods, computer circuitry, data bases, mathematical models for computation, optimization, and software systems. Thus, students obtain the background to pursue their interests both in applications and in theoretical developments.

The Computer Center operates two interactive systems, making nearly 100 terminals available at convenient locations on the Columbia campus, including some dormitories, with two DEC 20 RO systems. It also operates a major research facility with an IBM. In addition, a small but powerful minicomputer is available for faculty and student research. Most important computer languages are supported, including ALGOL, APL, BASIC, COBOL, FORTRAN, LISP, PASCAL, PL/I and SNOBOL. Additional equipment acquisitions are planned.

In addition to course work, students sometimes assist faculty members on research projects or on the development of software. Qualified majors often serve as consultants at the Computer Center.

There are several different introductory courses in computer programming. Students may elect only one of them for degree credit. Freshmen considering a Computer Science major should take W1003. Non-majors usually take W 1001, Introduction to Computer

Computer Science

Programming, A. There is also an intermediate course for nonmajors, W 3011, Intermediate Computer Programming. By taking W1001 or W1003 early in their college years, non-majors are able to use the computer in their upper-level studies in other departments.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students who plan a major in Computer Science should see a Program Consultant by the start of the sophomore year.

A total of 13 courses are required for the major.

W 1003 or W 3011	(preferably in the freshman year)
W 3203	Introduction to Discrete Mathematics (before the end of the sophomore year)
Mathematics	Calculus I and II (preferably in the freshman year)
W 3131	Data Structures (preferably in the sophomore year)
W 3232	Fundamental Algorithms (preferably in the sophomore year)
W 3261	Computability and Formal Languages
W 3123	Assembly Language and Computer Logic
W 3204	Finite Mathematics

and an approved choice of four additional courses to be selected from computer science, mathematics, or statistics, at least one of which must be selected from the following list of computer science courses: W 4115, W 4117, W 4118, W 4152, W 4241, W 4242, W 4705, 4701.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor: Computer Science W 3203, W 3131, W 3232, W 3123, and one of the following: W 3824, W 4115, or W 4701.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

W 1001x, W 1001y. Introduction to Computer Programming, A.

Intended primarily for students in the Arts and Sciences divisions. General introduction to computer programming. Emphasis on learning to write programs to solve problems in familiar applications, such as payroll, computer-assisted instruction, ecology, library science, literary text analysis, cryptology, and game playing. Rudiments of structured programming. BASIC.—Instructor to be announced.

Laboratory fee $20.

3 points.

Section I: Hours to be arranged.

Section II: Hours to be arranged.

W 1003x, W 1003y. Introduction to Computer Programming, B.

Intended primarily for students considering a major in computer science. Honors level introduction to computer programming. PASCAL. Course approval must be obtained in Computer Science Department office prior to registration.—Instructor to be announced.

Laboratory fee $20.

3 points.

x: Hours to be arranged.

y: Hours to be arranged.

W 1005x, W 1005y. Introduction to Computer Programming, C.

Intended primarily for engineering students. General introduction to computer programming, with engineering applications. Structured program design. FORTRAN. Since each section of this course is limited in size, section approval must be obtained in Computer Science Department office prior to registration.—Instructor to be announced.

Laboratory fee $20.

3 points.

Section I: Hours to be arranged.

Section II: Hours to be arranged.

W 3011x, W 3011y. Intermediate Computer Programming.

Continuation of introductory courses; simple record structures and file processing, in both advanced BASIC and PASCAL; systems of programs and files, modeling; round off error; elementary principles of machine language and assembly language coding.—Instructor to be announced.

Laboratory fee: $20.00.

Prerequisite: W 1001 or W 1005.

3 points.

x: Hours to be arranged.

y: Hours to be arranged.

Computer Science

W 3123x, W 3123y. Assembly Language and Computer Logic.

Assembly and machine language programming techniques; data representation; introduction to machine organization and logic circuits.—T. Bashkow.

Prerequisite: Introduction to computer programming.

3 points.

x: Hours to be arranged.

y: Hours to be arranged.

W 3131x, W 3131y. Data Structures.

Data types and structure: arrows, stacks, singly and doubly linked lists, queues, trees, sets, and graphs; programming techniques for processing such structures; recursive programming, internal sorting and searching, hashing, garbage collection; storage management; rudiments of the analysis of algorithms.—Instructor to be announced.

Corequisite: W 3203.

4 points.

x: Hours to be arranged.

y: Hours to be arranged.

W 3203x, W 3203y. Discrete Mathematics.

Mathematical induction, counting arguments, permutations; partially ordered sets, lattices; graphs and imbeddings, generating functions, recurrence relations; propositional calculus.—x: Instructor to be announced; y: Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus I and any introduction to computer programming.

3 points.

x: Hours to be arranged.

y: Hours to be arranged. (VI)

W 3204y. Finite Mathematics.

Introduction to mathematical methods in the natural and social sciences: probability, the solution of systems of linear equations, introduction to linear programming and the theory of antagonistic games.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3203.

3 points.

Hours to be arranged.

W 3232x, W 3232y. Fundamental Algorithms.

Continuation of Course W 3131. Pattern matching, lexical analysis, parsing, backtracking, divide and conquer, generating combinatorial objects, graph searching, spanning trees, external sorting and searching, 2-3 trees, balanced trees, B-trees, files; elements of data base design; other topics as time permits.

Analysis of algorithms is stressed throughout.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3131.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 3261y. Computability and Formal Languages.

Formal models of computation and properties; Turing machines, recursive functions; Church-Turing thesis; decidability and undecidability; recursively enumerable sets; concepts and properties of formal languages; regular, context-free, context-sensitive, phrase-structured; grammars; relationships to automata; finite state, push-down, linear bounded, Turing machines.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3131.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 3824y. Elements of Computer Organization.

Elements of computer design; logic design; subsystems, central processor, microprogram control, arithmetic units I/O organization, memories.—T. Bashkow.

Prerequisite: W 3123.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 3998x, W 3998y. Undergraduate Projects in Computer Science.

This course may be repeated for credit, but not for a total of more than 3 points of degree credit. Independent project involving laboratory work, computer programming, analytical investigation, or engineering design.—Staff.

Prerequisite: approval by a faculty member who agrees to supervise the work.

Up to 3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4001x. Computer Programming: Engineering Applications.

Introduction to computer programming, emphasis methods and solutions for typical applications; problem analysis and program design methodologies; out formatting; deterministic and probabilistic simulating techniques; FORTRAN. Computer terminals are available for student use.—J. Gielchinsky.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points.

W 4114y. Assembly Language and Systems Programming.

Assembly language programming; assemblers and macro processors; linkers and loaders; elements of job control language; large-scale programming environment.—J. Gielchinsky.

Not allowed for credit if W 3123 is taken.

Prerequisite: Any introductory course in computer programming.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

Computer Science

W 4115x. Programming Languages and Translators I.

Programming languages SNOBOL, LISP, and ALGOL; implementation of recursive functions, assemblers, and compilers; introduction to the formal description of languages and syntax-directed compilation. Students are required to write programs to be run on the equipment at the Computer Center.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3123 or W 4114; W3131.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4117y. Programming Languages and Translators II.

Continuation of Course W 4115. Techniques in computer language implementation; application of formal language theory to design of compilers; implementation of language features such as nested procedures, reentrancy and recursion; code optimization; run-time storage organization.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 4115 and W 3261.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4118x. Introduction to Operating Systems.

Design and implementation of general purpose operating systems for digital computers: memory management, virtual memory, storage hierarchy evaluation, multiprogramming, process programming constructs, I/O device management, and file system implementation. Several operating systems, such as OS/370 and UNIX, will be studied as examples.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3131; W 3123 or W 4114.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4152y. Software Laboratory.

Large-scale software design methodology; construction of software tools; parallel programming; case study of a medium-scale operating system; design and implementation of large-scale software projects.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 4118.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4203x. Graph Theory.

General introduction to graph theory, emphasizing algorithms: Eulerian paths and circuits, shortest paths, trees, minimum spanning trees, the number of spanning trees, depth-first search, network flows, leipartite matching and the marriage problem, the transportation problem, minimum-cort flows, other topics as time permits.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3203. Not offered in 1983-84.

4½ points. (VI)

W 4231x. Analysis of Algorithms, I.

Course E 6232 is a continuation of this course. Some of the topics described below will not be covered until E 6232. Representation and generation of combinatorial objects; methods for the analysis of algorithms: counting and asymptotic evaluation; analysis of sorting, searching, algorithms on graphs, operations on strings, arithmetic operations, matrix operations, Fourite transform; models of computation; the Turing machine model, the random-access model, circuit complexity and the VLSI model; probabilistic algorithms; elements of abstract complexity theory; complexity hierarchies; polynomial and NP problems; lower bounds on the complexity of various problems in various models; worst-case and average behavior of algorithms; diophantine complexity; applications to cryptography and public key systems; linear programming and its complexity; the simplex and khacian methods; average behavior of the simplex method. Other topics as time permits.—Z. Galil.

Prerequisites: W 3131, W 3203.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4241x. Numerical Analysis, I.

Modern theory and practice of computation on digital computers. Covers design and analysis of numerical algorithms. Techniques for analyzing computational complexity and errors. Solutions of nonlinear equations, polynomial equations, linear systems, interpolation, approximation, eigenvalues and eigenvectors, optimization-ordinary and partial differential equations. Some of these topics are covered in the sequel, W 4242.—J. Traub.

3 points. Hours to be arranged. (VI)

W 4242y. Numerical Analysis, II.

A continuation of W 4241.

Prerequisite: Knowledge of a programming language. Some knowledge of differential equations and linear algebra is desirable.

3 points. Hours to be arranged. (VI)

Computer Science

W 4701x. Artificial Intelligence.

This course is designed to give a senior level student a broad understanding of the basic techniques in use today for building intelligent computer systems. State-space representations, problem reduction, means-end analysis, and/or graphs. Heuristic searching: depth-first, breadth-first, best-first, hill-climbing, divide and conquer, minimax, $\alpha - \beta$; predicate calculus, resolution theorem proving; Horn clause theorem provers; AI systems and languages; goals and contexts; issues of knowledge representation; learning and concept formation; LISP programming; other topics as time permits.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3131.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W4841y. Introduction to VSLI

G. McGuire.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4705y. Natural Language Processing.

An introduction to the artificial intelligence approach to human language processing. Topics such as conceptual representation, story understanding, language generation, question answering, and the relation between computer models and cognitive psychology. Computer exercises in several of these areas. Some prior or concurrent exposure to AI and LISP would be helpful.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3131.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

G 4801x. Mathematical Logic.

Introduction to mathematical logic. Fundamental notions of set theory and recursion theory; detailed discussion of propositional and predicate logic: completeness, (un-)decidability, and theorem-proving.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

3 points. Hours to be arranged. (VI)

Computer Science-Philosophy G 4802y.

Mathematical Logic II.

Axiomatic set theory: ordinals, cardinals, the axiom of choice, models of set theory. Definability; hierarchies of sets of integers. Connections between set theory and theory of computability.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: G 4801 or equivalent.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4995x, W 4995y. Special Topics in Computer Science.

Special topics arranged as the need and availability arises. Topics are usually offered on a one-time basis. This course may be repeated for credit.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4996x, W 4996y. Special Topics in Computer Science.

A continuation of Course W 4995, when the special topic is to be offered over two semesters.—Instructor to be announced.

The Barnard Dance Department offers studio classes in modern dance, ballet, tap dance, and jazz. In addition, it offers skilled dancers the opportunity to perform in workshop presentations, in concerts, and in programs integrated with drama productions and those of other departments in the College. It sponsors symposia, master classes conducted by guest artists, and other special events. Interested students should confer with the dance faculty.

In keeping with the philosophy of liberal education, the dance course offerings aim to provide students with both conceptual and technical background in the craft of the art form today, as well as an understanding of its historical development. After graduation, a student interested in performance, choreography, or critical writing would continue to develop as an artist through the practice of the craft. Those interested in teaching, in dance therapy, in historical research, or in the specialized systems of dance notation would pursue further study in graduate school or in a special institute.

Students looking toward a career in dance performance or choreography should consult the announcement on the Program in the Arts, page 82, and should discuss their plans with the department chairman as soon as possible.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR (Program in the Arts)

Prerequisite: Intermediate skill in either ballet or modern dance.

4 points. F 12:30-2:00, plus studio classes as described above.

BC 2562y. Dance Workshop II.

Analysis of space, time, and force in dance movement, including exploration of how these elements operate in producing dance style. Assignments include readings, keeping a journal, and developing short movement studies.—S. Genter.

Prerequisite: Intermediate skill in either ballet or modern dance.

4 points. F 12:30-2:00, plus studio classes as described above.

BC 3571x. Dance Workshop III.

Advanced analysis of movement with emphasis on interrelationships and varying uses of rhythm, space, and dynamics. Assignments include readings, keeping a notebook, and presentations of individual research for discussion.—J. Soares.

Prerequisite: Dance BC 2561 and BC 2562.

4 points. F 12:30-2:00, plus studio classes as described above.

BC 3572y. Dance Workshop IV.

Advanced analysis of the relationship of technique to style in dance movement through the study of specific dance works. Assignments include study of the materials through readings, films, and video tapes; keeping a notebook with analysis of works; and performance of the dances, with students responsible for lighting and costuming the presentation.—J. Soares.

Prerequisite: Dance BC 2561, BC 2562, and BC 3571.

4 points. F 12:30-2:00, plus studio classes as described above.

BC 2563x. Form in Dance Composition.

Development of dance form through the manipulation, according to formal composition principles, of rhythm, energy and design in movement.—J. Soares.

Prerequisite: Facility in dance technique. Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 12 students.

3 points. M W 1:30-3:00.

BC 2564y. Content in Dance Composition.

Research in the source materials of dance composition and exploration of their uses in choreography, including gesture, movement texture, rhythmic structure, movement shape, and literary ideas. Emphasis on unity of style in the work of each student.—J. Soares.

Prerequisite: Facility in dance technique. Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 12 students.

3 points. M W 1:30-3:00.

BC 2565x, BC 2566y. History of Dance.

History and aesthetics of dance explored through film, slides, readings, and studio demonstration. Autumn Term: dance as ritual, dance in antiquity, folk and ethnic dance forms, and dance in the theater of the East. Spring Term: ballet and modern dance from the Renaissance to the present time.—J. Roosevelt.

3 points. M W F 11:00. (I)

BC 2567y. Fundamentals of Music for Dancers.

An intensive study of musicianship skills and musical literacy designed for students of dance. Analysis of the elements of rhythm, tonality, musical structure, texture and style, with laboratory work in ear-training, pitch reading, rhythm skills, score-reading and elementary composition.—E. Fleischer.

Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points.

BC 2568y. Dance and Movement:

An Anthropological Approach.

An investigation of the theories and methods used to observe and analyze dance and movement in symbolic and social contexts. Critical examination of texts from the literature of anthropology and of dance. Course includes film-viewing, practice in making observations, and a fieldwork project. Open to students in dance, anthropology, and related fields.—C. Novack.

3 points, W 4:10-6:40.

BC 3574y. Contemporary Choreographers and Their Works.

Form, style, and content of selected contemporary choreographers. Sources include film, videotape, attendance at rehearsals and concerts, and interviews.—A. Kisselgoff.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84.

3 points. F 2:10-4:00.

BC 3576y. Dance Criticism.

Intensive practice in writing about dance. Readings drawn from nineteenth- and twentieth-century dance criticism period. Observation includes weekly performances and classroom videotape sessions.

Permission of the instructor required. Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points.

The Department of Economics offers a broad course of study in economic theory and applied economics. The study of economics is an important foundation for a student's general understanding of modern history and society. The major programs in economics also prepare students for graduate work in economics, business, law, public administration, international relations and related fields, as well as for careers in business, finance, and government. The aim of the Barnard program is to foster a critical understanding of economics and its relations to other disciplines in the course of developing students' mastery of modern economic theory and tools of analysis.

Students planning to major in economics or political economy should complete Economics BC 1001 and BC 1002 before the beginning of their junior year. The department recommends that students plan their programs so as to complete all major requirements except one or two elective courses before they begin to write their senior essay.

For information regarding credit for advanced placement, students should consult the department chairman.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

There are two tracks for the major in economics equal in rigor and number of courses required, but different in scope and focus. The track in Economics will prepare students with the analytical, mathematical, and economic tools now expected of entering graduate students in economics and useful for graduate study in related fields such as business. The track in Political Economy embraces some techniques of contemporary analysis but emphasizes the rediscovery of the roots and traditions of economic thought and focuses on interconnections between social forces, political institutions, and economic power. This track constitutes an excellent preparation for a variety of professional schools and careers.

Economics

Prospective majors should discuss their programs with any member of the department no later than their sophomore year. At the time of declaring a major the student also chooses a major adviser who will advise her as to choice of program and courses, and help in the choice of a senior essay topic and adviser.

Students who wish to complete a double or joint major including economics should consult the chairman of the department at as early a point in their planning as possible.

Economics

The Economics major requires 10 courses in Economics and 2 in calculus, including

Economics BC 1001, BC 1002	Introduction to Economics
Economics BC 3033	Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
Economics BC 3035	Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
Economics V 1411	Introductory Probability and Statistics for Economics

2 electives which require Economics BC 1001-BC 1002 as a prerequisite; and Economics BC 3061-BC 3062.

Political Economy

The Political Economy major requires 12 courses, including

Economics BC 1001, BC 1002	Introduction to Economics
Economics BC 3034	Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
or
Economics BC 3035	Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
Economics BC 3041	The Theoretical Foundations of Political Economy
Economics BC 3042	The Policy Applications of Political Economy

5 electives, including a course in Political Science, and a senior essay.

Political Economy majors who wish to take International Economics, Industrial Organization, Labor Economics, Comparative Economic Systems or Public Finance in their elective programs should take Intermediate Microeconomic Theory. Students who wish to take electives in Monetary Economics, Development, or International Finance should take Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory.

Political Economy majors who plan to go to graduate school in Business or in International Relations with an Economics concentration should take one semester of credit college math (either pre-calculus or calculus), both Intermediate Theory courses, and Economics V 1411.

Political Economy majors who plan to go to graduate PhD programs in Economics should take one year of calculus, both Intermediate Theory courses, Economics V 1411, and Econometrics, among their economics electives.

Mathematics Training for the Major

The Department expects all majors to have a working knowledge of arithmetic, high-school algebra, and the fundamentals of analytic geometry. Beyond that, we highly recommend that majors take at least two semesters of calculus (required of economics-track majors).

Mathematics and Your Economics Training: A Note (available at the Department office) contains specific departmental suggestions concerning appropriate mathematics courses.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in economics requires 5 courses, including Economics BC 1001, BC 1002, BC 3033 or BC 3034 or BC 3035, or an equivalent, and one elective with Economics BC 1001, BC 1002 as prerequisite.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Barnard Economics BC 1001 and BC 1002 are equivalent to Columbia Economics W 1104 and 1103, Barnard Economics BC 3033 and BC 3034 to Columbia W 3213, and Barnard BC 3035 to Columbia W 3211.

GENERAL COURSES

Courses listed under this heading may be taken without previous study of economics.

BC 1001x, BC 1001y. Introduction to Economics.

The department posts signup sheets for admission to sections of Economics BC 1001 and BC 1002 outside Lehman 4A. For fall semester courses, these are posted March 15, and for spring semester courses, November 1.

The Barnard Education Program is open to Barnard, Columbia, and General Studies students who are interested in teaching children or adolescents on the elementary or secondary level, who are considering working with young people or adults in human services agencies, or who are preparing for careers related to education. The Education Program concentration is taken in conjunction with a major in an approved field of study. Interested students should consult with the Education Program faculty.

Applicants are accepted on the basis of good academic standing, evidence of interest in the field of education, and capacity for growth in areas vital to the teaching-learning experience. Students may apply for admission during the sophomore year, and applications are available in the Program office at the beginning of the Autumn Term.

The Education Program is approved by the New York State Education Department. Graduates of the Program are recommended for New York State Provisional Certification which makes them eligible for membership in the Interstate Certification Agreement, a reciprocal certification arrangement among thirty-one states. Consistent with the program requirements, certification is based on demonstration of competency in both academic and field settings.

Elementary School Program

This track leads to the New York State Provisional Common Branch Certificate (N-6). Students participating in the elementary program must complete the following course of study:

One Psychology course, chosen from among

Psychology BC 1127 or BC 1129
Psychology BC 1130 or BC 1132
Psychology BC 1134

Developmental Psychology
Human Memory and Learning
Educational Psychology

One foundations course, chosen from among

Philosophy V 3758	Philosophy of Education
Sociology V 3225	Sociology of Education
Education BC 2032	Contemporary Issues in Education

A third course from either of the above categories; and

One methods course.

Education BC 2052	Competency Development in Elementary Education
-------------------	---

During the junior year Spring Term, all students entering the elementary education program take Education BC 2052, which involves a classroom internship one morning per week.

Secondary School Program

Programs leading to the New York State Provisional Secondary Certificate (7-12) are offered in the fields of English, Foreign and Ancient Languages, Mathematics, the Sciences, and Social Studies. Students participating in the secondary program must complete the following course of study:

- One Psychology course, chosen from Psychology BC 1127 or BC 1129, BC 1130 or BC 1132, or BC 1134; and
- One foundations course, chosen from Philosophy V 3758, Sociology V 3225, or Education BC 2032.
- One methods course.

All students entering the secondary education program take one methods course in the student’s specific subject area during the junior year. The following course is available at Barnard:

English BC 3192	Seminar in the Teaching of English
-----------------	---

Juniors interested in teaching secondary mathematics, science, social studies or foreign languages take the appropriate methods course offered at Teachers College:

TC 4022x	Mathematical Teaching and Learning: The Formal Operational Stage
TC 4000x	Science Teaching plus laboratory
TW 4020x	Methods of Teaching Social Studies
TL 4076	TESTOL Methodologies for K-12

Senior Program

Senior students in the Education Program participate in Education 63, Teaching in the Elementary or Secondary Schools, the field-based student teaching experience for one semester during their last year. This course provides students with the opportunity to teach. Through close supervision, the student examines the teaching experience and the inter-relationship between the subject area, child and human development, the role of the school in society, and the teacher as a decision-maker. Student teaching includes observation and teaching five mornings a week for the semester.

Education BC 3064, Seminar in the Teaching-Learning Process, is taken concurrently with student teaching. The seminar provides a forum for discussions of the principles and practices of classroom teaching and examines in depth the education process in our society. Student teaching and the seminar should be registered for as Education BC 3063 and BC 3064 in the Autumn term, or Education BC 3063 and BC 3064 in the Spring term. It is strongly advised that no more than two other courses be taken with student teaching and the seminar.

Education

Senior year student teaching may conflict with other training opportunities at Barnard (e.g. Psychology BC 3465, BC 3466, assisting at the Center for Toddler Development). Students with these interests should arrange their schedules appropriately.

Requirements for the Minor

The minor requires a minimum of 5 courses: Education BC 3063, Education BC 3064, one Methods course, one Foundations course, and one Psychology course from those courses cited above.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BC 2032x. Contemporary Issues in Education.

Study of controversial topics confronting education in the 1980's and their relation to contemporary society. Equity in learning experiences for girls and boys, the handicapped, bilingual and gifted students will be examined. The offering in English is designed to foster good writing, effective speaking, and heightened understanding of literary works that enrich our cultural heritage.

Students majoring in English are encouraged to develop their responsiveness to the literary imagination and their sensitivity to literary form through disciplined attention to language and to critical and scholarly methods.

Non-majors may satisfy the distribution requirement in literature by electing appropriate courses listed under LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major program consists of at least ten courses planned in sequence:

1. In the sophomore or junior year, the student will complete three required courses: an introduction to the methods of literary analysis (BC 3193, Critical Writing), and an introduction to literary works of the Renaissance and the Enlightenment (BC 3159-BC 3160, The English Colloquium).
2. In addition, she will elect five advanced courses so distributed as to extend her knowledge of English and American literature of different periods. Two of these courses must be in literature before 1900 (BC 3153-BC 3179). She may select two of the five from courses BC 3103-BC 3140.
3. As a senior, she will complete advanced work in two seminars (BC 3997, BC 3998). For one of these seminars a student with a particular interest in writing, speech, or theatre may substitute an independent project in an advanced course in her special field.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minor consists of at least five English courses: BC 3155, Chaucer, or BC 3163 or BC 3164, Shakespeare, or BC 3167, Milton; two additional courses in literature before 1900 (BC 3153-BC 3179); and two electives.

Program in the Arts: Students interested in this Program should see the announcement on page 82, and should consult with the Program Chairman or a member of the Program Committee.

Literary expression in the light of psychoanalytic thought; readings in Freud and other psychoanalytic writers. Shakespeare, Keats, James, Kafka, Lawrence, Dostoevsky, and others.—E. Dalton.

Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

VII. Books on Books.

Beginning with Don Quixote, a selection of literary works focusing on the effects of reading, on the act of writing, and on the imitation and parody of previous narrative forms. Cervantes, Goethe, Flaubert, Austen, Pushkin, Stendhal, Nabokov.—C. Schenck.

Th 12:00-1:50.

BC 3141x, BC 3142y. Major English Texts.

A general view of the history and variety of English literature through study of selected writers and their works. Autumn: Chaucer through Milton. Spring: Dryden through Eliot.—T. Szell.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25. (II)

English-Women's Studies BC 3144y. Minority Women Writers in the United States.

A study of the literature of twentieth-century minority women writers in the United States, with particular emphasis upon the works of Asian, Black, Hispanic, and Native American women. The works will be studied within a historical and cultural as well as literary framework—Q. Stadler.

Permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (II)

English

English-Women's Studies BC 3145x. The Female Protagonist: Readings in the French and English Novel.

The heroine and the representations of a female destiny in selected works by women writers; the texts will be studied in conjunction with contemporary feminist criticism. Lafayette, Wollstonecraft, Austen, Sand, Brontë, Eliot, Colette, Wittig.—N. Miller.

3 points. Th 4:10-6:00. (III)

BC 3153y. Anglo-Saxon.

Introduction to the language, with selected readings in prose and verse.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (II)

BC 3155y. Chaucer.

The Canterbury Tales.—A. Prescott.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (II)

BC 3158y. Medieval Literature.

English and Continental literary works from the fourth to the fifteenth century, studied in the original or in translation.—B. Ulanov.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

BC 3159x-BC 3160y. The English Colloquium.

Major writers and literary works of the Renaissance and the Enlightenment, examined in terms of leading ideas in those periods.

Required of majors in the sophomore or junior year.

4 points.

I. Imitation and Creation.

New ideas of the mind's relation to the world. New perspectives, the emergence of new forms, experimentation with old forms, and the search for an appropriate style.—A. Prescott, J. Morse.

M 2:10-4:00.

II. Reason and Imagination.

Relationship of the subjective and objective vision; the impact of "new philosophy," exploration, and discovery; the shift from authority to perception and from public to private forms.—C. Schenck.

Tu 2:10-4:00.

III. Skepticism and Affirmation.

Humanism, reformation, and revolution; the limits of human knowledge; the problem of evil; visions of perfection; reason and revelation.—E. Dalton, M. Jaanus-Kurrik.

W 2:10-4:00.

IV. Ideas of Order and Disorder.

Form and structure achieved or defeated in the work of art and in the world; the rise of the man of letters and vernacular literature; the drama of self-transformation.—

B. Ulanov, F. Stuber.

Th 4:10-6:00.

BC 3163x, BC 3164y. Shakespeare.

A critical and historical introduction to the comedies, histories, and tragedies of Shakespeare.—R. Patterson.

3 points. M W F 11:00. (II)

BC 3165x. The Tudor Renaissance.

Continuities, recoveries, and innovations from Skelton and More to Sidney and Spenser; Humanism, the Reformation, Neoplatonism, courtly and popular wit.—A. Prescott.

3 points. Not offered in 1983-84. (II)

BC 3166y. Seventeenth Century Poetry.

Classical and Christian traditions; the "old" philosophy and the "new" science; thought and style in the poetry of Donne, Jonson, and their followers; the early Milton, and Marvell.—R. Kivette.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84. 3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25. (II)

BC 3167x. Milton.

Close reading and critical study of Paradise Lost, Paradise Regained and Samson Agonistes, with some attention to minor poems and prose.—R. Kivette.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25. (II)

BC 3168y. Seventeenth Century Prose.

Thought and style in the prose of Bacon, Burton, Donne, Browne, Milton, and Dryden; the effect of the new science on the literary imagination.—R. Kivette.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points. (II)

BC 3169y. English Drama: 900-1642.

English drama from its beginnings to the closing of the theatres. Medieval plays, the Tudor interlude, and major plays of the English Renaissance (excluding Shakespeare), with emphasis on Marlowe, Jonson, and Webster.—R. Patterson.

3 points. Tu Th 4:10-5:25. (II)

BC 3171x. The Novel.

The central English tradition, including works by Defoe, Richardson, Fielding, Sterne, Lewis, Austen, Brontë, Dickens, George Eliot, Carroll, and Hardy.—M. Jaanus-Kurrik.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15. (II)

BC 3173x. Eighteenth Century Literature, 1660-1740.

Tradition and innovation in satire, drama, the periodical essay, and the novel; readings in Etherege, Congreve, Pope, Swift, Defoe, Richardson, Fielding, and Gay.—J. Thaddeus. Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points. (II)

BC 3174y. Eighteenth Century Literature, 1740-1800.

Tradition and innovation in a variety of forms, including works by Johnson, Boswell, Goldsmith, Sheridan, Fielding, Sterne, Burns, and Blake.—J. Thaddeus. Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84. 3 points. M W F 10:00. (II)

BC 3176y. English Romanticism.

The thought and style of Wordsworth, Coleridge, Byron, Keats, and Shelley.—M. Jaanus-Kurrik. 3 points. M W 11:00-12:15. (II)

BC 3177y. The Victorian Age in Literature.

Prose and verse on problems of society and religion. Carlyle, Mill, Ruskin, Arnold, Newman, Huxley, Tennyson, Browning.—D. Robertson. 3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (II)

BC 3178x. Victorian Poetry and Criticism.

Poems by Tennyson, Browning, Arnold, Rossetti, Meredith, Morris, and Swinburne; some paintings by the Pre-Raphaelites and others; critical opinions of Ruskin, Arnold, Pater, and Wilde.—D. Robertson. 3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (II)

BC 3179x. American Literature before 1900.

The formation and development of the American literary tradition with an emphasis on the major writers of the nineteenth century. Readings include: Franklin, Irving, Emerson, Thoreau, Poe, Hawthorne, Melville, Whitman, Twain, Dickinson, James and Chopin.—Instructor to be announced. 3 points. M W F 1:10. (II)

BC 3180y. American Literature since 1890.

Modern American fiction, poetry, and drama. Works by Crane, Wharton, Cather, Anderson, Hemingway, Fitzgerald, Faulkner, Bellow, Frost, Eliot, Stevens, O'Neill, and others.—A. Bendixen. 3 points. M W F 1:10. (II)

BC 3181x. Major American Writers.

Attempts to define the American character in works by Melville, Hawthorne, James, Cather, Wharton, Hemingway, Faulkner, and others.—A. Bendixen.

Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points. (II)

BC 3183x. Modern Literature and the Allied Arts.

The focus and the vocabulary of the modern artist, examined and defined first in terms of literature, and then through a comparison with painting, music, the dance, and the motion picture.—B. Ulanov.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84. 3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

BC 3185x. Modern British and American Poetry.

The thought and style of Hopkins, Yeats, Frost, Robinson, Pound, Eliot, Stevens, and more recent writers; the literary movements with which they are associated.—B. Ulanov.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points. (II)

BC 3186y. Modern Drama.

The modern theatre and its makers from Ibsen to the present; its Renaissance and eighteenth-century antecedents.—B. Ulanov.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points.

BC 3187y. American Writers and Their Foreign Counterparts.

Selected nineteenth- and twentieth-century American, European, and English works, Flaubert, James, Proust, Gide, Faulkner, and others.—E. Dalton.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84. 3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

BC 3188y. The Modern Novel.

Works by Hardy, James, Conrad, Forster, Lawrence, and Joyce.—J. Morse.

3 points. M W F 12:10. (II)

BC 3189y. Post-Modern Literature.

Writers since 1945, primarily English and American, and concepts of post-modern culture. Readings include Beckett, Borges, Pinter, Nabokov, Barthelme, and others.—E. Dalton.

Permission of the instructor required for freshmen.

Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points.

English

BC 3190x. The English Language: History and Use.

Introduction to the history of words, pronunciation, and structure in light of literary tradition and linguistic science.—R. Norman.
3 points. M W F 10:00.

BC 3192y. Seminar in the Teaching of English.

The place of English in the curriculum and the role of the English teacher; grammar, composition, literature, testing, and grading. Students will observe classes in a local high school one morning a week.—E. Caughran.

For students who plan to teach or to produce teaching materials. Enrollment limited.
4 points. Tu 4:10-6:00.

BC 3193x, BC 3193y. Critical Writing.

The purpose of the course is to provide experience in the reading and analysis of literary texts and some knowledge of conspicuous works of literary criticism. Frequent short papers. All English majors are required to take course BC 3193 before the end of the junior year. Sophomores are encouraged to take it in the Spring Term before they officially declare their major. Transfer students should plan to take BC 3193 in the Autumn Term.—Staff.

Registration in each section is limited. Students must file departmental forms with the department assistant (417 Barnard Hall).

BC 3997x, BC 3998y. Senior Seminars: Studies in Literature.

Required of all majors, these seminars are designed to broaden knowledge of periods, writers, works, genres, and theories through readings. Class discussions, oral reports, and at least two research papers, one in BC 3997 and one in BC 3998. Students must have the written permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to seniors. 4 points.

BC 3997x. I. Studies in Tragedy:

The Death of the Hero.

Greek, Elizabethan, classical French, and modern works, read in conjunction with important theories of tragedy; Aristotle, Nietzsche, Frazer, Freud, and Artaud.—E. Dalton.

M 12:00-1:50.

II. Film and Word.

The exchange of influences. The increasing dependence of film upon the literary imagination. The development of cinematic styles in novel, drama, and poetry. The silent and the speaking image in word and picture.—B. Ulanov.

Tu 12:00-1:50.

III. Comedy and Romance.

Form and theme in Renaissance comedy, especially as represented in the plays of Shakespeare and Jonson.—R. Patterson.

Tu 4:10-6:00.

IV. Poets on Poetry

The nature and uses of poetry. What poets from the sixteenth to the twentieth century have had to say about the art they practice. Sidney, Shakespeare, Milton, Wordsworth, Arnold, Yeats, and Eliot will be among the poets considered.—R. Kivette.

W 2:10-4:00.

V. Studies in the Legend of King Arthur.

Camelot and its knights in the literary and political imagination from Celtic legend to modern fantasy.—A. Prescott.

W 3:10-5:00.

VI. Ancients and Moderns:

The Pastoral Mode.

An investigation of pastoral forms and attitudes, with special emphasis on the survival of the mode in modern works. Readings to include Virgil, Spenser, Milton, Blake, Whitman, Hart Crane, and a range of modern works.—C. Schenck.

Th 12:00-1:50.

VII. Literary Theory.

Fate of the literary work of art from 1800 to the present in the critical theory and discourse of various interpreters—aesthetic, phenomenologist, formalist, structuralist, semiotic.—M. Jaanus-Kurrik.

Environmental Science studies the energy and material levels and pathways of natural earth systems in order to assess the effect of exceedances of these levels caused by the inadvertent impacts of human technologic systems, such as the exposure to radioactive materials, release of toxic substances, carbon dioxide build-up, elimination of species, and despoilation of the landscape. It provides a rational scientific basis for the management of earth space and resources. Environmental Science combines the traditional sciences into a holistic view of natural systems, especially with regard to their connections to human designed systems. While dependent on the findings of the natural sciences to describe the separate pieces of environmental systems, it uncovers convergent relations that reflect coherences among the disciplines. The holism of environmental science is a thinking process that focuses on a unique dynamics of life on earth and presents this material as an organized body of knowledge.

The curriculum recognizes the need for broad and well trained scientists to cope with the complexities of contemporary and anticipated disruptions of environmental systems. Majors must acquire a real world understanding of hybrid built and natural systems, as well as the content and methodology of science. They will study the theoretical and applied aspects of environmental science and will be exposed to a range of current and future problems.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

- I. Environmental Science BC 1001, BC 1002
- II. One of the following options:
 1. 2 courses from each of 3 of the following departments: Biology, Chemistry, Geology, Physics,
or
 2. 5 course concentration in one of the following: Biology, Chemistry, Geology, Physics

Environmental Science

III. Four courses to be selected from the following:

Environmental Science BC 2011	Built Environmental Systems I, Organic Resources
Environmental Science BC 2012	Built Environmental Systems II, Inorganic Resources
Environmental Science BC 2014	Built Environmental Systems III, Physical Ecology of Human Habitats
Environmental Science BC 3015	Chemical Cycles in the Environment
Environmental Science BC 3016	Environmental Measurements
Environmental Science BC 3035	Environmental Hazards and Disasters
Environmental Science BC 3037	Environmental Monitoring
Environmental Science BC 3038	Environmental Planning and Site Development
Geography W 4111	Pedology and Soil Resources
Geography W 4112	Hydrology and Water Resources
Geography W 4114	Conservation Theory

Graduating seniors are required to submit a report on an environmental research project by taking Environmental Science BC 3999, or as an extension of another course.

Majors in Environmental Science are encouraged to take courses in the social sciences in order to become familiar with the languages and approaches of these disciplines to environmental issues.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required:

Environmental Science BC 1001, BC 1002, and electives that form a coherent program in conjunction with the student's major field.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BC 1001x, BC 1002y. Environmental Science. Global and local dynamics of natural systems of the planet Earth, and their capacities to satisfy human demands for land, food, water, energy, minerals, open space, waste disposal. Impact of population growth, technology, and urban life-styles on planetary and regional equilibria. Autumn Term: physical processes of the atmosphere, hydrosphere, pedosphere, and lithosphere, and their vulnerabilities to human activities. Spring Term: ecosystem analysis of local and global processes in the biosphere, geographical ecology and biome classification; disturbances of the integrity of the environment by the technologies of modern agriculture and urban-industrial processes; remedial measures and planning a sustainable ecology for the future.—S. Carson.

Enrollment limited to 80 students. Permission of the instructor required. Laboratory required, including field work. Permission for laboratory assignment required.

4½ points.

Lecture M W 1:10-2:25.

Laboratory M 2:40-5:30, Tu 2:40-5:30, W 2:40-5:30, Th 2:40-5:30.

BC 2011x. Built Environmental Systems I, Organic Resources.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points.

BC 2012y. Built Environmental Systems II, Inorganic Resources.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points.

BC 2014y. Built Environmental Systems III, Human Habitats.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points.

BC 3015x. Chemical Cycles in the Environment.

A detailed study of the cycles of chemical species in the environment including carbon, nitrogen, phosphorus and sulfur compounds, major cations trace metals, and organic pollutants. Emphasis will be placed on man-induced perturbations of natural cycles.—R. Bopp.

Chemistry BC 1601 and Environmental Science BC 1001, BC 1002 or equivalent or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

Environmental Science

BC 3016y. Environmental Measurements.

Modern methods used in analysis of environmental samples for monitoring and research purposes. Standard and advanced techniques of air, water, sediment and soil analysis will be covered including spectrometric and chromatographic methods.—R. Bopp.

Chemistry BC 1601, BC 1602 or equivalent and permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 16 students.

3 points. Lecture Tu Th 2:10-3:00. Laboratory Tu or Th 3:10-5:00.

BC 3035y. Environmental Hazards and Disasters.

Prediction and avoidance of catastrophic events that originate in natural systems and technologic systems; risk assessment, response strategies to minimize damage before, during and after events such as, earthquakes, floods, nuclear breakdowns.—S. Carson.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

BC 3037x. Environmental Monitoring. (formerly, Geography 46)

Design and use of surveillance methods to safeguard the quality of life and public health; air, water, soils, home and occupational safety, food and consumer goods, disposal of toxic substances and sanitary, industrial, and household wastes. Determination of background levels, setting of standards and enforcement procedures, visits to public and private agencies. —J. Overton.

3 points.

Tu 4:10-6:00, plus 2 half-day trips to agencies.

BC 3038y. Environmental Planning and Site Development. (formerly Environmental Landscape Design)

Introduction to planning practice and land development both in natural systems and in core cities and surrounding suburbs of metropolitan areas. Integration of scientific considerations with practical, legal and economic aspects of regional and site planning.—C. Swick.

Limited enrollment; permission of instructor required.

3 points.

Tu 4:10-6:00, plus studio design projects.

Environmental Science - Philosophy BC 3025y. Ethics and the Environment.

Analysis of the moral and aesthetic aspects of environmentalist thought; irreplaceability and intrinsic value; "endangered species"; common property; Locke's concept of entitlement; the case for development vs. conservation; responsibility to future generations; respect for nature. Readings will include selections from Locke, Kant, Schopenhauer, Thoreau, T. H. Huxley, Carson, Dubos, and others.—Instructor to be announced.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

(III)

BC 3999x, BC 3999y. Problems and Projects in Environmental Science.

Advanced laboratory and/or field studies for students who have adequate backgrounds to work independently with guidance from a member of the faculty.—Staff.

Permission of chairman required.

Variable points. Hours to be arranged.

Geography W 4111x. Pedology and Soil Resources.

Introduction to biogeochemistry of soils and their genesis, morphology, and classification; ecology, management, and conservation of soils in different agricultural systems; evaluation, mapping, and planning of land sites for agricultural, open space, and urban uses.—L. Zobler.

Prerequisite: Environmental Science 1, 2, equivalent, or permission of the instructor. Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

Two one-day field trips and reports required.

3 points.

Geography W 4112x. Hydrology and Water Resources.

Hydrologic cycle analysis of surface and ground water flows and their application to water management in urban and rural areas; resource planning for potable supplies, waste disposal, and other uses; case studies of water quality and flood control problems.—L. Zobler.

Prerequisite: Environmental Science 1, 2 or equivalent or permission of the instructor. Offered in 1983-84. Two one-day field trips and reports required.

3 points.

Lecture: Tu Th 3:10-4:00.

Laboratory: Tu or Th 4:10-6:00.

Geography W 4114y. Conservation Theory.

Dimensions of contemporary conservation issues as bases for making choices about social management of technology and the allocation of natural resources. Roles of ecologic, economic, historic, political, ethical, perceptual, and scientific factors in environmental policy-making. Natural resource models and decision methods, using biologic, mineral, energy, land use, and ambient case study examples. Students are required to analyze a specific problem or impact statement.—L. Zobler.

Environmental Science

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:00 plus tutorials.

The following courses will be developed for 1984-85 and 1985-86: Environmental Modeling; Resources and Wastes.

The following courses offered by the Geography Department of Columbia University are of special interest to students of Environmental Science:

W 1019x. Spatial Organization of Society.

An introduction to human geography with an emphasis on spatial patterns of human activity and the social and economic processes underlying them. Topics include the uneven spatial development of the world economy, patterns of underdevelopment, contemporary urban processes such as gentrification and patterns of regional development. An introduction also, to various philosophical concepts of geographical space.—N. Smith.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

W 3020x. Economic Geography.

Introduction to the economic factors in locational decisions and their relationships to distribution of world resources and industries. Directed to students who desire a survey of the systematic relationships between economic and spatial distributions, with emphasis on pertinent economic and geographic theory.—S. McLafferty.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (V)

W 3071x-W 3072y. Quantitative Techniques in Geography.

Theory and techniques of measuring geographic distributions; descriptive and analytic methods (regression, factor analysis) useful in dealing with areal associations and interactions; “packaged” programs for displaying and analyzing spatial patterns; additional selected programs (point pattern analyses, frequency distributions, and taxonomic procedures).—N. Smith, S. McLafferty.

3 points.

x: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

y: Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

W 4018y. Cartography.

Use of maps for illustrative and statistical purposes, as point, line, and area symbols, and for geographic analysis; survey of photogrammetry and remote sensing and of modern map production methods; experience in cartographic drafting, compilation, design and evaluation; use of aerial photographs in mapping and as map supplements.—M. Pinther.

$20.00 fee. Studio course. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Permission of the instructor required.

3 points. Tu Th 6:10-8:00.

W 4103y. Geography of Energy Crisis.

Recent patterns of energy production and consumption and origins of so-called energy crisis. A political economy approach. We shall consider the relationship between energy, geographical mobility and economic development, the relationship between energy crisis and broader economic crisis, and the development of alternative resources. What geographical patterns can we expect from the present restructuring of the energy regimen?—N. Smith.

3 points.

Tu 2:10-4:00. Tutorial Tu 4:00-5:00.

W 4039y. Medical Geography.

Mechanisms of diseases and their modes of transmission; effects of disease on settlement patterns, agricultural development, and landscape modification with special reference to major maladies; the influence man has on disease through economic development and manipulation of environment; special implications of medical care in the United States, including effects of innovation and distribution of health services delivery.—S. Baker.

3 points.

W 6:10-8:00 and one hour tutorial. (V)

W 4050x. Population Geography.

Concepts pertaining to population change: population policy, population growth, fertility mortality, migration, select population characteristics, and food and resource problems related to population growth; impact of population change on society.—R. Lewis.

3 points.

Tu 4:10-6:00 and one hour tutorial. (V)

W 4071y. Remote Sensing of the Environment.

Introduction to interpretation of remote sensing images; interpretation of land systems; vegetation, land forms, and soils; interpretation of socioeconomic data; settlement patterns, land use, and agricultural systems.—Instructor to be announced.

Enrollment limited to 25 students. Senior majors preferred. Laboratory of two hours per week required.

3 points. M 10:00-11:50, W 10:00-12:00.

Environmental Science

W 4075x. Introduction to Airphoto Interpretation.

Basic techniques and procedures of airphoto interpretation. Use of airphoto data in analysis of the physical environment, rural land use, and urban-industrial activity.—Instructor to be announced.

Enrollment limited to 25 students.

Studio of two hours per week required: $20 fee. 3 points. W 10:00-11:50.

W 4129x. Ecological Biogeography.

How evolution, ecological dynamics, and environmental change create the biological landscape. Topics include North American biomes, historical biogeography, ecological dynamics, diversity and stability, and environmental deterioration. Laboratory exercises in acquisition and analysis of ecological data.—G. Rogers.

Prerequisites: one year physical geography and a botany course or the instructor's permission. 3 points. F 1:10-4:00.

W 4900x. World Resources and Industries.

World, national, and regional resources viewed as bases of an international urban-industrial ecosystem, distribution of agricultural, mineral, and energy supplies and related processing industries, and their impacts on limits to growth; institutional and technological forces in resource-using systems that affect production and trade patterns through government intervention and operations of multinational corporations.—K. Webb, L. Zobler, N. Smith. 3 points.

W 2:10-4:00 and one hour tutorial. (V)

W 4910y. The Geography of Hunger and Food Supply.

Worldwide and local perspectives on causes and consequences of hunger; regional and cross-cultural aspects of food consumption patterns, production parameters, distribution, marketing, and official intervention; methodologies for developing areas, including Brazilian experience and other case studies.—K. Webb. 3 points.

Not offered in 1983-84. (V)

The Experimental Studies Program provides students with the opportunity to expand and enrich their education through independent projects, internships, interdisciplinary studies, and other innovative approaches to learning.

The basic component of the Program, Experimental Studies BC 3001, BC 3002, takes students out of the classroom to undertake independent work of a kind not provided for by regular departmental offerings—and then brings them back to the classroom to analyze and reflect on these activities and experiences. The students in Experimental Studies BC 3001, BC 3002, fall into two broad categories: those doing internships in New York City, exploring career and other interests, and those doing independent interdisciplinary projects. Occasionally, students focus primarily on mastering special skills. In their projects, students can explore practical or interdisciplinary aspects of their major field of academic interest, or can extend their interests and abilities into new areas.

Recent projects include: medical illustration, writing case studies for a public health dentistry course, translating Spanish documents for the International League for Human Rights, doing research on the Cold War for a documentary film, exploring the connections between poetry and photography, working with developmentally delayed children, doing a study of the New York video community, working with a literary agent evaluating manuscripts, publishing a magazine on Venezuela for the United Nations newspaper, doing cancer research, and working on writing and singing projects. Students have recently held internships at the Vivian Beaumont Theatre, the Chinatown Health Clinic, Mount Sinai Hospital, WNYC Radio, New York Magazine, the Soho Weekly News, the Urban Homesteading Assistance Board, the New York Unemployed and Welfare Council, Family Planning Advocates, the International Indian Treaty Research Council, and the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Experimental Studies Program

In addition to the supervision in the setting of their internships and projects, students choose Barnard faculty members (or, where appropriate, faculty members from other branches of Columbia University) to guide and supervise their work. Meetings with faculty sponsors usually occur every two weeks, and in addition to reading, writing or research required by the project, students are usually asked to keep journals in which they reflect on their activities and experiences. Beyond this individual supervision which focuses on the content of the project, the students in Experimental Studies BC 3001, BC 3002 meet weekly in seminars with the Director of the Program. In these seminars students discuss their projects with other students and analyze the social and cultural contexts in which their internships or projects are carried out. The students compare experiences and use these as bases for analyzing how organizations, institutions and professions work. Ethical, political, social and personal issues are discussed, including issues relating to women and careers. Evaluations for this pass/fail course are determined by the Director on the bases of the sponsors' evaluations and the student's contribution to the seminar.

Some of the issues raised in Experimental Studies BC 3001, BC 3002 are dealt with in the two interdisciplinary courses which complete the offerings of the Experimental Studies Program: Experimental Studies BC 3003, Contemporary Issues in Feminist Thought, and Experimental Studies BC 3004, Issues in Experimental Education. These courses function in the same fashion as other College courses.

Students may neither major nor minor in Experimental Studies.

REGISTRATION PROCEDURES FOR EXPERIMENTAL STUDIES BC 3001, BC 3002

Before the beginning of the semester each student who intends to register for Experimental Studies BC 3001, BC 3002 should follow these procedures:

(1) Develop a proposal for a project or an internship. A semester internship can be obtained through the Office of Career Services, through the student's own contacts, or through consulting the list of recently completed internships available outside the Experimental Studies Office. A January or summer internship can be continued into the Spring or Fall, or can serve as the basis for a project in Experimental Studies.

(2) Consult the Director of the Experimental Studies Program, who advises on the feasibility and appropriateness of the project plan, suggests possible faculty sponsors, and discusses the project form.

(3) Arrange for a faculty sponsor.

(4) Return the project form, signed by the faculty sponsor, for approval.

(5) Sign up for either Section I or II of the Experimental Studies Seminar.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Foreign Area Studies

Office: 321A Milbank Hall

Telephone: 280-5417

This program is supervised by the Committee on Foreign Area Studies:

Professor of Anthropology

¹Emeritus and Special Lecturer

²Absent on leave, 1983-84.

The purpose of Foreign Area Studies is to provide introduction to the study of some one foreign region or country of the world. The work is divided into three elements: language, a scholarly discipline, and a diversified approach to a region. The student who wishes to major may choose one of the regions listed below. The courses named under each region include only those most commonly elected. Other courses, or other regions of concentration, may be chosen upon approval of the project by an adviser. Concentrations in African Studies can be arranged in certain departments; for information see advisers in Anthropology, Geography, History, and Political Science. For fuller descriptions of the courses listed, see under the appropriate department.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major in Foreign Area Studies is open to a limited number of qualified students whose applications are approved by the committee in charge. Freshmen and sophomores anticipating such a major should consult their class advisers and the officer in charge by March 1 of the sophomore year.

The senior requirement varies according to the region studied. Majors should consult their advisers for details.

There is no minor in Foreign Area Studies.

Asia (Adviser: Professor Meskill). See Oriental Studies, page 198.

Foreign Area Studies

British Civilization (Adviser: Professor Ulanov)

This program emphasizes historical and literary traditions of British Civilization and is comprehensive enough to include specialized interests in the fields of imperial and commonwealth studies. A student who wishes to major should plan, in consultation with her adviser, a program to include (a) four courses in history, (b) four additional courses, of which two must be in English literature, and (c) two courses in senior seminar in History or English.

European Studies (Adviser: Professor Meskill)

A program for students with a strong base in European languages and a focused interest in contemporary European affairs. Students interested in one Western European country should also consult the subsection on Western Europe.

Requirements:

European Studies BC 3352 *European Nation-State Building:
France, Germany, and Italy.*

5 courses on one country or region, in more than one discipline. See the list of courses under Western Europe.

4 courses on general European subjects, to be selected after consultation with the program adviser.

2 courses of senior seminar under the direction of the program adviser.

Associated requirement (not counted towards the average in the major): competence (the equivalent of four Barnard semesters) in each of two European languages, usually French and German.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

European Studies BC 3352x. European Nation-State Building: France, Germany, and Italy.

Not offered 1983-84.

Italian Studies (Advisers: Professors Colombo and Lorch)

The program aims to encourage the interest of students in contemporary Europe by focusing on Italy, both for its own sake and as a kind of test-case for the study of a rapidly changing European society. It offers a specialization to students who have an interest in one social science and in Italy at the same time.

Specific programs are planned with the adviser on the basis of a major's particular interests and needs. In all a major must take at least 14 courses with concentration in one particular discipline:

Italian V 1301-V1302

Comprehensive Elementary and Intermediate Italian

or show sufficient proficiency;

Italian V 3333-V 3334

Courses in the French Department have a twofold objective: to perfect fluency in the written and the spoken language, and to develop an understanding and appreciation of the literature and culture of France and French-speaking countries.

New students who have already given evidence of advanced training in French (Advanced Placement Examination, CEEB examinations) may automatically be exempted from the language requirement. All other new students who intend to satisfy their requirement in French will, depending upon their preparation, be placed immediately in the appropriate language course or be asked to take a placement test, offered at the start of each semester (see College Calendar for exact dates). Those receiving a sufficiently high grade fulfill the requirement. The others may do so by completing French BC 1204. For additional information about language courses, students should consult the department chairman.

Students who have satisfied the language requirement may take literature courses conducted entirely in French (BC 3020, BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024); courses in which the readings are in French, but with lectures, discussions, and papers in English (BC 3047, BC 3048); and advanced language course BC 1306.

In cooperation with Columbia College, the department offers a program at Reid Hall in Paris open to majors and non-majors. See Study Abroad, page 45.

The department holds many of its advanced classes in a special seminar-library, the French Room (306 Milbank). This is also where the Société Française de Barnard et de Columbia meets and plans its many activities, among them the annual production of a French play.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

All majors are required to take the Junior French Test, a short-answer examination on literary history, literary terminology, and translation. Students will take the Major Examination, a written critical essay on a prepared question and an individual oral explication de texte (unless enrolled in the Senior Project, French BC 3059, BC 3060).

Majors who plan to do graduate work are encouraged to acquire a reading knowledge of Latin and German.

In consultation with the adviser of her choice, the student majoring in French may select either of the following options:

French

Language and Literature

Ten courses are required for the major:

French BC 3021 and BC 3022 Masterpieces of Literature from the Middle Ages to the Twentieth Century

or

French BC 3023 and BC 3024 The Culture and Institutions of France

2 of the following language courses:

French BC 3012 History of the French Language

French BC 3013 Advanced Composition and Grammar

French BC 3014 Advanced Translation

French BC 3015 Advanced Translation into French

French BC 3016 Advanced Oral French

French BC 3017 The Translation of Dialogue

5 literature courses chosen from BC 3031-BC 3046; and

One-term seminar numbered BC 3052.

Students with a grade of A minus may choose to write a Senior Essay (French BC 3059, BC 3060 A).

Translation and Literature

The major requires 10 courses:

French BC 3021 and BC 3022, or BC 3023 and BC 3024;

French BC 3014 and two other advanced language courses chosen from courses BC 3013, BC 3015, or BC 3017;

3 one-term literature courses numbered BC 3031-BC 3046; and one-term seminar numbered BC 3059 together with independent work in BC 3060B.

The student is expected to declare her option by the end of the junior year. Either program may include additional courses in French literature and language, or in other subjects which vary with the interest of the student.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for a minor:

2 advanced language courses (BC 3012-BC 3017); and

3 advanced literature courses (BC 3031-BC 3046).

A student who elects French as part of a combined, double, or interdisciplinary major will establish her individualized program with the departments concerned.

Analysis of the discourse of love in the works of Barthes, Beauvoir, Duras, Proust, Sarraute.—M. Barsoum.

Prerequisite: Satisfaction of the language requirement in French. Enrollment limited to 20 students.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

(II)

BC 3021x, BC 3022y. Masterpieces of Literature from the Middle Ages to the Twentieth Century.

Scope and variety of French literature through analyses of significant works and currents from the Middle Ages to the twentieth century. Lectures, discussions and close textual analyses. Autumn Term: Medieval, Renaissance and Classical Literature. Spring Term: the Age of Enlightenment, Romanticism, Realism and Symbolism. French BC 3021 may be taken for credit without completion of French BC 3022.—A. Boyman.

Prerequisite: Satisfaction of the language requirement in French.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

(II)

BC 3021y. Masterpieces of Literature from the Middle Ages to the Twentieth Century. Part I.

Equivalent of Course BC 3021x but given in the Spring Term.—T. Greene.

Prerequisite: Satisfaction of the language requirement in French.

3 points. M W F 10:00.

(II)

BC 3022x. Masterpieces of Literature from the Middle Ages to the Twentieth Century. Part II.

Equivalent of BC 3022y but given in the Autumn Term.—M. Levowitz.

Prerequisite: Satisfaction of the language requirement in French.

3 points. Tu Th 1:00-2:25.

(II)

BC 3023x, BC 3024y. The Culture and Institutions of France.

Major cultural and institutional foundations of France from the Middle Ages to the present; the play of these forces on the contemporary period. Readings include historical, religious, and literary sources.—S. Gavronsky.

Prerequisite: Satisfaction of the language requirement in French. Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85.

3 points. (II)

BC 3031y. The Middle Ages.

Medieval French literature in its historical and cultural context: La Chanson de Roland, the Tristan poems of Béroul and Thomas, Abélard, Chrétien de Troyes, Marie de France and La Quête du Saint Graal. Certain of the texts will be read in Old French.—P. Terry.

Nonmajors may take the course with the permission of the instructor. Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (II)

BC 3032x. Renaissance and Classical Prose.

Fictional and non-fictional prose of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries: Rabelais, Montaigne, Descartes, Pascal, La Rochefoucauld, Madame de Sévigné, Madame de La Fayette, Bossuet, La Bruyère.—T. Greene.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Offered in 1984-85.

3 points. (II)

BC 3033x. Renaissance, Baroque, and Classical Poetry.

Form, content, and aesthetics of poets from Marot to La Fontaine, including Marguerite de Navarre, Louise Labé, Maurice Scève, du Bellay, Ronsard, d'Aubigné, Sponde, other Baroque poets, Boileau, and Racine.—T. Greene.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Offered in alternate years.

3 points. M W 1:00-2:25. (II)

BC 3034x. The French Theater of the Seventeenth Century.

Corneille, Racine, and Molière.—R. Geen.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC

3024 or permission of the instructor. Offered in alternate years.

3 points. M W F 10:00. (II)

BC 3035x. Eighteenth-Century French Fiction.

Varieties of prose fiction, including selections from the works of Lesage, Marivaux, Prévost, Voltaire, Rousseau, Bernardin, Diderot, and Laclos.—R. Geen.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the permission of the instructor. Offered in 1984-85.

3 points. (II)

BC 3037x. Nineteenth-Century French Poetry.

Poetry and poetics from Romanticism through Symbolism. Selections from the works of Hugo, Baudelaire, Rimbaud and Mallarmé.—P. Terry.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the permission of the instructor. Offered in 1984-85.

3 points. (II)

BC 3038y. The Nineteenth-Century French Novel.

Evolution of the novel, aesthetics of Romanticism, Realism and Naturalism. Authors will include Balzac, Stendhal, Flaubert, and Zola.—E. Dezon-Jones.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the equivalent or the permission of the instructor. Offered in alternate years.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25. (II)

BC 3039y. Twentieth-Century French Theater.

Tradition and innovation in major French dramatists from Jarry and Apollinaire to Ionesco and Arrabal.—R. Geen.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the permission of the instructor. Offered in alternate years.

3 points. (II)

BC 3040y. Twentieth-Century Fiction.

Theory and forms of the novel and other prose genres: Proust, Du Côté de chez Swann; Gide, Les Faux-monnayeurs; Malraux, La Condition humaine; Sartre, La Nausée; Camus, L'Etranger; Butor, La Modification; Robbe-Grillet, La Jalousie.—E. Dezon-Jones.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the permission of the instructor. Offered in 1984-85.

3 points. (II)

French

BC 3041x. Twentieth-Century French Thought.

Definitions of language, revolution, and science in major texts from Surrealism to Structuralism: Breton, Aragon, Sartre, Camus, Barthes and Lévi-Strauss.—S. Gavronsky.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the permission of the instructor. Offered in 1984-85.

3 points. (II)

BC 3042x. Twentieth-Century French Poetry.

Reality and literary language in contemporary poetry and poetics. Readings include Apollinaire, Breton, Eluard, Michaux, Ponge and Perse.—S. Gavronsky.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the permission of the instructor. Offered in alternate years.

3 points. MW 11:00-12:15. (II)

BC 3043y. French Women Writers.

Literary and cultural study of prose writers, poets, and influential groups, with emphasis on Louise Labé, the Précieuses, Madame de Sévigné, Madame de La Fayette, Madame de Staël, George Sand, Colette, Beauvoir, Sarraute, Duras, Rochefort, Vilморin, Wittig, Cixous.—T. Greene.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 25 students.

3 points. MW 1:10-2:25. (II)

BC 3044y. Materials and Techniques of French Poetry.

Theme, emotion, ideas and programs, and techniques such as meter, rhyme, rhythm, sound, set forms, images, metaphors and symbols, vocabulary, and the prose poem, from early French poetry to the Surrealists and recent poetry.—T. Greene.

Prerequisite: BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024 or the permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 15 students. Offered in 1984-85.

3 points. (II)

BC 3047x. Surrealism in Film and Painting.

Relationship between the critical and creative discourse in the works of Breton, Buñuel, Masson, Magritte, Dali, Picabia and Max Ernst.—S. Gavronsky.

Prerequisite: Satisfaction of the language requirement in French.

3 points. MW 1:10-2:25. (II)

BC 3048y. Roland Barthes.

The evolution of semiotics as seen through the works of Roland Barthes.—A. Boyman.

Prerequisite: Satisfaction of the language requirement in French.

3 points. MW 1:10-2:25. (II)

SEMINARS

The number of students in each seminar is limited and written permission is required in advance of registration period.

BC 3052x. Seminar for Senior Majors.

Proust.—E. Dezon-Jones.

4 points. W 4:10-6:00.

BC 3059x, BC 3060y. Senior Project.

A. Research into a precise topic of French literature and preparation of a long essay in French. Open to seniors with honor grades. Students electing a one-year senior project take four one-term literature courses numbered BC 3031-BC 3046; the thesis defense constitutes the oral section. BC 3059 or BC 3060 may be taken alone with special permission. The thesis defense constitutes the oral section. —Staff.

B. Presentation and translation into English of a French text of significant length and literary value. Students taking this course as a one-semester project will take the written section of the major examination, the defense of the translation project constitutes the oral section. Students with honor grades may elect a one-year project; they are excused from the major examination; the defense of the translation project constitutes the oral section.—P. Terry.

M 3:10-5:00.

STUDY IN PARIS

Columbia-Barnard Reid Hall Programs.

Reid Hall, at 4, rue de Chevreuse, in Montparnasse, is the Paris campus for Barnard and Columbia Colleges. Barnard and Columbia sponsor three distinct programs there during the academic year. The programs are open to students with majors in all fields. To assure validation of credits students should work closely with their major advisers.

There are three semester-long institutes in French culture, language and literature. During the Autumn Semester, the institutes are conducted at the intermediate and advanced levels. During the Spring Semester only the advanced level institute is offered. The Spring Advanced Institute, however, includes the opportunity to take one or two courses in the French University system as well as fine arts and an anthropology course at Reid Hall.

INTERMEDIATE INSTITUTE

Open to all students, except freshmen, who have completed first year college French or the equivalent.

Autumn:

H 1201p. Intermediate Course, first half.

Emphasis on the spoken language, pronunciation, oral-aural drill. Reading of contemporary texts. Inductive study of grammar.

4 points. Credit is not granted for both BC 1203 and H1201.

H 1202q. Intermediate Course, second half.

Continued emphasis on spoken French; increased emphasis on reading and composition.

4 points. Credit is not granted for both BC 1204 and H1202.

H 3335q. Masterpieces of French Literature.

Analysis and discussion of major works of Medieval, Renaissance, and Classical literature. Introduction to methods of explication de texte.

4 points. Credit is not granted for both BC 3021 and H3335. (II)

H 3445q. French Civilization and Culture.

French art and architecture, illustrating the periods approached through literature in H3335.

Credit is not granted for both BC 3023 and H3445.

ADVANCED INSTITUTES

Open to students who have completed French BC 3021, BC 3022 or its equivalents.

Autumn:

H 3003x. Phonetics.

Theoretical analysis of the phonemic, phonetic and physiological characteristics of French speech. Practical work emphasizing articulation, rhythm, stress, and intonation.—S. Lecointre.

2 points. Hours to be arranged.

History H 3250x. French Foreign Policies since the Second World War.

Focus on a number of French preoccupations in the sphere of international relations; evolution of certain French attitudes and concerns, and contemporary French foreign policy.—P. Melandri.

4 points. Hours to be arranged. (III)

H 3442p. Advanced Composition and Explication.

Morphology and Syntax. Readings from H3602 are used for analysis and explication de texte as well as for intensive training in composition.

4 points. Credit is not granted for both BC 3013 and H 3442.

H 3446x. French Civilization and Culture seen through the Sociology of Literature.

France since World War II and its sense of its own past; its literature and ideology. Emphasis on political and historical structures and class systems and critical systems through the study of two or three literary texts.

4 points. Credit is not granted for both BC 3024 and H 3446.

H 3602x. Contemporary French Literature.

Major trends in French thought since 1945, as they appear in poetry, fiction, criticism, and the theater; backgrounds in thought of the pre-war period.

4 points. Credit is not granted for both BC 3041 and H 3602. (II)

H 3604q. Seminar.

Art history of the twentieth century, with emphasis on contemporary art.

3 points.

Spring:

H 3442y. Advanced Composition and Explication.

Morphology and syntax. Readings from H 3602 are used for analysis and explication de texte as well as for intensive training in composition.

4 points. Credit is not granted for both BC 3013 and H 3442.

H 3446y. Civilization of Modern France.

Same course as H 3446x.

4 points. Credit is not granted for both BC 3024 and H 3446.

H 3602y. Contemporary French Literature.

Same course as H 3602x.

4 points. Credit is not granted for both BC 3041 and H 3602. (II)

H 3606y. Supervised Study in France.

Special study in the French University system under the supervision of the Director of Studies. Students select one or two courses given by departments in the area of their choice (Section I or II).

3 points.

French

Anthropology H 3820y. Ethnography of French Society.

The methods and goals of socio-cultural anthropology applied to the understanding of French society. Course is divided into five units, each dealing with a domain of social activity: e.g., kinship and the family, socialization, political behavior/institutions, religion and belief.—S. Rodgers.
3 points. (V)

Fine Arts H 3710y. Fine Arts in Paris.

Focus on artists and architecture that can be studied to best advantage in Paris: Delacroix, Monet, Chartres, Versailles; and on artists whose work has a meaningful place in French history of art: Leonardo da Vinci, Rubens, Picasso.—O. Lorsignol.
3 points.

French Women's Studies H 3450y. Contemporary French Thought and Feminist Theory: Critical Approaches to Women and Literature.

Emphasis on the issues of gender as they affect the production of and responses to theoretical and literary texts.—Nancy Huston.
Prerequisite: French BC 3021, BC 3022 or its equivalents plus two semesters of work in Women's Studies.
4 points. Hours to be arranged.

History/Women's Studies H 3550y. Women and Society.

Although the theme of this course will vary from one year to another, it will consistently focus on some aspect of women and society. Instructor to be announced.
Prerequisite: French BC 3021, BC 3022 or its equivalents plus two semesters of Work in Women's Studies.
4 points. Hours to be arranged.

WOMEN'S STUDIES INSTITUTE

The Women's Studies Institute is a spring semester Reid Hall program, consisting of the following four courses: H 3442: Advanced Composition and Explication; H 3606: Supervised Study in the French University System; French-Women's Studies H 3450: Contemporary French Thought and Feminist Theory; History-Women's Studies H 3550: Women and Society. The program is more fully described in this catalogue under the heading of Women's Studies (see page 265).

ACADEMIC YEAR PROGRAM

The two courses listed below constitute a full year's program. Primarily for juniors sufficiently advanced in French and in their majors (should the major not be French) to be able to profit from the program and particularly from the tutorial (H 3997-H 3998) in the direction of a French expert on the student's particular area of interest.

This program, designed to meet the needs of those students capable of immersion in the French University system and of direct communication with the tutor in the area of their choice, is distinguished by a tutorial. The program of courses is selected individually for each student. The tutorial consists of weekly hour-long meetings with the tutor and culminates in a thesis which is an original and carefully researched work. Eminent members of the French intellectual community serve as tutors.

Students register for appropriate courses in the French University system in major and elective fields. Both the course work and the tutor are selected in close consultation with the Director of Studies and with members of the appropriate Barnard or Columbia faculties.

H 3991x-H 3992y. Supervised Study in France. Special study under the supervision of the Director of Studies. The program requires that students follow the equivalent of 9 hours of class instruction per week per semester. Permission of the major adviser and the chairman of the Barnard Department of French is required.
3 to 9 points.

H 3997x-H 3998y. Supervised Study in France. Special research under the supervision of the Director of Studies involving individual work with an established specialist in the student's major field. Permission of the major adviser and the chairman of the Barnard Department of French is required.
2 to 6 points.

Geology is the scientific study of the Earth for the purpose of understanding how past activities have led to present conditions and of how present conditions affect the future. Modern geology involves application of mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology, and computers toward solving problems of the Earth as a planet in the Solar System, of the large-scale dynamics of the earth, of the locations of supplies of natural resources, of the fabric and history of the rock record, and of the origin and history of life. Geology can be applied at many levels, from providing a basis for understanding one's surroundings to background for careers in law, architecture, land-use planning, and real estate to professional careers in research.

Special resources for study of geology at Barnard include those within the College, within the University, and in and around New York City. Barnard facilities in Milbank Hall include photographic darkroom, and sedimentology laboratory. Columbia University facilities in Schermerhorn Hall include teaching laboratories and collections of specimens, and a large research library. The Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory offers the Geo-science Library, extensive collections of deep-sea sediments and sea-floor rock specimens, and research facilities in geochemistry, seismology, marine geology and geophysics, mineral physics, and micropaleontology, all available to qualified undergraduate majors. The School of International and Public Affairs houses a large collection of maps and U.S. government documents. New York City resources include the American Museum of Natural History with a large collection of research materials, the Goddard Institute of Space Studies, the New York Public Library, Engineering Societies Library, and United Nations Library.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students contemplating a major in geology should consult with the chairman of the department. Majors should plan their programs for their junior and senior years with a view toward including, as desired, courses that are offered only in alternate years. Those who are considering careers for which a doctorate is required should include two foreign languages (German, French or Russian are usually specified) in their programs, as well as the basic science background courses expected of geology majors (one year of physics, chemistry, and mathematics through calculus; familiarity with computers is desirable).

Geology

Various major options are possible, including but not limited to classical geology, with emphasis on biologic or nonbiologic aspects; geophysics; geochemistry; environmental geology; and Earth sciences.

Majors should plan to spend at least one summer in geological mapping at an approved geologic field camp, in research activities at an oceanographic institution, or as a participant in an approved field research program being carried out elsewhere.

There is no major examination, but a satisfactory research paper prepared in conjunction with a senior seminar is required.

A minimum of 8 courses is required for the major, including

or

V 1021, V 1022

W3001x

W 4113,

W 4701

Seminar in Geology

Principles of Sedimentation

Principles of Stratigraphy

Principles of Structural Geology

Introduction to Invertebrate

Paleontology

Exceptions may be made with the approval of the chairman of the department.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minimum of 5 courses is required for the minor, including V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022 and any three upper-level courses.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

V 1011x. Introduction to Earth Sciences, I.

Evolutionary processes and history of planet Earth, its oceans, and atmosphere. Part I: Cosmochemical and geochemical evidence of the evolution of the solar system and early history of Earth. Part II: Evidence from heat flow, seismology, gravity, and magnetism for the large-scale structure and dynamics of the whole Earth.—W. Broecker and P. Richards.

Prerequisite: Basic high-school chemistry, physics, and mathematics.

4½ points. Lecture M W F 10:00. Laboratory (3 hours), M Tu W Th 2:10-5:00; Tu Th 9:00-11:50.

V 1012y. Introduction to Earth Sciences, II.

Evolutionary processes and history of planet Earth, its oceans, and atmosphere. Part III: Geological evolution and history of Earth's crust and lithosphere. Part IV: Evidence from oceanography and atmospheric science for dynamics of Earth's oceans, atmosphere, and climate.—J. Hays and A. Gordon.

Prerequisite: Basic high-school chemistry, physics, and mathematics.

4½ points. Lecture M W F 10:00. Laboratory (3 hours), M Tu W Th 2:10-5:00; Tu Th 9:00-11:50.

V 1021x. Physical Geology.

Composition and structure of Earth; internal and external forces acting upon it, and surface features resulting. Laboratory includes study of common rocks and minerals, of contour maps as means of depicting the Earth's morphology. Three required field trips to local geologic features.—J. Sanders.

Not offered in 1983-84.

4½ points.

V 1022y. Historical Geology.

History of Earth and of life upon it from the beginning to modern times. The laboratory and assigned work include study of invertebrate fossils and of geologic maps and structures, museum trips, and a required one-day field trip. A research paper on a geologic topic is required.—J. Sanders.

Not offered in 1983-84.
4½ points.

V 1411x. Introduction to Earth Sciences, I.

The same course as V 1011x but without laboratory.—W. Broecker and P. Richards.

Prerequisite: Basic high-school chemistry, physics, and mathematics.

3 points. Lecture: M W F 10:00.

V 1412y. Introduction to Earth Sciences, II.

The same course as V 1012y but without laboratory.—J. Hays and A. Gordon.

Prerequisite: Basic high-school chemistry, physics, and mathematics.

3 points. Lecture: M W F 10:00.

V 1053y. Planet Earth.

Accelerated look at how the Earth works. The unifying concept of plate tectonics used to examine surface and internal processes in the Earth. The formation of the Earth followed by a phenomenological analysis of the forces affecting the surface and the body of the Earth with its heat engine, volcanism, seismology, magnetism, and gravity. Earthquake prediction, ridge-axis hot springs, volcanicity, and deep-sea drilling used to present basic concepts of Earth Science.—R. Anderson.

Prerequisite: High-school physics, chemistry, and mathematics.

3 points. M W 10:00-11:15.

W 3001x. Time in the Earth Sciences.

Fundamentals of paleontological and radiochemical methods by which relative and absolute time are estimated throughout the geologic record. Attention will also be given to isotope measurements or rates of significant processes occurring in the present-day ocean.—R. Batten and J. Simpson.

Prerequisites: V 1011x-V 1012y or permission of the instructor.

3 points. M W 9:45-11:00.

V 3522y. Exploration Geology and Mining Geophysics, I.

Geological environment of mineral deposits and their structural control. Orogenetical principles as a guide to mineral deposits. Geochemical and geophysical anomalies related to mineral deposits, their detection and interpretation.—J. Kuo and P. Carrion.

Prerequisites: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4008x. Introduction to Atmospheric Science.

Basic physical processes controlling structure of atmospheres of Earth and other planets; thermodynamics; radiative transfer; principles of atmospheric dynamics; cloud processes; climate and evolution of atmospheres; models of atmospheres of Earth, Mars, Venus and Jupiter based on latest spacecraft observations.—W. Rossow.

Prerequisite: Advanced calculus and general physics or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

W 4009x. Chemical Geology.

Thermodynamics as applied to Earth systems.—D. Walker.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15.

W 4113x. Introduction to Mineralogy, I.

Elementary crystallography and crystal structures, optical properties of minerals, mineral associations and phase equilibria, economic minerals. Laboratory: identification of minerals in hand specimen, chemical and physical tests, and use of petrographic microscope.—S. Weaver.

Prerequisite: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022, and elementary college physics, and chemistry, or permission of the instructor. Given in sequence with W 4114.

3 points. Lecture Tu Th 11:00. Laboratory Tu 1:10-4:00.

W 4114y. Introduction to Mineralogy, II.

Point-group symmetry and external crystal form, crystal chemistry and crystal structures, principles of X-ray diffraction. Laboratory: determination of optical properties of minerals and identification of minerals using X-ray diffraction techniques.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 4113. Enrollment limited to 20 students.

3 points. Lecture Tu Th 11:00. Laboratory Th 1:10-4:00.

W 4201x. Principles of Sedimentation.

Sedimentary particles and processes by which these particles originate, are transported, and are deposited. Primary sedimentary structures. Conversion of sediments to sedimentary rocks. Interpretation of sedimentary rocks. Laboratory studies emphasize microscopic study of sediments and sedimentary rocks and megascopic study of primary sedimentary structures.—J. Sanders.

Prerequisite: W 4113 and permission of the instructor. Not offered in 1983-84.

3½ points.

Geology

W 4221x. Principles of Stratigraphy.

Part I. Classical stratigraphy: historical and philosophical foundations of geology, principles of classification and correlation. Part II. Tectonics and sedimentation: geosynclinal theory and orogeny; plate tectonics; analysis of convergent- and divergent-plate boundaries. Evaluation of mountain belts in terms of plate-tectonic theory.—Instructor to be announced.
Prerequisite: W 4701 or permission of instructor.
3 points. Tu Th 12:00-1:15.

W 4411y. Principles of Structural Geology.

Elementary stress and strain theory; stress and strain determination from geologic structures, folds, and faults; geologic structures of divergent, transform, and convergent plate boundaries. Laboratory work consists of time analysis of geologic structures in maps, cross-sections, hand specimens, and thin sections. Mandatory field trip.—I. Dalziel.
Prerequisites: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022 or the equivalent; W 4114 and W 4701.
3 points. Lecture Tu Th 10:00. Laboratory Th 1:10-4:00.

W 4501y. Introduction to Economic Geology.

Broad survey course suitable for students majoring in sciences and engineering. The following topics discussed: mineral resources of the world; geological descriptions of metallic and non-metallic mineral deposits, geochemical theory of the formation of mineral deposits, and exploration and mining methods.—T. Takahashi.
Prerequisites: Chemistry C 1407 and Geology W 4113, or their equivalents, or the instructor's permission. Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.
3 points.

W 4661x. Introduction to Invertebrate Paleontology.

The history of life as revealed in the fossil record. A systematic survey of the morphology, ecology, taxonomy, and evolutionary history of groups of invertebrate animals commonly found as fossils.—R. Batten and J. Hays.
Prerequisite: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022 or permission of the instructor. Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.
3 points.

W 4701y. Introduction to Igneous and Metamorphic Petrology.

Compositional characteristics of igneous and metamorphic rocks as indicators of their genesis and evolution. Petrologic aspects of Earth's crust and upper mantle. Development of igneous and metamorphic rocks in a plate-tectonic framework. Students not majoring in terrestrial geology may elect to write a substantial term paper rather than attend the laboratory.—C. Langmuir.

Prerequisite: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022. W 4113 and knowledge of chemistry recommended.

3 points. Lecture Tu Th 12:00. Laboratory Tu 1:10-4:00.

W 4883x. Principles of Geochemistry, I.

Introduction to radiochemistry; the radiometric dating; processes responsible for chemical makeup of the solar system and the Earth; geochemistry of crust-mantle processes.—G.A. Zindler.
Recommended preparation: A sound background in basic chemistry.
3 points. Tu Th 10:00-11:15.

W 4884y. Organic Geochemistry.

Survey of organic geochemistry suitable for students with a strong chemistry background majoring in geology, chemistry, or biology. Origin of organic compounds in oceans, lakes, and sediments; and transport and fate of organic pollutants.—R. Bopp.
Prerequisite: One year of college chemistry. Permission of the instructor required. Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.
3 points.

W 4885x. Principles of Geochemistry, II.

Introduction to geochemical cycles involving the atmosphere, ocean, land and biosphere; chemistry of precipitation, weathering reactions, rivers, lakes, estuaries, and sedimentary rocks; stable-isotope and radioactive tracers of transport processes in continental waters and the ocean.—J. Simpson and W. Broecker.
Recommended preparation: A sound background in basic chemistry.
3 points. Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

W 4925x. Principles of Physical Oceanography.

Physical properties of sea water, water masses, and their distribution, sea-air interaction influence on the ocean structure, basic ocean-circulation pattern, relationship of diffusion and advection with respect to distribution of ocean properties, measurement techniques, and methods of data processing and analysis.—A. Gordon.
Recommended preparation: A sound background in mathematics, physics, and chemistry. Offered in alternate years.
3 points. Not offered in 1983-84.

W 4926y. Principles of Chemical Oceanography.

Factors controlling the average concentration and distribution of dissolved chemical species within the sea. Application of tracer and natural-radioisotope methods to large-scale mixing of the ocean, to the geologic record preserved in marine sediments and to the fate of fossil-fuel carbon dioxide.—W. Broecker and J. Simpson.

Offered in alternate years.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 4928x. Submarine Geology.

Survey of the geology of deep-sea topography, sediments, crustal rocks, tectonic- and sedimentary processes.—Instructor to be announced. Prerequisite: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022 or the equivalent.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15.

W 4941x. Principles of Geophysics.

Structure of Earth as inferred from geophysical investigation. Principles of measurement and interpretation. Gravity, isostasy, earthquake seismology, refraction and reflection methods, geomagnetism, marine geophysics.—D. Hayes. Prerequisites: Calculus through Mathematics V 1202 and Physics through Physics C 1007.

3 points. M W 2:30-3:45.

W 4949x. Introduction to Seismology.

Basic methods of seismogram analysis; classification of seismic waves and elementary theory of body waves and normal modes; elementary aspects of seismic prospecting, earthquake-source theory, instruments discriminating between explosions and earthquakes, inversion of seismic data to infer Earth structure, earthquake engineering, estimation of seismic risk, and earthquake prediction.—L. Sykes.

Prerequisite: One year of college physics and calculus.

3 points. M W 12:00-1:15. Two-hour laboratory every other week at Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory to be arranged.

BC 3060y. Seminar in Geology.

Discussions, problems, and readings on various problems in geology.—Instructor to be announced.

Required of senior majors. Students should consult with the chairman at the beginning of the senior year. Prerequisite: At least one year of geology.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

COLUMBIA COURSES

The following courses, listed by subdivisions of the Columbia Department of Geological Sciences, are open to qualified students with the permission of the Barnard chairman.

TERRESTRIAL AND MARINE GEOLOGY

W 3000x,y. Tutorial Study in the Earth Sciences.

TERRESTRIAL GEOLOGY

W 3010y. Field Geology.

W 4049x-W 4050y. Tectonic History of the Continents, I and II.

Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

W 4076y. Geologic Mapping.

Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

GEOPHYSICS: SEISMOLOGY AND ROCK MECHANICS

W 4521x. Exploration Geology and Mining Geophysics, II.

W 4901x. Paleomagnetism.

Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

W 4942y. Geophysical Methods.

Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

W 4943x. Thermal Studies of the Earth.

Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

W 4945x. Geophysical Theory I.

W 4946y. Geophysical Theory II.

W 4947y. Plate Tectonics.

PALEONTOLOGY AND PALEOENVIRONMENT

W 4030y. Climatic Change.

Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

OCEANOGRAPHY AND METEOROLOGY

TC 5057x. (Teachers College). Coastal Oceanography.

Courses in the German Department are designed to develop proficiency in language skills and to present the traditions as well as the current developments in the literature and culture of the German-speaking countries: Austria, West Germany, East Germany, and Switzerland.

The language requirement in German is fulfilled by the completion of BC 1204, Intermediate Course II. Entering students with a previous knowledge of German will be placed in the appropriate course on the basis of their CEEB scores or in accordance with their achievements on a placement test taken prior to registration.

In language instruction, the department offers two tracks: 1) a full-year course, German BC 1001-BC 1002, Elementary Full-Year Course, and two one-semester courses, German BC 1203-BC 1204, Intermediate Course I and II, with an equal emphasis on reading, writing, and speaking; 2) two one-semester courses, German BC 1007, Elementary German: Intensive Reading, and German BC 1208, Intermediate German: Intensive Reading. The second track courses are designed for students interested in acquiring only a reading knowledge of German. They may not be used to fulfill the language requirement.

Students who have completed, or have been exempted from, BC 1204 may enroll in BC 3005 or BC 3006, Advanced Oral German and Composition, or in literature courses taught in German. Special permission is required for enrollment in German BC 3061, BC 3062, the Colloquium and Senior Essay, respectively.

The literature courses taught in German have the twofold objective of combining the study of significant works and cultural manifestations with advanced practice in the use of German both as a written language and as a medium of communication. The department recommends that German BC 3011, Introduction to German Literature and Civilization, be elected as the first literature course. There are no prerequisites for courses in German literature in translation.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The major in German includes 9 courses—German BC 3005 or BC 3006, BC 3011 and BC 3061, and six additional advanced courses taught in German. The major examination consists of a three-hour written section (in English) and of an individual oral examination of one-half hour (in German). With special permission a student may submit a senior essay (BC 3062) in place of the written section.

The department recommends that majors include in their programs a minor in another field. While a major in German prepares students for graduate study in German, both a major and, to a lesser degree, a minor in German prepare them also for advanced study in any subfield of a discipline in which competence in the German language and/or a knowledge of the culture of the German-speaking countries is either required or recommended.

A combined major includes a total of twelve courses, six of them in German: BC 3005 or BC 3006 and five literature courses taught in German, one of which may be BC 3061. At the completion of her program, a student submits an essay on a topic representative of the two fields combined in her major. A combined major is designed with the chairpersons of the two departments and with the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in German requires five courses, German BC 3005 or BC 3006, BC 3011, and three additional literature courses taught in German, one of which may be BC 3061.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

LANGUAGE COURSES

BC 1001x-BC 1002y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Fundamentals of German grammar, comprehension of the spoken language, reading, writing, and speaking. Aural-oral exercises and intensive practice in pronunciation.—M. Shulman and Staff.

Limited enrollment. Work in the language laboratory is required.

4 points. No credit is given for BC 1001 unless BC 1002 has been satisfactorily completed.

Section I M W F 9:00.

Section II M W F 10:00.

Section III M W F 12:00.

In addition each student must register in the Department for one of the following sections:

Section I Tu Th 9:00.

Section II Tu Th 10:00.

Section III Tu Th 12:00.

BC 1001y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Part I.

Same as BC 1001x, but given in the Spring Term.—M. Shulman.

Limited enrollment. Work in the language laboratory is required.

BC 3005x, BC 3006y. Advanced Oral German and Composition.

Practice to develop fluency in speaking and proficiency in writing. Autumn Term: Short readings as point of departure for discussions; weekly short papers; emphasis on idiomatic usage and syntactical structures. Spring Term: Advanced exercises in syntax and style; discussions and oral reports; short papers and essays; vocabulary building through emphasis on topical variety.—G. Sakrawa and R. Ayre.

3 points. M W F 12:00.

German

BC 1007x. Elementary German: Intensive Reading.

Comprehension of written German. Extensive reading of simple expository texts, fundamental vocabulary, and the essentials of grammar and syntax.—M. Shulman.

No previous knowledge of German is required. This course is not open to students who have completed German BC 1001-BC 1002.

3 points. M W F 12:00.

BC 1208y. Intermediate German: Intensive Reading.

Comprehension of written German. Reading of materials in areas of specialization in the humanities, social sciences, and the natural sciences; attention is given to the structural forms encountered when translating German scholarly texts.—M. Shulman.

Prerequisite: BC 1007 or the equivalent. 3 points. M W F 12:00.

LITERATURE COURSES

The literature courses listed below are conducted in German. For non-majors they will count toward the distribution requirement. Examinations are written in English. Papers may be written in German or English.

For courses conducted in English, see GERMAN LITERATURE IN TRANSLATION, BC 3050, BC 3055 and BC 3056.

BC 3011x. Introduction to German Literature and Civilization.

Survey of German literature and civilization from the Age of the Enlightenment to the twentieth century. Readings are selected from literary works representative of each period, and include chapters of a brief history of German and Austrian culture and civilization.—B. Bradley.

Prerequisite: BC 1204 or the equivalent. 3 points. M W F 11:00. (II)

BC 3014y. German Literature around the Turn of the Twentieth Century.

One of the richest and most diversified periods in the history of German literature: plays, prose writings, and poems by Hauptmann, Hofmannsthal, Kaiser, Hesse, Mann, Rilke, and Kafka.—B. Bradley.

Prerequisite: BC 1204 or the equivalent. Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84. 3 points. M W 11:00. (II)

BC 3015x. Goethe.

Major works of Goethe in the context of his life and his times: Werther, Iphigenie, Tasso, Wahlverwandtschaften and Faust I.—G. Sakrawa.

Prerequisite: BC 1204 or the equivalent. Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84. 3 points. (II)

BC 3016y. The Romantic Movement in Germany 1790-1820.

Theory of Romantic Poetry as proposed by the Schlegel brothers; circles of Jena, Berlin and Heidelberg; prominent women of the time. Movement's impact on scholarship and translation, and on similar movements abroad. Poetic works by Tieck, Novalis, Holderlin, Kleist, Hoffmann, and Eichendorff.—G. Sakrawa.

Prerequisite: BC 1204 or the equivalent. Offered every three years. Not offered in 1983-84. 3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (II)

BC 3018x. Schiller's Dramas.

Schiller's dramas: his commitment to social and ethical questions, and his thought on the "aesthetic education of man."—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: BC 1204 or the equivalent. Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84. 3 points. (II)

BC 3025y. German Prose and Drama from Büchner to Nietzsche.

Post-Romantic period of German literature in the nineteenth century: dramas by Büchner, Hebbel, Grillparzer, and Wagner; prose fiction by Heine, Keller, Stifter, and Storm; selections from the writings of Schopenhauer and Nietzsche.—G. Sakrawa.

Prerequisite: BC 1204 or the equivalent. Offered every three years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points. (II)

BC 3026y. Modern German Theater.

Brecht and well-known playwrights of the post-war period: Kipphardt, Frisch, Weiss, Plenzdorf, and Hacks. The plays are approached from the perspective of drama as performed on the stage in direct contact with a public audience, and the stage as a forum used to raise consciousness among the public.—B. Bradley.

Prerequisite: BC 1204 or the equivalent. Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1984-85. 3 points. (II)

BC 3028x. Contemporary German Prose Fiction.

Selected works by post-war novelists: Böll, Andersch, Frisch, Grass, Wolf, and Handke. Analyses and discussions concentrate on predominant themes, on differences in narrative techniques, and on the effectiveness of fictional writings in exploring or exposing problems of individual and general concern.—B. Bradley.

Prerequisite: BC 1204 or the equivalent. Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84.
 3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (II)

BC 3036x. Goethe's Faust.

Intensive study of Goethe's Faust, Part I and II.—G. Sakrawa.

Health and Society is an interdisciplinary program created to address historical and contemporary issues in the field of health care from health science, social science, and humanistic perspectives. The Program has three objectives: to introduce the logical processes for establishing causes in the health sciences, to identify the limits of scientific knowledge in the health sciences, and to develop decision-making skills under conditions of scientific uncertainty. The Program applies this approach to undergraduate education by developing an interdisciplinary curriculum that focuses upon the distinction between and interconnection of scientific fact and value judgments.

Acquiring the substantive background and the methodological skills necessary to address problems in areas which do not adhere to traditional academic disciplines will prepare students for a variety of post-graduate options: graduate study in the social science or humanities, professional study in medicine and allied health areas, and careers in public health and health administration. Equally important, the Health and Society Program seeks to satisfy the intellectual needs of students not planning graduate study, but concerned about the social context of health and health care.

Health and Society

The annual Samuel R. Milbank Lecture in Health and Society was established in 1980 as a forum for extending the Program's thematic objectives beyond the classroom to the entire Barnard community. A distinguished scholar is invited to speak on the interaction of scientific knowledge and humanistic values in the health sciences.

Students interested in this minor should consult with the Health & Society Program as early as possible in their academic program. Those who wish to coordinate the Health and Society minor with work in their major should seek the advice and approval of both departments. Such coordination with the major is not necessary to fulfill the above requirements for the minor in Health and Society.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BC 1001y. Fact and Value in the Health Sciences.

A historical and cultural overview of medicine and public health; the societal context of health and health care. Problems defining and assessing states of well-being and illness, the logic of scientific inquiry in the health sciences, fundamental concepts of public health biology, bases of clinical decision-making, values and value conflicts in clinical decision-making, and the imperatives of decision-making under conditions of scientific and clinical uncertainty.—N. Rango.

Background in science not required. Offered in alternate years. Offered in 1983-84.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (V)

BC 1004y. Health, Illness, and the Social Environment.

Examination of how the social environment influences an individual's state of health. Emphasis on two kinds of stress: social and illness-induced, the former referring to stressful life experiences, the latter to the psychological and emotional consequences of illness. Special attention to the doctor-patient relationship in the management of stress.—N. Rango.

3 points. Not offered in 1983-84. (V)

BC 1006x. Social Gerontology.

The later stages of the human life cycle and current policies and programs for the aged: demographic changes in American society; the biological, clinical, social, psychological, and economic aspects of the aging process; problems affecting the aged; and the socially organized response to the needs of the elderly. Field activities at long-term care institutions and multi-service centers.—N. Rango with A. Monk, Brookdale Institute.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (V)

Health and Society

BC 1007x. History of Mental Illness and Its Treatment.

The history of psychiatric thought and treatment and the changing role of the mentally ill in Western societies. Clinical and epidemiological aspects of mental disorders, and diagnostic problems and ethical issues in psychiatric treatment. The effect of social and economic change on the prevalence, theory, and treatment of mental disorders.—R. Neugebauer.

Recommended: Health and Society 1.

3 points. M W 4:10-5:25. (V)

BC 1008y. Political Economy of Health Care.

Relation of medicine and society with particular reference to the organizational structure of the medical sector. Distribution of economic resources and changing political alignments; need for health reform; critical review of key proposals for new services. The interrelationship of economic, professional, and social factors in the creation and implementation of health policy.—E. Ginzberg.

Prerequisite: One year's work in social science.

Enrollment limited to 35 upperclassmen. Permission of the instructor required for sophomores.

3 points. Tu 11:00-1:00. (V)

BC 1010y. The Disabled in Contemporary Society.

The impact of disability on the individual, the family, and the institutions of contemporary American society. The relationship of disability to other economic, political, and ethical issues.

Texts include autobiographical and literary accounts as well as clinical, psychological, social science, legal, and public policy sources.—A. Asch.

3 points. M W 4:10-5:25. (V)

BC 3011x. Institutionalization: Individual, Family, and Professional Perspectives.

Long-term institutionalization analyzed from three perspectives: individual patient, family, and professional. Conflicts of interest and ethical issues inherent in the decision to institutionalize or deinstitutionalize. Contemporary American institutions, including mental hospitals, home for emotionally disturbed children, homes for the retarded, nursing homes, and hospices.—N. Rango.

Prerequisite: BC 1001 or BC 1004. Enrollment limited to 15 students. Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1983-84.

4 points. (V)

BC 3013x. Women, Health, and Health Care.

Changing perspectives of women in American society and the consequences of these changes for public policy, health education, and research priorities. Readings from clinical, social science, historical and psychological sources provide a context for study of the evolving relationship between women and the medical sector.—T. Rogers.

Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 16 upperclassmen.

History, as knowledge of the past, touches all aspects of human experience. Historians' accounts of the past form a branch of literature in which factual statements can be verified in primary sources. History is studied to improve understanding of man in society—his failures and his achievements—and to acquire a sense of the relevance of the past to the present.

There are no prerequisites to or language requirements for Barnard History courses other than those indicated in individual course descriptions. No special permission is necessary for Barnard College students to register for lecture courses listed in this catalogue. Full course descriptions of Columbia College lecture courses will be found in the Columbia College catalogue. Written permission of the instructor is required for those wishing admittance to all seminars. Application forms for admission to Columbia seminars must be picked up from the Columbia department office, 523 Fayerweather, and submitted to the instructor. Meeting arrangements and structure of each seminar will be announced by the instructor at the beginning of the course.

A student with a score of 5 in the Advanced Placement Examination will receive credit for one history course.

History

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students who intend to major in history are urged to consult an adviser in the department at the beginning of the sophomore year in order to plan their academic programs for the remaining three years in college.

The major in History requires a minimum of eleven courses distributed as follows:

- 1) At least six courses in an area of concentration. Two of the six courses must be the senior research seminar in which the student will write a senior essay. While history majors usually concentrate on European or American history, they may, upon approval of the chairman, concentrate in any field of particular interest, such as ancient, medieval, Jewish, Oriental, African, cultural, or urban history.
- 2) At least three history courses outside the field of concentration.
- 3) At least two seminars. These may be distributed among any of the nine courses the student takes other than the senior seminar.

Two courses of the eleven may be taken in other departments provided that such courses are closely related to the student's field of concentration, and provided that she obtains the written permission of the major adviser.

Certain graduate courses, "G" courses, given at Columbia University are open to qualified majors with the consent of the chairman of the Barnard department and of the instructor. A description of these courses will be found in the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for a minor in history, four in a concentration, and one outside the concentration. One of the five must be a seminar.

The courses in the Italian Department are designed to develop proficiency in language skills and to present the literary and cultural traditions of Italy.

Students who intend to satisfy the foreign language requirement in Italian must take a placement examination before registration. This examination tests the student's knowledge of grammar, ability to comprehend written and spoken Italian, and ability in free composition. Students receiving a sufficiently high grade will automatically fulfill the requirement. Others may do so by completing V1301-V1302 plus V3333-V3334 or another full-year literature course given in Italian; or by completing V1201-V1202.

An important resource for the department is the Casa Italiana with the Paterno Library. The Italian Cultural Club offers social events and films. Two lecture series are funded by the Ungaretti Memorial Fund and Da Ponte Fund.

The department offers a summer school in Florence using the facilities of Syracuse University.

Graduate courses are open to qualified students upon consultation with the chairman.

Italian Studies

The program aims to encourage the interest of students in contemporary Europe by focusing on Italy, both for its own sake and as a kind of test-case for the study of a rapidly changing European society. For details on the program, see page 139, under Foreign Area Studies.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major in Italian should plan her program of study with the chairman of the department as early as possible. The following courses are required unless advanced standing is attained by departmental achievement test or by the Advanced Placement examination.

Italian V 1101-V 1102	Elementary Full-Year Course
Italian V 1201-V 1202	Intermediate Course
or
Italian V 1301-V 1302	Comprehensive Elementary and Intermediate Course (with the permission of the instructor)

Italian

At least twelve courses are required for the major:

Italian V 3333-V 3334	Introduction to Italian Literature
Italian V 3335-V 3336	Italian Written and Oral Style
Italian V 3993-V 3994	Seminar in Italian Literature and a minimum of 8 courses in Italian numbered above V 1302.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minimum of five courses are required for the minor to be selected from courses including and numbered above V 3333-V 3334.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

V 1101x-V 1102y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Integral course for beginners with intensive oral-aural drill; reading, translation, conversation. No credit is given for V 1101 until V 1102 has been completed.—Staff.

Students must sign up for sections of this course in Room 610 Casa Italiana during the pre-registration period, Aug. 29-Sept. 2. Work in the language laboratory for one hour per week is optional.

The study of linguistics develops understanding of the nature of language. The major is designed to provide the student with a broad appreciation of the fundamental problems of language analysis, some training in the techniques of linguistics research, as well as insight into the interrelations of linguistics with the other social and communication sciences, the humanities, and philosophy and mathematics.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Majors in Linguistics may choose among four major course programs: the general major, Language Sciences, Linguistics and Literature, and Anthropological Linguistics. Each program consists of a minimum of eleven courses, including the following:

Linguistics V 1101	Introduction to Linguistics
Linguistics W 4108	Principles of Historical Linguistics
Linguistics W 4204	Introduction to Phonology
Linguistics W 4500	Generative Syntax
Linguistics V 3901	Seminar in Linguistics

Students are also encouraged to take Philosophy V 3415 Formal Logic, as well as appropriate courses in ancient and modern languages.

Students enrolled in the general major program are required to take six further courses.

The Language Sciences, Linguistics and Literature, and Anthropological Linguistics major programs offer courses of study relating the contemporary study of language to other closely related fields in the sciences, social sciences and humanities.

LANGUAGE SCIENCES

The study of language in its philosophical, psychological and computational setting. The major consists of a minimum of six of the following courses, of which at least two must be in linguistics:

Linguistics W 4502 (Generative Phonology), Linguistics W 4600 (Transformational Grammar), Linguistics W 4602 (Generative Issues in Semantics), Linguistics W 4702 (Linguistic Theories as Psychological Theories), Psychology BC 3160 (Cognitive Psychology), Psychology BC 3164 (Language and Perception), Psychology W 1501 (Communication Behavior: the Psychology and Structure of Language), Psychology W 3180 (Language and Communication), Philosophy V 3483 (Theory of Meaning), Computer Science W 3261 (Computability and Formal Languages), Computer Science W 4705 (Natural Language Processing).

Other appropriate courses may be substituted upon permission of the student's adviser.

Linguistics

LINGUISTICS AND LITERATURE

The role of linguistics in the analysis of literary language in the widest sense: prized types of language in literate and pre-literate societies (e.g. belles lettres and folklore); translation; versification; registers (e.g. journalese, legal language). The major consists of at least six courses to be selected in consultation with the adviser, drawn from the following categories:

1. Linguistics courses, V3410, V3412, V3414; also Columbia courses subject to availability, e.g. W4004 (Linguistics and the Verbal Arts).
2. Language and literature courses, to be chosen in consultation with faculty members of the language and literature departments.
3. Other courses relevant to the major, for example, Anthropology V3404 (Ethnolinguistics), Philosophy V3850 (Concept of Literature).

ANTHROPOLOGICAL LINGUISTICS

The study of language in culture and society. The major consists of at least six courses, to include Anthropology V3033 (Sociolinguistics), Anthropology V3034 (Ethnolinguistics), and four other relevant courses to be selected in consultation with the adviser; e.g. Anthropology V3020 (Men's and Women's Speech), Anthropology V3044 (Symbolism), Linguistics V3414 (Linguistics and the Structure of Texts), Psychology W1501 (Communication Behavior: the Psychology and Structure of Language).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Students minoring in Linguistics must take five courses in the department, including V1101.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

V 1101x, V1101y. Introduction to Linguistics. Nature of language; characteristics of phonological and grammatical systems and the lexicon; evolution of language; role of linguistics in related disciplines; modern techniques of linguistic analysis.—Staff.

Enrollment limited to ca. 100 students per section. Advance sign-up required.

The Mathematics Department offers a wide range of courses, which fall into four groups: non-credit courses for students who lack a firm grasp of basics in mathematics, service courses for students who need to learn the tools of mathematics for applications to other areas, courses in the majors' program in pure mathematics (including a regular track and an honors track), and courses in the majors' program in applied mathematics. Courses in mathematical statistics are also offered, but a student must petition to major in that branch of the field (see page 258).

Students interested in Computing Science should consult the program listing of that department, page 104.

General Information

The non-credit offering is V 0077, Pre-Calculus.

V 1001-V 1002, Introduction to Basic Concepts of Mathematics, is a year-long course which focuses on historical and cultural aspects of mathematics. Its content varies from year to year. Course not offered in 1983-84.

The systematic study of college mathematics begins with Calculus, which is taught at a number of levels. In the mainstream sequence (Calculus I-IV), there are three levels, A, B, and C. The A-sequence is a standard course in differential and integral calculus, intended primarily for students who need calculus for its applications. The B-sequence covers substantially the same material as A, but places more stress on theoretical foundations and moves at a more rapid pace. The 4-semester C-sequence covers the material in Calculus I-IV and also the material in Introduction to Modern Analysis W 4061-W 4062. Mathematics majors who elect this option and receive an average grade of B or better in the 4-semester sequence will be permitted to replace W 4061-W 4062 with an elective course. Mathematics majors are required to take the B- or C-levels. A fourth sequence on the first year level, IE-IIE, is designed for prospective economics majors.

Mathematics

For non-mathematics majors, an alternative to Calculus IV in the second year is Mathematics V 1220, Theory of Equations with Applications. At the opposite end of the spectrum is V 1100, Brief Calculus, a one-term survey of the contents of IA-IIA.

Placement in the proper term (I, II, III) and level (A, B, C) is guided by the following criteria. Students who have studied calculus in high school and have passed the Advanced Placement Test (AB level) with a grade of 4 or 5 are awarded 3 points credit and may begin with Calculus IIA or Calculus IIB, or with Calculus IC and Modern Analysis if they have passed the qualifying examination for that course. However, AP credit will be rescinded if they begin with Calculus IA or IB. Those who have received a grade of 3 will be awarded 3 points credit only if they take and pass Calculus IIA or IIB. Students who have studied calculus in high school and have passed the Advanced Placement Test (BC level) with a grade of 4 or 5 are awarded 6 points credit and may begin with Calculus IIIA or Calculus IIIB (Section II, for freshmen only), or with Calculus IC if they have passed the qualifying examination for that course. Those who have received a grade of 3 will be awarded 6 points credit only if they take and pass Calculus IIIA or IIIB, and will be awarded 3 points credit if, instead, they take and pass Calculus IIA or IIB.

CEEB-Placement exam policies: Students who receive scores under 550 in the CEEB Mathematics Achievement Test, Level I or II, are required to take the departmental placement exam before they may be admitted to any of the department's offerings. Students who do not pass this examination must take non-credit V 0077 in order to be allowed to register for Calculus. The placement exam is administered during the Autumn and Spring registration period.

Those who wish to take Calculus and Modern Analysis IC must obtain tentative permission from one of the departmental advisers during Freshman orientation week. Final placements will be decided on the basis of an examination which is given after the first one or two class meetings. Students who place tentatively, but do not pass the examination, will be able to transfer to an appropriate A or B level class at that time.

Students who have special placement problems should go to Room 609 Mathematics to arrange an appointment with a faculty member or the Chairman, either during Freshman week or during the semester.

The Help Room on the 6th floor of the Mathematics Building is open during the day, Monday through Friday, for students seeking individual help and counseling from the instructors and teaching assistants in the A-sequence.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

In the second half of the sophomore year or earlier, prospective majors should register with the departmental assistant (602 Mathematics) to be assigned to a departmental adviser. The major programs in both pure and applied mathematics are appropriate for students who plan to continue their training in graduate school.

Fourteen courses are required for the major in mathematics, distributed as follows according to two tracks:

Pure Mathematics

V 1103-V 1104, V 1203-V 1204
or
V 1107-V 1108, V 1207-V 1208

V 3040-V 3041
V 3951 or V 3952

Calculus IB, IIB, IIIB and IVB

Calculus and Modern Analysis IC-IVC
Introduction to Modern Analysis
Introduction to Modern Algebra
Undergraduate Seminars in Mathematics and five courses in any combination of mathematics and cognate courses, such as physics, chemistry, astronomy, computing science, etc., to be approved by the adviser.

Mathematics

Students who elect to take Calculus and Modern Analysis IC-IVC should see the discussion under “General Information” on page 184.

Stat W 4105

Computing Science W 4241

Eng-Math E 4901-E 4902

Eng-Math E 4903-E 4904

Calculus IB, IIB, IIIB, and IVB

Linear Algebra and Differential Equations

Ordinary Differential Equations

Linear Algebra

Partial Differential Equations

Partial Differential Equations

Complex Variables

Introduction to Modern Analysis

Probability

Numerical Analysis

Seminar in Applied Mathematics (one point each)

Seminar in Applied Mathematics (4 points each)

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Six courses are required for the minor, consisting of courses numbered 1200 or above from the departmental offerings, subject to the approval of the chairman.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

V 0077x, V 0077y. Pre-Calculus.

For students who wish to study calculus but do not have a firm enough grasp of high school mathematics. Topics studied: functions, composite functions, rates of growth, trigonometry, inverse functions, exponents and logarithms, rates of change.—Staff.

Graded on a pass-fail basis.

This course does not carry credit toward the bachelor's degree.

3 points, for tuition charges.

Section I M W F 1:10-2:00.

Section II M W F 4:10-5:00.

Section III Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Section IV M W 7:10-8:25.

V 1001x-V 1002y. Introduction to Basic Concepts of Mathematics.

Terminal course for students not intending to continue the study of mathematics. A glimpse into the world of mathematics and its applications. Although the material is elementary, it is approached from a thoroughly contemporary scientific point of view.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: High school mathematics through intermediate algebra or Mathematics V 0070 or its equivalent.

V 1001 is prerequisite for V 1002.

3 points. Not offered in 1983-84. (VI)

V1007x, V 1007y. Algebra for the Social Sciences.

Linear and quadratic equations, systems of linear equations, matrices, linear programming, the simplex method, difference equations; applications to economics and finance.

—x: E. Kolchin, y: H. Bass.

Prerequisite: High school algebra or V 0070.

Limited to 40 students.

3 points. x: Tu Th 4:10-5:25,

y: Tu Th 1:10-2:25. (VI)

V 1100x. Brief Calculus.

Covers in a single semester the main ideas of differential and integral calculus, necessarily less extensively than V 1101-V 1102 or V 1103-V 1104. Terminal calculus course. Warning: students who take this course and then wish to continue in calculus must first take V 1101 (or V 1103) without credit. They will be permitted to register for V 1102 (or V 1104) only upon receiving a passing grade in V 1101 (or V 1103). Students who anticipate further studies in the sciences or mathematically-oriented social sciences are strongly advised to consider V 1101-V 1102 or V 1103-V 1104 rather than V 1100.—E. Kolchin.

Prerequisite: High school mathematics through trigonometry or Mathematics V 0077.

3 points.

Tu Th 2:40-3:55, plus recitation either M 12:00 or W 8:00 a.m. (VI)

V 1101x, V 1101y. Calculus IA.

Functions, limits, derivatives; examples; introduction to integrals. Help-Room on the 6th floor of Mathematics Building is open to students seeking individual help and counseling by instructors and teaching assistants during the day, Monday to Friday.—H. Jacquet and staff.
Prerequisite: a firm grasp of high school mathematics through trigonometry, or Mathematics V 0077 or the equivalent.

3 points.

Section I M W F 10:00.

Section II M W F 11:00.

Section III x: M W 1:10-2:25.
y: M W 4:10-5:25.

Section IV x: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.
y: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Recitation: One hour chosen by the student during the first week of classes from fixed schedule. (VI)

V 1102x, V 1102y. Calculus IIA.

Methods of integration; applications of the integral; Taylor's Theorem; infinite series.—H. Jacquet and staff.

Prerequisite: Course V 1101 or the equivalent.
3 points.

Section I M W F 10:00.

Section II M W F 11:00.

Section III x: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.
y: M W 1:10-2:25.

Section IV y: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Recitation: One hour chosen by the student during the first week of classes from a fixed schedule. (VI)

V 1103x. Calculus IB.

Same topics as Calculus IA, with greater emphasis on underlying theory.—D. Blasius and R. Klotz.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

Recitation: Tu or Th 8:00 or 12:00. (VI)

V 1104x, V 1104y. Calculus IIB.

Same topics as Calculus IIA, with greater emphasis on underlying theory.—x: N. Sheperd-Barron. y: D. Blasius and R. Klotz.

Prerequisite: Course V 1103 or the equivalent.
3 points. M W F 11:00.

Recitation: Tu or Th 8:00 or 12:00. (VI)

V 1107x, V 1108y. Calculus and Modern Analysis IC-IIIC.

For further information see the discussion under "General Information," page 184.—x: C. Callias; y: J. Morgan.

Entrance by examination or by permission of the instructor.

3 points. M W F 11:00. (VI)

V 1111x, V 1112y. Calculus for Economics.

The level of this course is the same as that of Mathematics V 1101, V 1102, but the syllabus is modified to meet the special needs of economics students. x: Derivatives, transcendental functions, curve-sketching, optimization problems in one variable, integrals; y: Partial derivatives, notions from linear algebra implicit functions, optimization problems in several variables, complex numbers, linear differential and difference equations with constant coefficients.—L. Smith.

Prerequisite: Same as for V 1101-V 1102.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

Recitation: Tu 12:00 or Th 8:00. (VI)

V 1201x, V 1201y. Calculus IIIA.

Vectors in dimensions 2 and 3; determinants of order 2 and 3; vector valued functions and their derivatives; curves; velocity and acceleration; functions of several variables; partial derivatives; gradients; differentials; surfaces; tangent planes, extrema; double and triple integrals; applications.—Instructors to be announced.

Prerequisite: Course V 1102 or the equivalent.
3 points.

Section I x: Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

y: M W F 10:00-10:50.

Section II x: Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

y: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Recitation: Ix: M or W 8:00 or 12:00;

IIx: Tu 2:40-3:55, or
Th 4:10-5:25.

Iy: Tu 12:00 or Th 8:00.

2y: Tu 7:40-8:55 p.m. or

Th 4:10-5:25. (VI)

V 1202x, V 1202y. Calculus IVA.

Vectors in higher dimensions; matrices; determinants; transformations, Jacobians; implicit functions; Lagrange multipliers; change of variables; Taylor formulae in several variables; vector fields; line integrals; divergence and curl; surface integrals.—Instructors to be announced.

Prerequisite: Course V 1201 or the equivalent.
3 points.

x: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Section Iy Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

Section Ily Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

Recitation: x: Tu 7:40-8:55 p.m. or
Th 4:10-5:25.

Iy: M or W 8:00 or 12:00;

Ily: Tu 2:40-3:55, or

Th 4:10-5:25. (VI)

Mathematics

V 1203x, V 1203y. Calculus IIIB.

Same topics as Course V 1201, with greater emphasis on the underlying theory.—Instructors to be announced.

Prerequisite: For Sections Ix or y, Course V 1104. For Section IIx (Freshmen only) see statement under "General Information."

3 points.

Section Ix Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

Section IIx M W F 11:00. (Freshmen only)

Section Iy M W F 11:00.

Recitation: Ix: M or W 8:00 or 12:00;

IIx (Freshmen only): Tu

Iy: Tu or Th 8:00 or 12:00. (VI)

V 1204x, V 1204y. Calculus IVB.

Same topics as Course V 1202, with greater emphasis on underlying theory.—1x: K. Vogtmann; 1y: T. Jorgensen; 2y: H. Hiller.

Prerequisite: Course V 1203.

3 points.

Section Ix M W F 11:00.

Section Iy Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

Section IIy M W F 11:00 (Freshmen only).

Recitation: Ix: Tu or Th 8:00 or 12:00.

Iy: M or W 8:00 or 12:00; IIy:

(Freshmen only): Tu or Th 8:00
or 12:00. (VI)

V 1207x, V 1208y. Calculus and Modern Analysis III C-IVC.

Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Courses V 1107-V 1108. Course V 1207 is the prerequisite for V 1208.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (VI)

V 1220y. Theory of Equations with Applications.

Topics in abstract algebra extensively used in science and engineering; basic notions of set theory; induction; groups, rings, fields; rings of integers and of polynomials; finite abelian groups; finite rings and fields: elementary combinatorics; difference equations.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: One year of calculus.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (VI)

V 2040x. Number Theory.

Congruences, quadratic residues, Gaussian sums; number-theoretic functions; distribution of primes; algebraic and transcendental numbers.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus II.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25. (VI)

V 3005x, V 3006y. Advanced Calculus for Science Majors.

This course completes the basic calculus sequence and supplies essential groundwork for the applications of mathematics to the physical sciences and engineering. Elements of linear algebra; power series; Taylor expansions; chain rule; change of variables in multiple integrals; line and surface integrals; Green's and Stokes' theorem; implicit function theorem; differentiation of series and integrals; orthogonal expansions; Fourier series, Legendre polynomials, Bessel functions; complex analysis; Cauchy-Riemann equations, Cauchy theorem; residue theorem with applications to contour integrations.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus IV.

Either term may be taken separately.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (VI)

V 3007y. Complex Variables.

Elementary course in functions of a complex variable; complex numbers, analytic functions, Cauchy-Riemann equations; Cauchy integral theorem, Taylor and Laurent series, poles and essential singularities, conformal mapping.—K. Vogtmann.

Prerequisite: Calculus IV.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (VI)

V 3010y. Fundamental Concepts of Mathematics.

Groundwork on which almost all modern mathematics rests: sets, mappings, relations, ordered sets, well-ordering, natural numbers, cardinal numbers, ordinal numbers, choice functions, Zorn's lemma, induction, real and complex numbers.—M. Fourman.

Prerequisite: Calculus IV and at least one 3000-level course.

3 points. M W F 9:00. (VI)

V 3027x. Ordinary Differential Equations.

Equations of order one; linear equations series solutions at regular and singular points; boundary value problems; selected applications.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus III or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 6:10-7:25. (VI)

V 3028y. Partial Differential Equations.

Introduction to partial differential equations; first-order equations; linear second-order equations; separation of variables, solution by series expansions; boundary value problems.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Course V 3027 or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 6:10-7:25. (VI)

V 3029x-V3030y. Linear Algebra and Differential Equations.

Integrated course in linear algebra and ordinary differential equations, the latter serving as the major source of motivation for and applications of the former; content of V 3027 and V 3202 with applications to population biology, economics, physics, chemistry, electrical circuits, and manifold theory.—Instructor to be announced.

The second term of this course may not be taken without the first.

Prerequisite: Calculus III or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25. (VI)

V 3040x, V 3041y. Introduction to Modern Algebra.

The second term of this course may not be taken without the first. Groups, homomorphisms, ring ideals, fields, polynomials, and field extensions. Galois theory.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus IV.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25. (VI)

W 4061x, W 4062y. Introduction to Modern Analysis.

The second term of this course may not be taken without the first. Real numbers, metric spaces, elements of general topology. Continuous and differentiable functions. Implicit functions. Integration; change of variables. Function spaces. Further topics chosen by the instructor.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus IV or the equivalent.

3 points. M W 4:10-5:25. (VI)

V 3202x. Linear Algebra.

Vector spaces, linear transformations, matrices, quadratic and hermitian forms, reduction to canonical forms.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus II or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25. (VI)

V 3375y. Geometric Topology.

The fundamental group of a topological space; Seifert-Van Kampen theorem, covering spaces, classification of 2-manifolds, simplicial homology.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Courses V 3040 and W 4061 or their equivalents. This course is intended primarily for mathematics majors.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (VI)

V 3386x. Differential Geometry.

Local and global differential geometry of submanifolds of Euclidean 3-space; Frenet formulas for curves; various types of curvatures for curves and surfaces and their relations; Gauss-Bonnet theorem.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus IV or the equivalent.

Primarily for majors in Mathematics.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (VI)

V 3901x, V 3902y. Supervised Readings in Mathematics.

Guided reading and study in mathematics. A student who wishes to undertake individual study under this program must present a specific project to a member of the staff and secure his or her willingness to act as sponsor. Sponsorship is limited to full-time instructors listed on the staff list. Written reports and periodic conferences will be required.—Staff.

Permission of the chairman and of the staff member who agrees to act as sponsor are required. The written permission must be deposited with Ms. Georgiadis, Room 602 Mathematics Building, before registration is completed.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

V 3951x, V 3952y. Undergraduate Seminars in Mathematics.

Subject matter announced at the start of registration and is different in each section. Each student prepares talks, to be given to the seminar, under the supervision of a faculty member or senior teaching fellow.—x: J. Morgan, y: Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Two years of calculus and at least one year of additional mathematics courses, and the permission of the department chairman. 3 points.

Consult 6th floor bulletin board, Mathematics Building, for organizational meeting date and time, during registration period.

GRADUATE COURSES

Certain graduate courses given in the University are open to qualified majors with the consent of the major adviser. These courses are described in the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

Medieval and Renaissance Studies

Office: 206 Milbank Hall

Telephone: 280-5418, 5417

This program is supervised by the Committee on Medieval and Renaissance Studies:

Associate Professor of Classics

Lydia Lenaghan

Professor of Italian

Maristella Lorch (Chairman)

Professors of English

Ruth Kivette, Anne Prescott

Professor of French

Tatiana Greene

Professor of History

Suzanne Wemple (Adviser)

Professor of Music

Hubert Doris

Associate Professor of Spanish

Marcia Welles

Associate Professor of Art History

Jane Rosenthal

Assistant Professor of Spanish

Helene de Aguilar

Lecturer in German

Regina Ayre

This program enables undergraduates to acquire a thorough knowledge of the most important aspects of the Medieval and Renaissance civilizations, and to gain an awareness of the interdependence of historical and cultural developments.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Major programs are established individually with a concentration in one of the disciplines: art history, history, one of the literatures, philosophy, romance philology, music, or religion. A sequence of five courses to be taken in the field of concentration has been developed by the relevant department.

A minimum of twelve courses are required for the major in Medieval and Renaissance Studies, distributed as follows:

- 5 courses in the area of concentration;
- 2 history courses;
- 3 Medieval and Renaissance Studies courses;
- 2 electives to be chosen in consultation with the adviser.

Students are required to write a senior essay, either in a Medieval and Renaissance Studies course or in a senior level seminar in the discipline of their concentration.

Language Requirements

Medieval Studies. A reading knowledge of one Romance or Germanic language is required. In special cases students may petition for another language. Students are expected to acquire a reading knowledge of Medieval Latin before graduation. (See Latin BC3033, Medieval Literature.)

Medieval and Renaissance Studies

Renaissance Studies. A reading knowledge of two languages, preferably Latin and Italian, must be acquired before graduation.

Mimeographed lists of concentration courses are available from the Program Adviser, 413 Lehman Hall.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

There is no minor in Medieval and Renaissance Studies.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

History-Italian V 3197x. Dante's World.

M. Lorch and S. Wemple with participation of H. Davis and E. Cousins.

3 points.

Tu 4:10-6:00. Third hour to be arranged. (IV)

BC 3080x. Myth and History: The Courts.

Exploration through history and fiction of the origins and dimensions of the court of Este in Ferrara and the birth and development of Renaissance theater, chivalric and epic poetry.—M. Lorch and R. Pettinelli.

4 points. Th 4:10-6:00. (III)

BC 3081x. Italian Renaissance: Courts and the Theater.

Relation of the textual to the dramatic, musical, choreographic and visual elements and the social nature of the encounter between the public and the actors and performers.—H. Doris and M. Lorch.

Offered every three years. Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (III)

BC 3082y. Iconography and Allegory.

Central forms and procedures of medieval and Renaissance iconography and allegory; movement of signs, symbols and narratives from religion and philosophy into literature.—E. Cousins and B. Ulanov.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (III)

English W 4791y. Medieval Drama: Dramatics and Liturgy. Introductory Seminar.

Not offered in 1983-84.

3 points. (III)

Italian V 3469y. Renaissance Humanism: Its Sources, Forms and Legacy. Advanced Seminar.

Humanistic literature in Europe (1400-1500); forms of humanistic literature, the humanist concern with Christianity as religion, humanism and education, politics and the visual arts.—M. Lorch with A. Rabil, and R. Galeffi. 3 points. Tu 4:00-6:00. Third hour to be arranged.

BC 3086y. Women in the Middle Ages: Ideals and Reality.

Position of women in the medieval social structure and as reflected in the image of women in literature and art. Women's contributions to art and literature and some common medieval stereotypes examined on the basis of primary evidence, letters, manuals, documents, literary texts, and works of art.—J. Rosenthal and S. Wemple.

Not offered in 1983-84.

4 points. (III)

BC 3090y. Senior Seminar.

Texts central to the continuity and reappraisal of medieval and Renaissance traditions. Readings linked to the student's experience in various fields provide a context for the preparation of a senior thesis.—Members of the Committee.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

Latin BC 3033. Medieval Literature.

L. Lenaghan.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (II)

English BC 3197x. Myth and History at the Court of Elizabeth I.

A. Prescott.

4 points. Not offered in 1983-84.

¹Absent on leave, Autumn Term.

The offerings of the department are designed to encourage the study of music as an art and a craft within the framework of the liberal arts. The courses in the Theory sequence are intended to develop an understanding of the way Western music has developed from the Renaissance to the present. These courses prepare the student practically and analytically for the courses in the History sequence. The History sequence covers the period from the Middle Ages to the mid-twentieth century, emphasizing not only the purely historical development of music, but also its place as an art in society.

The department provides practice rooms at nominal charge. Preference in assigning hours is given in order of application to music majors and those enrolled in courses given by the department. Application for practice time should be made at the Office of Buildings and Grounds, Milbank Hall, during registration and the first week of classes by music majors, and by all others during the week following.

Books, scores, and records are available at the Barnard College Library. The Columbia University Music Library contains an extensive collection of music materials for reference, research and circulation. In addition, phonographs with a large collection of recordings are also available for use by students registered in music courses other than Music BC 1001-BC 1002, An Introduction to Music.

Students contemplating a career in performance or composition should consult the announcement for the Program in the Arts, pages 82.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The music major is a demanding one, but it is hoped that the student will find time to follow special courses of particular interest from among those presented in the Literature and History section of the departmental offering.

A total of 14 courses is required for the major:

V 2100-V 2101, V 2300-V 2301, V 2303, V 2305	Theory I, II, III, IV, V, and VI
V 3123, V 3124, V 3125, V 3126 V 3179-V 3180	History I, II, III, and IV Seminar: Historical and Analytical Studies in the Literature of Music
V 3373-V 3374	Orchestration, Conducting, and Score Reading

A student intending to major in music should start with V 2100 and V 3123 as early as possible. BC 1001-BC 1002, though prerequisite for more advanced literature courses, is not required of music majors, since it covers the same kind of materials in greater depth in the courses already required of them. Applied music (a maximum of two courses) may be counted toward the degree, but is not required.

Students planning to do graduate work in theory or ethnomusicology must know at least two foreign languages, including German and French. Those planning graduate work in historical musicology must know Latin, and German or French. Courses in art history, history, philosophy, literature, and foreign languages are recommended for their relationship with musical studies, and should be elected after consultation with the department.

Students are advised to consult the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences for those courses open to seniors and others with advanced training.

Students planning to major in music will be expected to file with the department certificates stating that they have passed an examination in elementary piano. A student found deficient in piano technique is required to take supplementary piano lessons until an appropriate level of proficiency at the keyboard has been reached, such proficiency to be certified by Mr. Østbye no later than the end of the first term of the senior year. As with other applied music activities, these lessons will carry the equivalent of one quarter academic credit per semester.

Majors must have participated for two years in the chorus, orchestra, choir, concert band, collegium musicum, chamber music, or other musical ensembles by the time they are graduated. A senior major is required to prepare a research paper, project or a recital with essay to be planned in consultation with her adviser no later than the beginning of the senior year.

¹Absent on leave, Autumn Term.

The primary aim of Oriental Studies is to introduce major Asian civilizations, their works and values, as a means of expanding knowledge of the varieties and unities of human experience. The General Courses below are designed for any student, whatever her major interests, who wishes to include knowledge of Asian life in her education.

The satisfactory completion of one of the following courses offered in the departments of East Asian Languages and Cultures, and Middle East Languages and Cultures satisfies the college requirements in the respective languages: Akkadian G 4204, Intermediate Akkadian: Introduction to Old Babylonian; Arabic W 1122, Intermediate Modern Arabic; Armenian W 1124, Intermediate Armenian; Chinese C 1202 or F 1202, Intermediate Chinese (second stage); Hebrew W 1122, Intermediate Modern Hebrew; Hindi W 1122, Intermediate Hindi; Japanese C 1202 or F 1202, Intermediate Japanese (second stage); Iranian W 1122, Intermediate Persian; Sanskrit G 6102, Intermediate Sanskrit; Turkish W 1122, Intermediate Turkish, or Urdu W 4002, Advanced Urdu.

Literature courses in the departments of East Asian Languages and Cultures and Middle East Languages and Cultures in which readings are in the original languages may be used to fulfill the Barnard distribution requirements only with the permission of the Chairman of Oriental Studies.

Oriental Studies

Students who wish to enter Chinese or Japanese language courses above the introductory level must pass a language placement test before registering. Placement exams are given during the week before classes begin—contact Department of East Asian Languages and Culture (407 Kent) for exact dates. For placement above the introductory level in Arabic, Hebrew, Persian, Sanskrit, or Turkish, contact the Department of Middle East Languages and Cultures (609 Kent). All students wishing to enter the Hebrew language program or wishing exemption from the Hebrew language requirement must take a placement test. The test is administered every Wednesday during August from 11-1 in 609 Kent Hall.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A student who plans to major in Oriental Studies is advised to consult a member of the department in the Spring semester of her freshman year. Majors in the program come under the administration of the Committee on Foreign Area Studies. For admissions procedures and other details, see page 139.

To major in Oriental Studies, a student will choose to follow one of two tracks, East Asia or Middle East.

The East Asian Track

The department offers a wide range of courses designed to acquaint the student with traditional and contemporary work in ethics, metaphysics, theory of meaning, aesthetics, theory of knowledge, and philosophy of logic. The courses are designed to facilitate student participation and each class is conceived as a workshop. The student is expected to develop a competence in technique of conceptual analysis, argument, and the interpretation of texts.

Philosophy BC 1001, Introduction to Philosophy, although not a requirement for the major, is recommended to students who have not had previous training in philosophy.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major in Philosophy consists of at least 10 courses:

V 3701 Moral Philosophy, V 3411 or V 3415 or F 3410 Formal Logic

One of the following courses:

Philosophy V 3121	Plato
Philosophy V 3131	Aristotle

One of the following courses:

Philosophy V 3222	Descartes, Spinoza and Leibniz
Philosophy V 3240	Locke, Berkeley and Hume
Philosophy V 1201	The History of Philosophy: Aquinas through Kant

A course in a specific figure in the history of modern philosophy no later than Kant

or

One of the following courses:

Philosophy V 3601	Metaphysics
Philosophy V 3501	Theory of Knowledge

Two semesters of Philosophy BC 3288-BC 3289 Majors' Seminar, and three electives

Philosophy

The sequence of courses is to be determined in consultation with the major adviser. Philosophy BC 3288-BC 3289 may be taken either in the senior year or beginning in the second term of the junior year. The topic for the seminar is set each year on the basis of consultation with the students. A number of short papers will be required or, subject to departmental approval, a student may elect to write a Senior Essay.

Students who wish to complete a double or joint major including philosophy should consult the chairman of the department at as early a point in their planning as possible.

Philosophy BC 3398, BC 3399, Supplementary Readings in Philosophy, is open to students who have a well-developed individual project with departmental approval and permission of the instructor.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses constitute a minor in philosophy. Courses are to be selected on the basis of consultation with the adviser.

Curriculum

The curriculum is organized and administered by the faculty of the Department of Physical Education. Instruction is offered in the areas of sports, aquatics, movement, fitness, and folk dance. Modern dance, ballet, tap, and jazz dance courses are offered under the auspices of the Dance Department and may be taken to fulfill the Physical Education requirement. Courses are designed to promote the development and enjoyment of lifetime motor skills which will afford opportunities to realize one's potential, and to provide vigorous exercise to release tensions often generated by strong academic commitments and intense urban life.

The Intercollegiate Athletic program provides the opportunity for highly skilled students to participate in college sponsored competition while earning Physical Education credit.

Extra-Curricular Program

The Recreational Athletic Association (RAA) conducts intramurals, sponsors sports clubs such as frisbee, gymnastics, and soccer, and plans recreation programs.

The Intercollegiate Athletics program currently sponsors 8 varsity teams: Archery, Basketball, Cross Country, Fencing, Swimming and Diving, Tennis, Track and Field, and Volleyball. Teams enjoy competitive schedules within the metropolitan area and the Ivy League Conference. Teams and individuals may qualify for participation in New York State, Eastern, and National Championships sponsored by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Contact Marjorie Greenberg, Director of Athletics, for further information.

Health Status

Students who have failed to submit a medical report to the Office of Health Services may not participate in physical education classes and activities. Freshmen will receive a failure for such omission.

Students with permanent or temporary disabilities will be individually advised and placed in a suitable activity where possible, based upon the recommendations of the College Physician.

Posture Analysis

Freshman students may elect to have a complete posture analysis with follow-up examinations. Posture Laboratory is offered as a course each semester for students who wish to improve body alignment.

Physical Education

Requirement

Students admitted as freshmen must complete two semesters in the freshman year, and two semesters beyond the freshman year. Transfer students are required to have two semesters' credit beyond the freshman year. Transfers who enter as second-semester freshmen must also complete one course in the freshman year.

Registration

A complete schedule of courses is prepared each semester for Preregistration, and schedules are available in the Physical Education Department Office, 209 Barnard Hall. Preregistration should be confirmed before filing programs with the registrar. Students must include physical education courses by number, title, section, and computer number on final programs filed with the registrar. Students who do not preregister may register during the first two days of the semester in the gymnasium.

An agreement between the Department of Physical Education of Barnard College and Columbia College permits limited enrollment of Barnard students in some Columbia courses. Columbia College and Engineering School students may register for some Barnard courses through the Columbia Physical Education Department. Other Columbia University students must receive permission of the Physical Education Department to register before completing registration procedures.

Courses

Classes are organized in homogeneous skill groups for optimal learning. Students are advised to register according to their own skill level. Beginner = (A), low intermediate = (B), intermediate = (C), advanced = (D).

BC 2245x. Intermediate Folk Dance. (C)

Analysis, notation, and choreography of dances of Rumania and Israel.

M W 10:00.

SPORTS COURSES

BC 1350x, BC 1350y. Beginning Archery. (A)

Basic techniques in target shooting for the beginner or novice; selection and care of equipment; knowledge of competition, including intercollegiate, open, and Olympic.

Section I Tu Th 12:10.

Section II Tu Th 1:10

(Autumn Term only).

BC 2351y. Intermediate and Advanced Archery. (CD)

Advanced techniques for the archer who has had the equivalent of a semester of instruction; opportunity to compete informally in class and to prepare for membership on the Archery Team.

Permission of instructor required.

Tu Th 1:10.

BC 1353x, BC 1353y. Badminton. (ABCD)

Strokes, strategies, singles and doubles play. Intra-class tournaments provide competition for all levels.

M W 12:10.

BC 1455x, BC 1455y. Basketball. (ABC)

Basic skills of conditioning, ball handling, and shooting, offensive and defensive patterns of play. Drills as well as game play.

M W 4:10.

BC 1357x, BC 1357y. Beginning and Low Intermediate Bowling. (AB)

Basic approach, delivery; spot bowling and spare conversion; scoring.

Section I M W 10:00.

Section II M W 11:00.

Section III M W 12:10.

Section IV Tu Th 10:00.

Section V Tu Th 11:00.

Section VI Tu Th 12:10.

BC 2358x, BC 2358y. Advanced Bowling. (CD)

Must average 100, show knowledge of technique and spot bowling to qualify.

Not open to first semester freshmen.

Permission of the instructor required.

Section I M W 1:00.

Section II Tu Th 1:10.

Physical Education

BC 1360x, BC 1360y. Beginning Fencing. (A)

Basic offensive and defensive foil techniques; footwork; rules and officiating.

Section I Tu Th 11:00.

Section II Tu Th 12:10.

BC 1361x, BC 1361y. Low Intermediate and Intermediate Fencing. (BC)

Expansion of basic skills; tactics; use of electrical apparatus. Intraclass tournaments.

M W 12:10.

BC 1364x, BC 1364y. Beginning Tennis. (A)

Basic forehand, backhand, drives and volleys, and introduction to the serve; scoring.

Section I M W 11:00.

Section II M W 3:10.

Section III Tu Th 10:00.

Section IV Tu Th 2:10.

BC 1365x, BC 1365y. Low Intermediate Tennis. (B)

Refinement of forehand, backhand, volley and serve; scoring; simulated games.

Section I M W 10:00.

Section II M W 2:10.

Section III Tu Th 3:10.

BC 2366x, BC 2366y. Intermediate Tennis. (C)

Further development of strokes, service return; net play; doubles play.

Section I M W 9:00.

Section II Tu Th 11:00.

BC 2367x, BC 2367y. Intermediate and Advanced Tennis. (CD)

Advanced net play, overheads; strategy; singles and doubles.

Permission of the instructor required.

Tu Th 9:00.

BC 1470x, BC 1470y. Beginning and Low Intermediate Volleyball. (AB)

Introduction of forearm pass, overhead fingertip pass, serve and spike, and basic offensive and defensive strategies.

M W 1:10.

BC 2471x, BC 2471y. Intermediate and Advanced Volleyball. (CD)

Power volleyball skills and various offensive and defensive strategies.

Tu Th 4:10.

SPECIAL COURSES

BC 1680x, BC 1680y. Beginning Movement Workshop. (A)

Creative exploration, analysis and observation of movement.

Section I M W 1:10.

Section II Tu Th 9:00.

BC 1581x, BC 1581y. Beginning Gymnastics.

Introduction to tumbling, floor exercise, and balance beam. Development of strength, flexibility, endurance, coordination and agility.

Not offered in 1983-84.

BC 1582x, BC 1582y. Aerobic Dance.

Vigorous movement routines choreographed to popular music to develop cardio-vascular endurance and muscle tone.

Section I M W 10:00.

Section II M W 11:00.

Section III Tu Th 10:00.

BC 1583x, BC 1583y. Beginning Fitness. (A)

Introduction to a variety of conditioning programs; improvement of flexibility, strength, and cardio-vascular efficiency.

Section I M W 9:00. (Autumn Term only)

Section II M W 2:10.

Section III Tu Th 2:10.

Section IV Tu Th 4:10.

BC 2584y. Intermediate Fitness. (C)

Intensive fitness program for students who have taken BC 1583 or who have been engaged in a vigorous conditioning program.

M W 9:00.

BC 1585x, BC 1585y. Weight Training.

Introduction to principles of weight training; use of the Universal Weight Machine. Programs tailored to individual needs.

Section I M W 10:00.

Section II M W 11:00.

Section III Tu Th 9:30-10:20.

Section IV Tu Th 11:00.

BC 1686x, BC 1686y. Posture Laboratory.

Exercises to strengthen and stretch the skeletal muscles; practice in the release of muscle tension and in the correct alignment of the body.

Tu Th 1:10.

BC 1688x, BC 1688y. Relaxation.

Techniques of releasing muscle tension in the skeletal muscles of the body.

Section I M W 2:10.

Section II Tu Th 12:10.

Physical Education

BC 1690x, BC 1690y. Beginning Self Defense. (A)

Development of poise and confidence, using basic defensive and offensive moves, so that a person can handle a threatening situation effectively and with minimal confrontation.

Not offered in 1983-84.

BC 2691y. Intermediate Self Defense. (C)

Classical karate forms; techniques which rely on the effective use of the unarmed body; legal aspects of defense, general history of the martial arts, and conditioning exercises.

Not offered in 1983-84.

BC 1693x, BC 1693y. Beginning Yoga. (A)

Basic Hatha yoga positions; body awareness; relaxation.

Section I M W 3:10.

Section II Tu Th 10:00.

Section III Tu Th 3:10.

BC 2694x, BC 2694y. Intermediate Yoga. (C)

Advanced Hatha yoga postures; inverted positions; breathing and concentration techniques.

Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

BC 3898x, BC 3898y. Varsity Teams.

Credit toward the Physical Education requirement may be earned through participation on a varsity team. Each semester's participation is equivalent to one course. Coaches register team members after the teams have been selected.

BC 2799x, BC 2799y. Independent Study.

Enrollment in a course of instruction.

Not open to first semester freshmen or transfer students. Approval of Department required. Limited to one semester of credit.

DANCE

See Dance Department (page 109) for course listings. Studio Dance Courses may be taken to fulfill the Physical Education requirement.

Courses offered are:

Ballet—Beginning, Low Intermediate, Intermediate, Advanced.

Jazz—Low Intermediate, Intermediate.

Modern—Beginning, Low Intermediate, Intermediate, Advanced.

Tap—Beginning, Intermediate.

The study of physics ranges from disciplined preparation for professional work in physics itself, or a basic education in physics necessary for the study of, or work in, other sciences and medicine, to a more general familiarity with physics and its historical development as part of contemporary culture.

In cooperation with the faculty of the University, Barnard offers a thorough pre-professional curriculum. The faculty represents a wide range of expertise, with special strength and distinction in elementary-particle and theoretical physics.

The unique facilities of Barnard's History of Physics Laboratory, oriented to the broader perspective, are available to students at all levels—from introductory classes to individual studies and researches. There are occasional opportunities for students to participate in activities related to the laboratory, such as scientific film production.

The department offers four distinct introductory sequences, only one of which may ordinarily be taken for credit.

1. C 1001-C 1002, Elementary Physics; V 1305-V 1306, Physics in Historical Perspective, and History and Development of Science W 3001-W 3002, The Art of Scientific Experiment, are intended for liberal arts students whose aim is to achieve some qualitative understanding of science.
2. Either V 1003, V 1004, General Physics, or V 1103, V 1104, General Physics, is satisfactory preparation for medical school. Both cover the same material, but V 1103, V 1104 is somewhat more intensive and is designed for students majoring in sciences; V 1003, V 1004 is not recommended as a foundation for more advanced work in physics.
3. An entering student with a serious interest in physics should enroll in the Autumn Term in C 1006, General Physics I. Mechanics, which begins a four-term sequence (C 1007 or C 1107, C 1011, C 1012, General Physics II-IV), leading to more advanced courses. (These courses may be taken without laboratory by nonmajors. See the Columbia College bulletin for the appropriate course numbers.)

Physics

4. Freshmen with exceptional aptitude for physics and a good mathematical background may be admitted into the two-semester sequence, C 1021, C 1022, General Physics, which replaces the first three terms of the sequence starting with C 1006. Admission is by special interview with the instructor. A student interested in this course should, if possible, attend the "Physics Placement Meeting" announced in the Columbia College Freshman Week Program.

A major in physics may prepare the way to a great variety of careers in, or related to, science. Students interested in such possibilities are encouraged to consult the department chairman or Professor Cummins. Students interested in studies in the History/Philosophy of Science should consult Professor Devons, or another member of the Columbia College Interdepartmental Committee for the History and Philosophy of Science.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The courses required for a major in physics are:

C 1006, C 1107, C 1011, or C 1021 and C 1022.

With special permission V 1103 and V 1104 may be substituted for all or part of the above courses.

C 1012	Modern Physics
W 3003	Mechanics
W 3007, W 3008	Theory of Electricity and Magnetism
G 4015, G 4016	Atomic Physics and Introductory Quantum Mechanics
G 3083	Electronics Laboratory

and 3 points of intermediate laboratory work (W 3081, Intermediate Laboratory Work; BC 3011, BC 3012, History of Physics Laboratory), of which a minimum of two points of laboratory work in W 3081 is required.

All 1000-level courses must be taken with laboratory.

Four terms of calculus are required, and some additional work in mathematics is recommended. The program should also include a year of chemistry, although in some instances astronomy, geology or biology may be substituted.

In addition, students planning to study physics in graduate school are strongly urged to take

G 4003	Lagrangian Mechanics
W 3072	Seminar in Current Research

and at least one more semester at the 4000-level.

The major examination consists of the Graduate Record Examination in physics.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor, including C 1006, C 1007 or C 1107, C 1011, C 1012, and one course at the 3000- or 4000-level.

For information concerning a major in astrophysics, see the Columbia College Bulletin.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

V 1305x, V 1306y. Physics in Historical Perspective.

Topics in elementary physics with an emphasis on the historical development of physical theories. The experimental work is done in the History of Physics Laboratory.

—S.E. Cummins.

Although this course is oriented primarily to non-science students, the course does require a willingness to review and use elementary algebra. Enrollment limited to 50 students. Permission of the instructor required. 4½ points. Lecture Tu Th 1:10-2:25. Laboratory 3 consecutive hours weekly to be arranged.

C 1001x, C 1002y. Elementary Physics.

Introduction to physics for students with no previous background. In the first semester the course deals with the physics of energy and in the second semester with relativity and subatomic physics.—G. Feinberg.

This course uses very little mathematics. It does not fulfill the physics requirement for admission to medical school. It is primarily addressed to non-science students.

3 points. Lecture Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

V 1003x, V 1004y. General Physics.

Mechanics and heat, electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics.—A. Sachs and W. Smith.

Calculus is not a prerequisite for this course. 4 points.

Lecture and Recitation:

Section I M W F 11:00.

Section II Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

Laboratory 3 consecutive hours to be chosen from M Tu W Th F 1:10-4:00 or 4:10-7:00.

Recitation and laboratory sections are arranged after the first class meeting.

V 1103x, V 1104y. General Physics.

Same topics as V 1003-V 1004 discussed at a somewhat higher level, using calculus.—W. Ku.

Prerequisite: Calculus I and II.

4 points. Lecture M W F 11:00.

Laboratory 3 consecutive hours to be chosen from M Tu W Th F 1:10-4:00 or 4:10-7:00.

Laboratory sections are arranged after the first class meeting.

C 1006x. General Physics I. Mechanics.

Fundamental laws of mechanics; kinematics; dynamics; work and energy; rotational dynamics and angular momentum; introduction to special relativity and relativistic kinematics.—J. Groves, R. Blair and G. Tzanakos.

Corequisite: Calculus I or the equivalent.

3½ points.

Lecture and Recitation

Sections I and II M W F 9:00.

Section III Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

Laboratory 3 hours every other week. Times to be arranged after first class meeting.

C 1007y. General Physics II. Electricity and Magnetism.

Electrostatics; direct currents; electromagnetism; alternating currents; wave motion.—R. Blair and G. Tzanakos.

Prerequisite: Course C 1006. Corequisite: Calculus II or the equivalent.

3½ points.

Lecture and Recitation

Section I M W F 9:00.

Section II Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

Laboratory 3 hours every other week. Times to be arranged after first class meeting.

C 1107y. General Physics II. Electricity and Magnetism.

Topics of Course C 1007 are considered in greater depth; less time on routine applications and extended treatment of some of the more advanced topics.—Staff.

Prerequisite: Course C 1006.

3½ points. Lecture and Recitation M W F 9:00.

Laboratory 3 hours every other week. Times to be arranged after first class meeting.

C 1011x. General Physics III. Optics and Thermodynamics.

Acoustical waves; nature of light; polarization; geometrical optics; interference and diffraction of light; heat; states of matter; gas laws, the laws of thermodynamics; kinetic theory of gases.—G. Chanan and M. Tuts.

Prerequisite: Course C 1006. Corequisite: Calculus III.

3½ points. Lecture Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

Laboratory 3 hours every other week. Times to be arranged after first class meeting.

C 1012y. General Physics IV. Modern Physics.

Quantum effects; atomic structure and spectra; nuclear structure and reactions; fission and fusion; elementary particles.—G. Chanan and M. Tuts.

Prerequisites: Courses C 1011 and C 1007 or C 1107.

3½ points. Lecture Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

Laboratory 3 hours every other week. Times to be arranged after first class meeting.

C 1021x, C 1022y. General Physics.

Mechanics, heat, electricity, magnetism, and light.—F. Sciulli.

Prerequisite: Advanced placement in mathematics or some knowledge of differential and integral calculus, and permission of the departmental representative. (A special placement meeting is held during Freshman Orientation.)

4 points. Lecture M W 4:10-5:25.

Laboratory 3 hours to be arranged at the first class meeting.

Physics

BC 3011x, BC 3012y. Advanced History of Physics Laboratory.

Experimental investigations in the logical and historical development of physics studied by both laboratory and literary work. Students work individually or in collaboration with other students choose one or two examples (ranging from physics in the 17th to the 20th century), and study these thoroughly.—S. Devons.

Prerequisite: Good basic knowledge of physics, aptitude for laboratory work and individual initiative. Permission of the instructor required. Laboratory work is required.

2 points. Hours to be arranged.

W 3003x. Mechanics.

Newtonian mechanics; conservative forces and potential; oscillations, central forces.—W. Lee.
Prerequisite: General physics and integral calculus.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

W 3007x, W 3008y. Theory of Electricity and Magnetism.

Electrostatics, current flow, electromagnetism. Formulation of Maxwell's equations; some applications associated with lumped-impedance circuits, transmission lines and plane electromagnetic waves.—C. Baltay.

Prerequisites: Course C 1007 or C 1107 or the equivalent, and differential and integral calculus.

3 points. M W 9:35-10:50.

W 3072y. Seminar in Current Research Problems.

Detailed study of a selected field of active research in physics; motivation, techniques, and results obtained to the present, as well as the difficulties and unsolved problems.—Staff.

Permission of the department representative required. Open only to senior physics majors.

2 points. Th 4:10-5:25.

W 3081x,y. Intermediate Laboratory Work.

The laboratory has available 14 individual experiments, of which two are required per point. Each experiment is chosen by the student in consultation with the instructor. Registration in each section is limited by the laboratory capacity. Experiments (classical and modern) cover electricity, optics, and atomic and nuclear physics topics.—J. Rainwater and B. Knapp.

Prerequisite: for junior and senior physics majors. Other majors require the instructor's permission. May be repeated for credit by performing different experiments.

1 point. Hours to be arranged.

W 3083x, W 3083y. Electronics Laboratory.

Experiments in solid state electronics, with introductory lectures.—M. Shaevitz.

Permission of the instructor required. Corequisite: Course W 3003 or W 3007. Registration is limited to the capacity of the laboratory.

2 points. M W 1:00-4:00.

GRADUATE COURSES

The following G 4000 courses form an integral part of the undergraduate major program in Physics.

G 4001x. Topics in the History of Physics. 17th to 20th century.

Prerequisite: Physics C 1012 or the instructor's permission. Students taking this course for 4 points make a historical study, experimental and/or literary, of some designated topic.—S. Devons.

2 or 4 points. Hours to be arranged.

G 4003y. Lagrangian Mechanics.

Generalized coordinates; Lagrange's and Hamilton's equations with applications including rigid bodies; normal coordinate treatment of coupled systems.—Staff.

Prerequisites: Integral calculus and differential equations and W 3003, or equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 1:00-2:15.

G 4009x. Light.

Physical and geometrical optics.—P. Franzini.

Prerequisites: General physics and integral calculus.

3 points. M W 10:35-11:50.

G 4013x. Thermodynamics.

General principles of thermodynamics; the three fundamental laws; definition of entropy and the thermodynamic potentials; simple application of thermodynamics; microscopic interpretation of thermodynamics.—S. Hartmann.

Prerequisite: Courses W 3003 and W 3007.

Corequisite: Course G 4015.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

G 4015x, G 4016y. Atomic Physics and Introductory Quantum Mechanics.

Experimental basis of modern atomic physics; interpretation of atomic structures and radiation phenomena in terms of quantum theory. Elementary wave mechanics applied to simple atomic structures and to potential well and barrier problems. Atoms in applied fields and the interactions in many electron atoms treated by perturbation theory; theory of spin and angular momentum.—J. Shaham.

Prerequisite: Courses C 1006, C 1007, C 1011 and C 1012, or their equivalents, and two additional terms of course work in intermediate or advanced physics.

3 points. M W F 9:00.

G 4040y. Nuclear Physics.

Properties of nuclei, the two-body problem at low energies and nuclear forces, alpha radioactivity, beta decay, emission of electromagnetic radiation and selection rules, nuclear shell structure, phenomena associated with the passage of nuclear radiations through matter and methods of detection; high-energy accelerators, nuclear reactions, artificial radioactivity, neutrons, and nuclear fission.—J. Groves.

Prerequisite: Course G 4015 or the equivalent.
3 points. Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

History and Development of Science

W 3001x-W 3002y. The Art of Scientific Experiment.

Evolution of scientific experiment—its purpose, method, style and role in science, from antiquity to the early 20th century. Focus on the creation of scientific knowledge, viewed in contemporaneous light of both personal and social-cultural influences; assimilation of discovery into the body of science. Examples mainly from physical science. Illustrated by experimental demonstrations.—S. Devons.

Permission of the instructor required.

3 points.

W 4:00-6:00, plus one hour class discussion to be arranged. Laboratory hours to be arranged.

History and Development of Science W 3904x-W 3905y.

Topics in the history of science.—S. Devons, G. Saliba, and others.

Prerequisite: the instructor's permission. Topics vary from year to year. Topics for 1983-84: to be announced.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

ASTRONOMY COURSES

The purpose of the study of political science is to develop understanding of the basic political institutions and processes in human society. This understanding involves analysis and evaluation of political systems and public policies in the context of the challenges they face and the changes they undergo. The major is designed to equip the student to play an effective role as citizen in a democratic political order, to participate more actively in political life as public or party official, civil servant, lawyer, or political commentator, or to undertake graduate training in political science in preparation for a career in college teaching. Students interested in public service careers should inquire about the five-year joint degree programs with the Columbia Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration and with the School of International and Public Affairs.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A student majoring in Political Science is required to take a minimum of nine semester courses from the Department's listed offerings, including

Political Science BC 300I

Dynamics of American Politics

One of the following courses

Political Science V 350I

Comparative Politics

Political Science V 361I

International Politics

Political Science BC 3013, BC 3014

Political Theory

Two colloquia or other courses having a research paper from among those courses designated by an asterisk (*); and

Two semesters of research seminar for the thesis (see below).

Political Science

The department's requirements are flexibly drawn to permit a major, in consultation with her adviser, to plan an overall program that, while providing some background in various areas of government and politics, can place special emphasis on such particular interests as the American political system (including its urban subsystem), foreign political systems, international relations, or political theory.

In order to have the opportunity for independent specialized work in depth, and to explore more fully the techniques of scholarly investigation, both majors and concentrators are required to write a senior essay as part of the work for the required two-semester research seminar (either Political Science BC 3761-BC 3762, Research Seminar, or V 3711-V 3712, Research Seminar in American Politics).

A student majoring in Urban Studies with a concentration in political science is required to take a minimum of six semester courses, including

Political Science BC 3001	Dynamics of American Politics
Political Science V 3313	American Urban Politics

Two from the following courses:

Political Science BC 3322	The American Congress
Political Science BC 3326	Problems in Civil Rights and Liberties
Political Science BC 3327	Colloquium on the Content of American Politics
Political Science BC 3535	Colloquium-Workshop in Urban Administration and Management
Political Science V 3306	Political Economy of Cities
Political Science G 8202	Colloquium on Congress and Policymaking

Two semesters of research seminar for the thesis.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A student minoring in Political Science is required to take a minimum of five semester courses, including Political Science BC 3001.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Courses listed under this heading may be taken without previous study of political science.

BC 3001x, BC 3001y. Dynamics of American Politics.

Examination of the dynamics of the American political system at the national level including political participation, elections, political parties and national political institutions: the Presidency, the Congress and the Judiciary.—Staff.

Sign-up sheets for sections are posted outside 408 Lehman.

3 points.

Credit is not granted for both this course and C 3305.

x: Section I M W 11:00-12:15. R. Pious.

Section II. Not offered in 1983-84.

Section III Tu Th 10:35-11:50. F. Davidson.

y: M W 11:00-12:15. R. Pious. (V)

V 3501x, V 3501y. Introduction to Comparative Politics. (formerly 2y)

An introduction to major issues and theories in comparative politics.

3 points.

x: M W 1:10-2:25. A. Nathan.

y: Tu Th 10:35-11:50. P. Juviler. (V)

W 4311x. American Parties and Elections.

The changing role of political parties and elections in the American political system. The historical development of party conflict; the structure of party organization at the local and national levels; the roles of party and the media during presidential elections; who votes and why; and the future of American political parties.—E. Fuchs.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15. (V)

Political Science

BC 3004y. Freshman Seminar in Government.
Intensive study of a topic to be selected by the instructor. Students learn methods and sources of political science and gain experience in discussion and writing.—Instructor to be announced.

Topic for Spring 1983: to be announced in November.

4 points.

Hours to be arranged in November. (V)

BC 3007x. Modern Political Movements.

Dynamics of movement politics in the twentieth century. Factual and moral analysis; case studies of Bolshevism, Indian nationalism, Nazism, the New Left, and the women's movement.—L. Calman.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (V)

V 3313y. American Urban Politics.

Patterns of government and politics in America's large cities and suburbs. ²Emeritus and Special Lecturer

Psychology is the study of behavior and experience, and therefore of a diversity of phenomena, from love to aggression, from the first babblings of infants to creative intellectual behavior, from understanding sexual behavior to the mechanisms of taste. Faculty members in Psychology have a wide range of research interests, including social and cognitive development, memory, sexual and parental behavior, animal learning, leadership, and intimate violence.

Common to all areas of psychology is a concern with adequate and appropriate methodology. The student will be exposed, therefore, to many psychological facts and to the methods of their discovery through lecture, laboratory, field courses, and various other offerings.

Opportunities are available for supervised research, teaching, and field experiences. Independent study and the Senior Seminar involve participation in research with a faculty member. The Toddler Center and a course in Field Work in Psychological Services provide a different sort of direct contact with the raw material of psychology, as do Teaching Apprentice Seminars.

The department sponsors a Psychology Club, which, among other activities, publishes the yearly Barnard Journal of Psychology.

Psychology as a major is a good preparation for many careers. Many majors enter graduate school in psychology, neurosciences, education and professional schools, including medical, law, and business schools. There is no set sequence for a major with a given career goal, but the department recommends a balance between courses that are directly preparatory and exposure to material the student may never encounter formally again.

Students should preregister for courses in April and November for the following semester. Preregistration information is available in Room 415 Milbank.

A laboratory fee of $15 is charged for each laboratory course: BC1105, BC1108, BC1117, BC1127, BC1130, BC1136, and BC3256.

Students interested in Biopsychology should consult page 87.

Psychology

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The student majoring in Psychology is exposed to the diversity of the discipline through the required core courses and the selection of appropriate electives.

Eight courses in psychology (of which two must be lab courses) and three courses in related disciplines are required for the major. Six of the eight required psychology courses must be taken at Barnard College.

Psychology BC1001	Introduction to Psychology (pre-requisite for further psychology courses)
Psychology BC1609	Statistics (preferably in the sophomore year)
One course chosen from:
Psychology BC1105	Psychology of Learning
Psychology BC1130 or BC1132	Human Learning and Memory
One course chosen from:
Psychology BC1125	Psychology of Personality
Psychology BC1136 or BC1138	Social Psychology
Psychology BC3141	Abnormal Psychology

In choosing her four electives, a student should try to achieve a balance in her training by taking at least one course from each of the following categories:

- Developmental, Social, Clinical: BC1125, BC1127 or BC1129, BC1136 or BC1138, BC3141, BC3151, BC3158, BC3371, BC3372, BC3473
- Methodology and Research: BC3168, BC3256, BC3591-3592, BC3599, W4107
- Physiological, Perception, Learning: BC1105, BC1108 or BC1110, BC1117 or BC1119, BC1130 or BC1132, BC3154, BC3160, BC3164, BC3169, BC3374

A maximum of two of the following courses may count towards the major: BC3465, BC3466, BC3591, BC3592 and BC3599.

The three required courses in related disciplines should be distributed as follows: a one-year laboratory course sequence in either biology, chemistry, or physics; a course from one of the cognate disciplines: anthropology, linguistics, sociology, philosophy, economics.

The eight required psychology courses must be taken for a letter grade; the grade must be C – or better.

The major examination consists of either the Graduate Record Examination in Psychology or satisfactory completion of Psychology BC3591-BC3592, Senior Research Seminar.

When in doubt, the student should consult with her major adviser, whom she should select when she decides to major in psychology, and who will be her chief academic adviser during her last years. The student may select the appropriate adviser in consultation with the administrative assistant or chairman.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor, including Psychology BC1001, BC1609 and one laboratory course. Two additional electives, excluding Psychology BC3465-3466, BC3591-3592, and BC3599, are required. These electives may be selected from the Psychology Department course offerings. Three of the five psychology courses must be taken at Barnard.

The study of religion at Barnard offers exploration of the literature and traditions of major world religions—Buddhism, Christianity, Hinduism, Islam, and Judaism. The student majoring in Religion may select either to focus on one of these, or to engage in comparative study of religions. In either case, she will discover various approaches to the understanding of religion, including literary, psychological, anthropological, historical, and sociological approaches.

The student with a degree in religion may undertake graduate and professional studies in religion, literature, and history; she may also enter upon careers ranging from medicine, clinical psychology, various forms of ministry and social service, to creative writing, art, education, journalism, and film, where the value of an understanding of religion is increasingly being recognized.

The Department of Religion at Barnard cooperates with the Columbia department in order to offer to Barnard and Columbia students a full crosslisted range of courses. Students are encouraged to meet often with faculty, as well as with other majors from Barnard and Columbia.

The Jewish Theological Seminary of America and Union Theological Seminary are located within two blocks of Barnard; students are encouraged to use the resources they offer.

All courses, except those limited to majors, satisfy the College's distribution requirements. Those designated as courses in the history of religion (i.e., History of Judaism) satisfy requirements in Category 4 of the distribution requirements; all others satisfy those in Category 3.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Every major is expected to have some knowledge of different religious traditions. The student's program should be designed in consultation with her adviser.

Religion

Ten courses are required for the major, including

One of the introductory courses, i.e.

V 1101	Introduction to the Study of Western Religion
V 1102	Introduction to the Study of Eastern Religion
V 1001	Major Topics in the Study of Religion

Two courses in the Traditions, i.e.

V 2607	Buddhism
V 2610	Christianity
V 2600	Hinduism
V 2630	Islam
V 2620	Judaism

Majors' Colloquium (taken in the senior year);

One course taken as a seminar, colloquium, or guided reading; and

Five other courses in religion (one or two may be courses related to religion in other departments, i.e., History of the Jews in Europe, East Asian Art, Greek Mythology).

Students majoring in religion are required to prepare a substantial research paper or essay in consultation with a member of the department. The essay may have its origin in a course or seminar, or may be written in connection with guided reading or research (V 3901-V 3902).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor consists of 5 courses, including:

One of the introductory courses (i.e. Courses V 1101, V 1102, V 1001);

Two courses selected from the Traditions; and

One course taken as a seminar, colloquium, or guided reading.

The Department also cooperates with related programs such as Ancient Studies, Oriental Studies, Jewish Studies, and with other departments, to arrange combined, double, joint, and special majors. These arrangements are made in consultation with the chairman.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Courses offered by other departments and the graduate program, but integral to the study of religion are listed here only by title. For a complete description, please consult the appropriate bulletin.

The Russian Department at Barnard offers a program designed to help the student obtain reasonable fluency in the spoken and written language, a reading command of Russian adequate for interpreting texts of some difficulty, and a general knowledge of Russian literature and culture, especially of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The department insists upon a strong foundation in the language, because this best prepares students for future graduate study in literature, history, economics, or political science, as well as for careers in government, business, journalism, or international law.

Foreign Language Requirement for the Degree: All students must take a placement examination before entrance. This examination tests the student's knowledge of grammar, her comprehension of written and spoken Russian, and her ability in free composition. Students receiving a sufficiently high grade will automatically fulfill the requirement. All others must complete Russian V 1202, Intermediate Course, or any course beyond that level. Students whose native language is Russian should consult with the department chairman.

The Russian Club attends Russian movies, operas, and church services, and visits Russian restaurants and areas of the city where Russian is spoken.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students must have completed two years of college Russian before entering the program. Prospective majors or minors should consult with either Professor Gustafson or Professor Astman as early as possible.

A total of 10 courses are required for the major:

Russian V 3333 - V 3334	Introduction to Russian Literature
Russian V 1220	Nineteenth-Century Russian Prose
Russian V 1221	Twentieth-Century Russian Prose
Russian V 3595	Seminar

At least two courses from:

Russian V 3441, V 3442	Russian Conversation and Composition
Russian V 3443, V 3444	Russian Syntax and Style

And at least three more courses, including at least one course from the following:

Russian V 3461
Russian V 3462
Russian V 3463
Russian V 3464
Russian V 3465

Russian V 3467

Pushkin
Gogol
Tolstoy
Dostoevsky
Russian Poetry in the 19th and 20th Centuries
Twentieth-Century Prose Writers

Independent study with any of the faculty at Barnard and the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures at Columbia University can be arranged and study in the Soviet Union is possible as part of the major.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A total of five courses beyond the second year of Russian are required for the minor, including either V 3331, V 3332, Advanced Course, or V 3333, V 3334, Introduction to Russian Literature.

Sociology introduces students to the scientific study of society. The basic problems common to all human societies and the varied institutional solutions to these problems make up one large area of sociological interest; hence the sociological study of the family, social class, economic and political institutions, education, science, etc. The impact on individual behavior of ethnic, racial, religious, and sexual categorizations, rural and urban differences, bureaucratic organizations and small groups, and the mass media are also of sociological interest. So is the relationship between social structure, culture, and personality. Sociology is concerned not only with the normal functioning of social institutions but also with social change and with social problems such as deviance and crime, industrial conflict, and other areas of social disorganization. In studying these subjects, materials about American society are given primary emphasis. Comparative materials from other societies, preliterate and more highly developed, are also extensively used. Finally, sociology seeks to acquaint students with its methods of investigation, from which students learn important facts about scientific method in general.

There are no special admissions requirements or procedures. Students (majors and non-majors) are encouraged to consult with members of the department regarding their choice and sequence of courses. Combined and double majors may be arranged. In addition, the Columbia department offers a wide variety of sociology courses which are open to interested Barnard students.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The major prepares students for graduate work in sociology as well as in other disciplines; for professional schools (law, business, social work, journalism, urban planning), and for all occupations requiring general knowledge of society and social interaction as well as basic skills of social research.

A minimum of ten courses is required for the major, including

Sociology BC 1001, BC 1002	Introduction to Sociology
Sociology V 3100	Introduction to Social Theory
Two approved courses in methodology	(no later than the junior year)
Sociology BC 3087-BC 3088	Individual Projects for Seniors

and at least three other courses selected in consultation with the major adviser.

There is no major examination. To graduate, a student must complete, to the satisfaction of her instructor in Sociology BC 3087-BC 3088, a long paper involving some form of sociological research and analysis.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor in Sociology, including Sociology BC 1001, BC 1002, and three courses to be selected in consultation with the Sociology adviser.

A major in Spanish is designed to enable the student to acquire ease and fluency in the written and spoken language, and to develop an understanding and appreciation of the cultural traditions and literature of Spain and Latin America.

Foreign Language Requirement for the Degree: Freshmen who have had prior training in Spanish and who wish to satisfy the foreign language requirement in Spanish will be placed in the appropriate language courses on the basis of their CEEB scores, or, if such are not available, on the basis of proficiency test taken before registration. Students having a sufficiently high score will automatically fulfill the requirement. All others may do so by completing BC 1204 with the exception of students of Spanish-American background who may fulfill the requirement with BC 3006 instead of BC 1204. Transfer students should consult the department chairman.

Active student-faculty cooperation and exchange are encouraged through the Spanish Club, which sponsors discussion sessions, film series, and lectures by professors and visiting scholars on topics of current interest. Student participation is essential to the faculty's yearly presentation of a classic or contemporary drama to the academic as well as general New York Hispanic communities. The rich cultural resources of the city are utilized at all levels of instruction as a natural extension of the academic process.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students interested in the major are urged to consult with the department as early as possible in order to arrange a program best suited to their particular concerns. Guidance and program coordination are also offered to Foreign Area Studies majors in the subdivisions of Latin America and Spain. Study abroad (Spain or Latin America) is actively encouraged and supported by departmental scholarship funds available to majors.

Spanish

The ten following courses are required for the major; a sequential order is strongly recommended:

Spanish BC 3013

Spanish BC 3015

Spanish BC 3017

Spanish BC 3018

Spanish BC 3020

Spanish BC 3023

Spanish BC 3025, BC 3026

Spanish BC 3031, BC 3032

The Culture of Spain

Spanish-American Culture

Spanish Literature in the Middle Ages and Early Renaissance

Literature of the Golden Age

Don Quijote

Nineteenth-Century Literature in Spain

Contemporary Spanish Literature I and II

The Literature of Latin America

A major in Spanish must broaden her study of Spanish culture by relating it to other cultures which have influenced it or been influenced by it. The following courses are recommended:

Anthropology V 3209

Classical Literature BC 1032

Classical Literature V 3123

Art History V 3500, V 3501

French BC 3021-BC 3022

German BC 3055- BC 3056

History W 4779-W 4780

The Archaeology of the Old World

Classical Myth

Greek Drama and Its Influence

European Painting Since the Renaissance

Masterpieces of Literature from the Middle Ages to the Twentieth Century

Major Works of German Literature and Thought

History of Latin American Civilization

Introduction to Philosophy

Introduction to the Study of Religion

The major examination consists of a three-hour written examination on Spanish literature and a three-hour written examination on Hispanic civilization and Spanish-American literature. All examinations are conducted in Spanish.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A student minoring in Spanish will be required to take Spanish BC 3020, BC 3031, and BC 3032, and three more courses to be chosen from Spanish BC 3017, BC 3018, BC 3023, BC 3025, and BC 3026.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

LANGUAGE COURSES

(Enrollment limited to 20 students per section.)

V 1101x-V 1102y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Grammar, reading, conversation.—Staff.

May not be taken parallel to elementary Italian.

Work in the language laboratory is required.

4 points. No credit is given for V 1101 unless V 1102 is completed.

Sections I, II M Tu W Th F 9:00.

Sections III, IV M Tu W Th F 10:00.

Sections V, VI M Tu W Th F 11:00.

Section VII M Tu W Th F 12:00.

BC 1001x-BC 1002y. Intensive Elementary Course.

Intensive alternative to Spanish V 1101-V 1102 based on the Dartmouth Intensive Language model and designed to promote rapid oral fluency. Class meets ten hours per week: five hours devoted to drill work, five hours to communicative situations. Primarily for students who need to acquire Spanish for travel or professions requiring fluency.—J. Crapotta and staff.

4 points. No credit is given for course BC 1001 unless BC 1002 is completed.

M Tu W Th F 9:00 and M Tu W Th F 12:00.

BC 1003x. Intensive Review of Elementary Spanish.

Course for incoming students whose score on the placement examination puts them between the beginning and intermediate level. Also intended for students of Spanish-American background who have some speaking knowledge of Spanish but insufficient formal training or grammatical foundation.—Staff.

Prerequisite: Course V 1101 or the equivalent. Work in the language laboratory is required.
4 points.

Section I M Tu W Th 9:00.

Section II M Tu W Th 1:10.

BC 1203x, BC 1204y. Intermediate Course.

Rapid review of grammar and syntax; oral practice; discussion and analysis of important works in Spanish and Spanish-American literatures.—Staff.

Prerequisite: V 1102 or BC 1102 or the equivalent. Work in the language laboratory is required.

Statistics

Office: 618 Mathematics Building

Telephone: 280-3652

Officers of the University offering courses in Statistics:

Professors

Cyrus Derman, Tze Leung Lai, Howard Levene (Chairman), Burton H. Singer, John Van Ryzin

Assistant Professors

Iaonnis Karatzas (Departmental representative, 614 Mathematics), Steven P. Lalley, Michael L. Pinedo (Operations Research), Zvi Schechner (Operations Research), Patrick E. Shrout (Biostatistics)

The Department of Statistics offers a wide range of courses in probability and statistics. Probability and statistics deal with phenomena involving uncertainty. Probability theory describes the behavior of given random systems, while statistical methods facilitate the discovery of hidden regularities in such systems from observed data. The department trains students to apply statistical methodology in their later careers in the biomedical or social sciences, business, engineering, etc., or to continue with graduate study in statistics, business management, operations research, and related fields. Members of the department are actively engaged in both theoretical and applied research. Computing facilities include both interactive terminals and large scale batch-mode processing.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

All majors should consult the departmental representative regularly in planning their programs of study. The requirements listed below are special to this department and must be read in conjunction with the general requirements for the bachelor's degree. As a rule, no more than 12 points of transfer credit may be accepted toward the major.

A total of 13 courses are required for the major:

Mathematics V 1101, V 1102 and V 3202, or their equivalents
Statistics-Operations Research W 3611 or W 4105
Statistics W 4107, W 4112 and W 4201

One approved course in computer science beyond the introductory level and 5 additional courses to be chosen with departmental approval from statistics, computer science, or operations research, at least 2 of which must be statistics courses at the 4000 level.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in statistics requires 4 courses in statistics including:

W 3611 (or W 4105), W 3612 (or W 4107), W 3621 (or W 4112), W 3625 (or any statistics course at the 4000 level) and one approved course in computer science.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

W 1111x, y. Introduction to Statistics.

An introduction to the principles of quantitative reasoning and methods of statistics, with applications to social and natural sciences. Elements of data analysis. Graphical and numerical summaries of data. Probability and distributions of random variables. Statistical inference. Tests of hypotheses. Estimation of unknown parameters. Comparing treatment with control. Basic concepts of correlation and regression analysis.—x: T.L. Lai; y: S.P. Lalley. Prerequisite: High school mathematics through intermediate algebra. This course may be followed by W 3621 or W 3625 or appropriate courses in statistics given by other departments. 3 points.

x: Tu Th 10:35-11:50.
y: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Statistics

Statistics-Operations Research W 3611x.

Probability and Statistical Inference I.

Probability theory. Important distributions. Central limit theorem. Introduction to data analysis. Estimation: point and confidence intervals. Hypothesis testing.—C. Derman.

Prerequisite: A working knowledge of calculus.
3 points. Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

Statistics-Operations Research. W 3612y.

Probability and Statistical Inference II.

Principles of statistical inference. Statistical decision problems. Maximum likelihood estimation. Nonparametric procedures. Correlation and curve-fitting. Applications of probability theory and statistics to engineering, natural and social sciences.—Z. Schechner.

Prerequisite: Statistics-Operations Research W 3611x.
3 points. Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

W 3621. Applied Regression and Nonparametric Methods.

Simple linear regression. Multiple regression. Prediction. Analysis of variance. Nonparametric tests of hypotheses. Robust estimation. Relevant statistical packages. Applications to natural and social sciences.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 1111, or Statistics-Operations Research W 3611x, or a basic course in statistics. Not offered in 1983-84.
3 points.

W 3625x. Applied Multivariate Analysis.

Graphical and numerical summaries of discrete and continuous multivariate data. Contingency table analysis, chi-square test, and measures of association. Correlation. Clustering algorithms. Introduction to factor analysis, discriminant analysis, and principal components. Relevant statistical packages. Applications to natural and social sciences.—B.H. Singer.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 1111 or Statistics-Operations Research W 3611x, or the equivalent.
3 points. Tu Th 4:10-5:25.

W 4105x, y. Probability.

This course can be used as the sole course for students needing a basic knowledge of probability and as the foundation for more advanced courses at the senior undergraduate or M.A. level. Fundamentals, random variables, and distribution functions in one or more dimensions; moments, conditional probabilities, and densities; Laplace transforms and characteristic functions. Infinite sequences of random variables; weak and strong laws of large numbers; central limit theorem.—x: M. Pinedo; y: I. Karatzas.

Prerequisite: A working knowledge of calculus.
3 points. M 6:30-9:00.

Statistics-Operations Research W 4606x, y. Elementary Stochastic Processes.

Review of elements of probability theory. Poisson process. Exponential distribution. Renewal theory. Wald's equation. Introduction to discrete time Markov chains and applications to queueing theory, inventory models, branching processes.—x: C. Derman; y: B.H. Singer.

Prerequisite: Statistics-Operations Research W 4105 or the equivalent.
3 points.

x: Tu 4:10-6:40.

y: Tu 6:30-9:00.

W 4107y. Statistical Inference.

Principles of statistical inference. Population parameters, sufficient statistics. Basic distribution theory. Point and interval estimation. Method of maximum likelihood. Method of least squares, regression. Introduction to the theory of hypothesis testing. Likelihood ratio tests. Nonparametric procedures. Statistical design theory. Applications to engineering, medicine, natural and social sciences.—S.P. Lalley.

Prerequisite: Statistics-Operations Research W 3611 or W 4105 or the equivalent.
3 points. W 6:30-9:00.

W 4112x. Regression and Analysis of Variance.

Simple linear regression. Multiple regression. Hypothesis testing and confidence sets. Analysis of variance for one-way, two-way and factorial designs. Multiple comparisons. Components of variance models. Elements of experimental design; randomized blocks and Latin squares.—H. Levene.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 4107 or the equivalent, linear algebra, and computer programming.
3 points. W 4:10-6:40.

W 4115y. Multivariate Statistical Inference.

Multivariate normal distribution; multivariate regression and analysis of variance: canonical correlation and tests of independence. Principal components and other models for factor analysis. Discriminant functions and the classification problem; cluster analysis.—P. Shrout.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 4112 or the equivalent.
3 points. W 4:10-6:40.

Statistics

W 4201y. Introduction to Data Analysis.

Data analysis using the computer statistical package SCSS and selected exploratory data analysis subroutines. Topics include editing of data for errors, exploratory and standard techniques for one-way analysis of variance, linear regression and two-way analysis of variance. Material is presented in case-study format. Students write reports summarizing their analysis.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: A one-term introductory statistics course.

3 points. Tu 2:10-4:00 and two hours of laboratory to be arranged.

G 4137x. Time Series Analysis.

Time series models in economics, engineering, geology, and other applications. Auto regressive and moving average schemes. Model fitting, estimation of parameters, and hypothesis testing. Serial correlation, periodograms, and spectral analysis. Trend fitting and complex demodulation. Prediction. Introduction to multiple time series. FFT.—S.P. Lalley.

Corequisite: W 4112 or the equivalent.

3 points. Th 4:10-6:00.

G 4143x. Theory and Analysis of Lifetime Data.

Survival distributions; types of censored data; estimation for various survival models. Non-parametric estimation of survival distributions and related functions; comparison of two or more survival distributions; the proportional hazard and accelerated lifetime models for covariate data; regression analysis with lifetime data.—J. Van Ryzin.

Prerequisite: W 4107 or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu 4:10-6:00.

Theatre

Office: 231 Milbank Hall

Telephone: 280-2079, 5417

Director of the Minor Latham Playhouse

Kenneth Janes (231 Milbank Hall), Professor of English

Assistants to the Director

Luz Castaños (Associate in Theatre), June Ekman (Instructor in Theatre), Shirley Kaplan (Associate in Theatre), Dennis Parichy (Instructor in Theatre), Janet Soares (Associate in Dance)

The Minor Latham Playhouse is the center of activities for Barnard students interested in the theatre. The Playhouse is a small professional theatre housing the Barnard College Theatre Company, and it is a busy living theatre for students who wish to work at the craft of creating theatre. Majoring in various departments, the students bring to the Playhouse their special abilities and the experience of such courses as those listed. Students participate in staged productions of both the classic and the experimental, dance, opera, cabaret, musical ensemble, and children's theatre. The Gilbert and Sullivan and the French, Greek, and Spanish clubs work in close cooperation with the theatre program. Students also have the opportunity to tour with the medieval theatre touring group and with Theatre in a Box (children's theatre).

Ms. Luz Castaños advises theatre students, and all of the theatre staff are available for discussion and conference. For further information consult the theatre office.

Students contemplating a career in the theatre should see the announcement on the Program in the Arts, page 82, and should consult the Director of the Playhouse at the earliest possible time.

There is no major or minor in Theatre, but students may concentrate on theatre either through the English Department or the Program in the Arts.

Among the courses concerned with the theatre are these, described in detail in the departmental announcements. For other courses offered in the University, please consult the Director of the Playhouse.

The purpose of the Urban Affairs Program is to develop understanding of the basic institutions, problems and achievements of city life.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major in Urban Affairs can be taken only in conjunction with a concentration in one of the regular departments. Normally the student chooses as major adviser the member of the committee from the department in which she intends to concentrate.

In order to major in Urban Affairs a student must fulfill the following requirements:

a) Eight courses distributed as follows:

One course dealing primarily with urban subject matter in each of three of the following departments from among those courses indicated:

Anthropology V 3100
Economics W 3228
History W 4673 or W 4674
Political Science V 3313
Sociology V 3265
or Sociology V 3324
(or their equivalents)

Urban Societies
The Urban Economy
American Urban History
American Urban Politics
Minorities in American Life
Urban Sociology

One course dealing primarily with urban subject matter from a list approved by the committee in each of two other departments, such as art history, English, geography, psychology, biology, architecture, and urban planning. The list of specific courses and of the departments that offer concentrations for urban affairs majors is available at the office of the Chairman and of the Program Director.

Junior Colloquium BC 3545:
Urban Achievements
BC 3546: Urban Problems
Senior Colloquium
BC 3964: Urban Prospects

Urban Affairs BC 3964

and

b) The satisfactory completion of a concentration in one of the participating departments consisting of not fewer than five courses and the writing in that department of a senior thesis on an urban topic to be approved by the committee.

Urban Affairs

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

There is no minor in Urban Affairs.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BC 3535x. Colloquium in Urban Administration and Management.

Processes of administration and management in urban organizations. Executive leadership, decision-making, bureaucracy, budgeting and personnel.—K. Yatrakis.

Prerequisite: Political Science BC 3001 or V 3313, or the equivalent. Enrollment limited to ca. 20 students.

4 points. Th 2:10-4:00.

BC 3537x. Workshop in Urban Administration and Management.

Resources of New York City utilized to gain firsthand experience of administrative and managerial processes through unpaid internships of 8-10 hours per week.—K. Yatrakis.

Corequisite: Urban Affairs BC 3535x.

2 points. Biweekly meeting to be arranged.

BC 3545x-BC 3546y. Junior Colloquium in Urban Affairs.

Autumn Term: Urban Achievements. Urbanization, using various methods, concepts, and materials. Origin and current status of urban problems. Spring Term: Urban Problems. Problems that currently afflict urban areas and assessment of attempted solutions. Problems of urban development, housing, education, poverty, transportation, and health.—BC 3545: T. Bender; BC 3546: E. Fuchs.

Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to 15-20 students.

4 points.

BC 3545: Tu 11:00-12:50.

BC 3546: Tu 2:10-4:00.

BC 3964y. Senior Colloquium in Urban Affairs: Urban Prospects.

Future prospects of cities and metropolitan areas; reports on research being conducted for the senior thesis in the department of concentration.—K. Yatrakis.

Open only to senior majors.

4 points. Tu 2:10-4:00.

Political Science—Urban Affairs V 3994x-V 3995y.

New York area undergraduate research program. An ongoing program that develops a social research project from conceptualization to final report. Using New York City as a research laboratory, students choose different topics each year for study. Under the guidance of the faculty coordinator, students clarify basic theoretical issues related to the research problem; operationalize a series of empirical questions; collect evidence to test hypotheses; analyze the data using a variety of social science techniques; produce reports of basic findings. Students individually and in small groups learn many of the basic tools used by social scientists. Topic for 1983-84: Crime and criminal justice.—E. Fuchs.

Prerequisite: Enrollment limited to 10-15 students, selected by application only to the instructor. Junior or senior standing is required. Participation is for two terms.

Note: Barnard Urban Affairs majors with a Political Science concentrate have the option to use this course to satisfy the senior thesis requirement with the approval of the Political Science department.

4 points. Tu 4:10-6:00.

Women's Studies

The Women's Studies Program is an interdisciplinary program for students who wish to explore the basic questions raised by the new scholarship on women. Some of the issues touched upon in this field are: sex roles, sex differences, and the concepts of femininity and masculinity; the roles of women in culture and society, past and present, and their implications for the roles of men; questions about the distribution of power, work, and resources in the public and private domains; and the symbolic representations of gender and identity in literature, religion, and art.

Early in their sophomore year, students interested in the major should consult the Chair or any one of the faculty members teaching Women's Studies courses for a list of advisers and required courses in the disciplines of concentration.

Students also have the option of electing a joint or double major (see p. 35); and have access to Columbia graduate courses, as well as V-courses, since some cover special areas not otherwise available at Barnard.

Complementing the Women's Studies Program, the Barnard Women's Center maintains an extensive and expanding resource collection on women's issues. The Center also sponsors monthly women's issues luncheons, a yearly conference, The Scholar and the Feminist, devoted to the exploration of the relationship of feminist studies to traditional scholarship, and the Reid Lectureship which brings to the campus distinguished women who have proved themselves to be responsive to women's concerns.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Majors in the program are trained in interdisciplinary research skills, and focus their studies in one of two areas of specialization: history/humanities or the social sciences. An individual area of study may be developed, in special cases, in consultation with a member of the Women's Studies Committee. The major in Women's Studies is taken in conjunction with a concentration in one of the departmental disciplines.

The requirements for the major are 14 courses to be distributed as follows:

Women's Studies BC 3111	Major Texts of the Feminist Tradition
Women's Studies BC 3112	Colloquium in Women's Studies
Women's Studies BC 3521-BC 3522	Senior Research Seminar

5 other courses in Women's Studies (see listing below), at least three in the student's area of specialization and at least one in another area; and

5 courses other than Women's Studies courses in the department of the student's concentration, to be selected in consultation with a member of that department.

The thesis course, Women's Studies BC 3521-BC 3522 provides an opportunity for senior majors to engage in original, interdisciplinary research, and to bring to bear the theoretical emphasis of Women's Studies scholarship on a particular area of empirical investigation. Further, in the senior seminar, majors have the opportunity to discuss methodological issues and problems of research in a directed and supportive environment.

Special projects using the city's resources may be developed into term papers or incorporated into the senior essay. An extensive project under the sponsorship of at least two faculty members may be offered for course credit as Women's Studies BC 3599, Independent Study.

Women's Studies

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

No minor is offered in Women's Studies.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

STUDY IN PARIS WOMEN'S STUDIES INSTITUTE

The Columbia/Barnard Reid Hall Programs' Women's Studies Institute, offered in conjunction with the Women's Studies Program at Barnard College, will be the first women's studies program in France sponsored by an American university. The Institute will comprise the following four courses in the 1984 spring semester.

Institute prerequisites: French 21, 22 or the equivalent, plus two semesters of work in Women's Studies.

History-Women's Studies H 3550y.
Women and Society.

Although the theme of this course will vary from one year to another, it will consistently focus on some aspect of women and society.—Instructor to be arranged.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

French-Women's Studies H 3450y.
Contemporary French Thought and Feminist Theory: Critical Approaches to Women and Literature.

Emphasis on the issues of gender as they affect the production of and responses to theoretical and literary texts.—N. Huston.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

French H 3606y. Supervised Study in the French University System.

Special study in the French university system under the supervision of the Director of Studies. This course is structured with the flexibility to permit either further concentration in Women's Studies or distribution into other areas.—Instructor to be announced.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

French H 3442y. Advanced Composition and Explication.

Morphology and syntax. Thematic readings are used for analysis and oral reports as well as for intensive training in composition. Four hours per week. Fifteen weeks.—S. Lecointre.

XIV. The Associate Alumnae

The Associate Alumnae of Barnard College is comprised of 24,000 members from all fifty states of the Union and more than 63 countries abroad. Members include all who have completed a year or more of study at Barnard and have left in good academic standing as well as those who hold a Barnard degree. There are no alumnae dues. Barnard alumnae regularly receive Barnard Alumnae magazine, Barnard Reporter newsletter, and invitations to alumnae events and other annual academic and career programs.

The Associate Alumnae serve the College in three important ways: keeping local high school students informed about Barnard; interpreting Barnard to the community in general; and voluntarily aiding in the support of the College.

Alumnae Council, a nationwide group of alumnae leaders, meets annually on campus for the exchange of ideas and to receive updated information on the College so they may continue to represent Barnard effectively.

More than 50 clubs and informal local groups of Barnard alumnae in the United States and abroad form a network that makes it possible for Barnard alumnae to find one another. Alumnae traveling or moving to a new location may call the Office of Alumnae Affairs for alumnae contacts in the United States and abroad.

The Associate Alumnae is governed by a 20 member board elected annually by all Barnard alumnae. Four alumnae are elected to represent the Associate Alumnae on the Board of Trustees of Barnard College. The central office of the Associate Alumnae is the Office of Alumnae Affairs on campus.

XV. Barnard Area Representatives

Barnard Area Representatives (BARs) are qualified alumnae appointed by the Admissions and Alumnae Offices who act in liaison capacity between the College and prospective students, parents, and high school counselors. BARs frequently attend college information meetings at secondary schools, host informal gatherings for prospective students, and conduct local interviews. High school students considering Barnard and interested in speaking with a BAR may arrange an interview by writing to the individual nearest them. A listing of the BARs follows.
